FLEEING FELONS FACE TRAP

'BUILDING NAVY UP TO TREATY,' U. S. TO WORLD

British Hint to Halt Program Fails.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The United States, under navy loving President Roosevelt, today declined British suggestions for cutting down the American naval building program.

The English had asked that the United States abandon the building of four new type cruisers, which have been ordered, on the ground that if this country puts such war vessels on the seas Japan will be eager to follow suit.

For Balanced Strength.

The President's love for the sea and for ships long antedates his service as assistant secretary of the navy during the United States participation in the the world war. He has concluded the United States needed those four ships to have balanced naval strength. The disarmament session at Geneva and its relations to the program were not mentioned in the state department note.

That statement simply revealed that the building program will go ahead. The ships, contracted with others in the 238 million dollar program authorized by the President as a public works relief measure, are calculated greatly to enhance the power and cruising facility of the American navy.

Sticks to Building Plans.

The communique of the state department follows:

"In reply to suggestions from the British government that the laying down of any six inch gun cruisers larger than those now in existence might be deferred during the life of the disarmament conference or at least pending further discussion of the qualitative limitations of future ships, the American government has replied that it did not see its way clear to alter its delayed naval construction program or to suspend the laying down of any projected ships."

The ships in question are four 10,000 ton, six inch gun cruisers, the Savannah, the Nashville, the Brooklyn, and the Philadelphia.

For some years, it was explained, the British have engaged in argument with American naval experts on the tonnage of six inch gun cruisers, the British view being that 7,000 is an ample tonnage.

For Longer Cruising Radius.

In the London naval treaty, however, due to American insistence, the limit for six inch gun cruiser construction was fixed at 10,000 tons. None has been laid down previously by any government, the tonnage of the American cruisers being 7,050, the British 7,000, and the Japanese 8,000. Japan has built several new cruisers at 8,000 tons, mounted with six inch guns.

The argument advanced by American experts is that the United States must have cruisers capable of long nonstop voyages, able to cruise without difficulty to the Philippines and other far flung American possessions. The oceans are dotted with British naval bases.

The cruisers at 10,000 tons will be able to carry more six inch guns.

Rests on Japan's Attitude.

The plea of the British for the United States to halt the building of the large cruisers was made to Norman Davis, President Roosevelt's roving ambassador, chief delegate to the disarmament conference. Mr. Davis was assured that England had no thought of a conflict with the United States, but that the attitude of Japan was the compelling motive in seeking a delay in the American program.

In addition to the four cruisers, the American building program provides for two aircraft carriers, 24 destroyers, four submarines, and one heavy cruiser. The total tonnage of these 35 vessels is 134,000.

American retorts are to the effect that the United States has lagged far behind both England and Japan in naval construction. The United States, since the Washington naval conference, has laid down 37 vessels, with a tonnage of 192,890. Of this number, 31 have been of treaty types, with a tonnage of 190,420, and six of non-treaty types, with a tonnage of 2,470.

Great Britain, in the same period, has laid down 102 vessels of treaty types totaling 367,643 tons, and 37 of non-treaty types, totaling 83,083 tons; 139 vessels in all with a total tonnage of 450,726.

Japan has laid down 116 treaty type vessels, totaling 288,830 tons, and 38 non-treaty types or a grand total of 154 vessels with a total tonnage of 381,944.

EX-POLICEMAN EXPLAINS RAID IN LANG TRIAL

Ordered by the Late Mayor, He Says.

The late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, according to court testimony yesterday, feared that a Capone hoodlum known as "Little New York" had been imported to Chicago to kill him and for that reason ordered the raid last December on the so-called hoodlum headquarters in a loop office building. During this raid Detective Harry Lang shot and severely wounded Frank Nitti, a relative of Al Capone and one of the leaders of the old Capone gang, and the policeman is now on trial before a jury in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's Criminal court on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

Harry Miller, discharged policeman and a partner of Lang on the former mayor's hoodlum squad, told of the fears of Mr. Cermak regarding the Capone gangsters. He was called to the witness stand yesterday afternoon as a court's witness after Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty had said he would not vouch for Miller's testimony.

No Testimony on Newberry.

Although Miller testified that Mayor Cermak himself had told him the location of the gang syndicate headquarters, he did not give any testimony regarding the rumors that Ted Newberry, north side gang chief, suggested that Lang murder Nitti, who was Newberry's rival in gangland. He had testified concerning the Newberry rumors before the grand jury.

The closest Prosecutor Dougherty came to bringing up the Newberry story was while cross-examining Miller. He asked Miller if he had not given considerable other testimony before the grand jury as "hearsay" at the time he was a witness. Miller answered that he had given such testimony to the grand jurors, but the prosecutor did not ask him to repeat it to the jury which is to decide Lang's fate. The matter was dropped with the one question, and the Newberry murder plot story was not brought out.

"Instructions from Cermak."

The testimony regarding Mr. Cermak's personal direction of the gangster raids was given by Miller when he was examined by Attorneys William A. Rittenhouse and Abe Marovitz, representing Lang. He had not made any mention of the late mayor's connection with the raid when he was examined by the prosecutor. His testimony was as follows:

Q.—How did you and Lang come to make the raid? A.—The Saturday night previous Mayor Cermak gave me the address.

Q.—Relate the circumstances. A.—We had taken the mayor to his home at 2348 South Millard avenue about midnight. He called Lang and I to one side.

Q.—Let me interrupt you. Did you tell the grand jury who sent you to make this raid? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Now go ahead and tell this court and jury the conversation you had with the late Mayor Cermak. A.—We were standing on the sidewalk and he called us aside. He gave us the address he got from his undercover man. He said, "This is the address where you will find Nitti, Little New York and several others." He said he would have another address in another building later. He said we should be careful when we made the raid. He said after we arrested them to send them to the bureau where "I will have an opportunity to talk to them."

"Monday Chosen for Raid."

Q.—Did he tell you when to make the raid? A.—Yes, he said Monday was a good time because that was pay off day for them.

Q.—Pay off to what? A.—The so called syndicate.

Q.—Did you ever talk to Mr. Cermak about threats on his life? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Did he say whom he suspected? A.—He did.

Q.—Who? A.—Little New York, the mayor said, was the man he feared. He was the man imported here to kill him.

Q.—Was Mr. Cermak campaigning against crime? A.—Yes.

Q.—And was it the duty of Lang

Ford Workers Go on Strike at Chester Plant

Chester, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Demanding a longer work week and a higher minimum pay, several thousand employés of the Chester plant of the Ford Motor company went on strike today.

The movement was more or less secretly started and the order to walk out came suddenly when the word was in all departments.

At first officials of the plant denied there was a walkout, but later admitted that a large part of the force had quit. There was no official word from the company representatives here as to what action Henry Ford would take.

Ask Five Day Week.

Leaders among the men said the workers are asking for a five day week with minimum pay of $25 a week.

Last week the plant was placed on a four day week of eight hours a day with minimum pay at 50 cents an hour. The leaders said the men were dissatisfied with the $16 a week minimum and contend it is not a living wage.

The number on strike was estimated by the leaders of the walkout at 4,000 to 5,000.

Thousands Quit in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Mechanics' Educational society spokesmen claimed tonight that 8,000 tool and die makers had responded to a strike order issued this afternoon and that two thousand more are expected to walk out within twenty-four hours.

The society has a membership of 11,000 here, most of the men being employed in automobile factories. Should the strike reach the proportions claimed, another 25,000 automotive employés probably would be left without work.

Jay J. Griffen, chairman of the strike committee, said the strike was called in sympathy with the walkout of several hundred society members in Flint automobile plants last week and also to force recognition of their organization.

The strikers said they were drafting other demands, including wages ranging from $1 to $1.50 an hour and a thirty hour week. The present scale, they said, is from 75 cents to $1.15 an hour.

Officials of the local auto plants maintained silence, saying they had no knowledge of any walkouts.

$10,000 THREAT TO MRS. JOSEPH LONG, POLICE ARE TOLD

Two policemen were detailed last night to guard the fourth floor apartment of Mrs. Joseph B. Long at 1540 Lake Shore drive, pending investigation of a report that she had received a threatening letter demanding the payment of $10,000. Mrs. Long, a wealthy society woman, is the widow of a Chicago manufacturer from whom she inherited her fortune. She is a former president of the Drama league.

The report of the threatening letter was made to the police by Clarence K. Peck, an insurance broker who resides at 40 West Schiller street. Mr. Peck said he had acted at the request of a man known to him only as Ike Dunlap, of Kansas City, whom he described as a friend of Mrs. Long.

The police said they had not seen the letter which they understood to be in the possession of Dunlap. Neither Dunlap nor Mrs. Long could be reached last night. It was reported that Dunlap was to have a conference with policemen this morning.

Verdict Scared Out of Jury by Los Angeles Quake Holds

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The Appellate court today upheld the verdict of a jury which last March 10 convicted Herbert Odza of three charges of grand theft. Odza appealed the verdict and assigned as grounds that the jury, while deliberating, was so alarmed by the March 10 earthquake that it reached a hurried decision in order to get out of the building.

Deluge Routs Thousands of Fair Visitors

Most of the 61,173 persons who entered the gates of A Century of Progress yesterday were drenched by heavy showers and had to go home. So serious was the situation created by the downpour that by 10 p. m. only 12,752 were still on the grounds and all but three well roofed concessions had closed, as had all the exhibit buildings.

The total precipitation for the twenty-four hours ended at 7 p. m. was 2.18 inches. One shower, lasting from 1:54 p. m. to 1:59 p. m., brought .41 of an inch, equaling the record for any five minutes in September, set on the 5th in 1920.

Basements, Viaducts Flooded.

The tremendous deluge, which brought the precipitation since Jan. 1 to approximately normal, flooded basements and viaducts on all sides of Chicago, caused delays in street car service, and interrupted the air mail service. Today's forecast is for clouded skies and cooler and only slight prospects of more rain.

Attendance at the Fair up to closing of the gates at 11:30 p. m. was 61,173. At 10 p. m., however, only a little more than 12,000 were on the grounds and these were leaving rapidly. Those who went to the Fair early caught the full effects of the heaviest shower and left during the afternoon. There was an exodus at the rate of 5,000 to 6,000 an hour after 6 p. m.

Concessions Give Up.

All the outdoor and tented concessions on the Midway gave up attempts to remain open long before nightfall. The Belgian village was flooded, with water standing several inches deep on the lower levels. The Streets of Paris, which put on no shows during the evening, closed at 9 p. m., and the Oriental gardens also were dark.

Many of the larger exhibit buildings were found to have leaky roofs. Old Mexico, the German American building, and Hollywood remained open, but with small crowds in the late evening. The only concessionaires who reported they were thriving were the vendors of rubber capes. They sold thousands.

Legion Plans Greeting Here for Roosevelt

Hopes were expressed yesterday that President Roosevelt will visit Chicago and A Century of Progress exposition during the American Legion convention, which will begin next Monday and continue through Thursday.

Urgent invitations have been sent to the President and National Commander Louis A. Johnson of the Legion said that he was confident of Mr. Roosevelt's coming and was "proceeding on the assumption he would be here." Chicago business men and officials of the World's Fair have also added their requests that the President make the trip.

No Promises from Roosevelt.

No promise of this could be obtained in Washington yesterday or at Hyde Park, where the President is spending the week. The President was said only to have assured Commander Johnson he would come if he found it possible.

It was suggested, however, that Mr. Roosevelt could leave his ancestral home at Hyde Park, N. Y., Sunday, arrive here Monday morning and after attending a session of the Legion convention visit the Fair and leave the same evening for the return trip to Hyde Park.

Some of the President's advisers, it is known, have urged him not to attend the convention, on the ground that he should not expose himself to large crowds and possible confusion while he is carrying so many political and economic responsibilities.

Plans Great Demonstration.

Commander Johnson said, however, that he was making plans for a great demonstration in the event the visit materializes and that he did not believe anything would prevent it.

It was made known yesterday at the Legion headquarters, 105 South Dearborn street, that the veterans' bonus bill, long a political football, would be kept in the background during the convention.

According to Commander Johnson, only five of the fifty-eight territorial departments have submitted resolutions asking payment of the bonus and two of these are conditional. The reason, he explained, is that the Legion has become 100 per cent NRA and in some towns the Legion and the NRA are almost synonymous. Under such circumstances, the commander said, a demand for government millions in cash would seem inconsistent.

The Rehabilitation Program.

Commander Johnson said he believed a four point rehabilitation program, which would modify some of the Roosevelt curtailments of veterans' care, will be accepted by the convention with little discussion. The program, drawn by Edward L. Hayes, Decatur lawyer, who is the Illinois candidate for national commander, has already been adopted by the eight areas of the Legion.

Despite this unanimity most of the 411 resolutions awaiting convention action deal with the question of veterans' care, it was pointed out. Commander Johnson said that less than 10 per cent of the members of the Legion have ever drawn compensation from the government.

It is expected that the veterans will demand a United States navy equal to any in the world and an adequate army. Development of commercial aviation along lines that will guarantee the armed forces of the country adequate air service also will be recommended at the convention, it was said.

TEN CONVICTS BREAK PRISON; SHOOT GUARD

Steal Indiana Cars and Sheriff.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Ten desperate convicts who yesterday afternoon slugged and shot their way out of the Indiana state prison here were being hunted early today, principally in farming districts near here, by posses comprising more than 500 vigilantes, police, and deputy sheriffs.

Fears for the safety of Sheriff Charles Neel of Harrison county, who was kidnaped in his automobile by four of the felons, were expressed when no trace of him or his captors had been found after several hours' search. Seven of the convicts were armed and it was believed possible they may have harmed the sheriff when they learned the authorities were closing in on them.

Fugitives Believed Surrounded.

A hundred or more of the searchers believed they had surrounded the sheriff's captors in a sparsely wooded district eight miles southwest of Chesterton, Ind. The fugitives and their prisoner fled on foot into the section after wrecking the sheriff's car and also the automobile of Cecil Spanier, a farmer living near Valparaiso.

Darkness and rain greatly impeded the man hunt, but the vigilantes kept the district surrounded and hoped to seize their quarry when daylight came. It was believed the men were still on foot and had not gone far else their reappearance and theft of a car would have been reported.

Five other convicts riding in the automobile of Herman Van Valkenberg, whom they ejected near the prison, appeared at the farm of Valley Warner, four miles north of Wanatah, Ind. They stayed there until nightfall, holding prisoners Warner and a mailman, who walked in while they were there. After dark they drove away, heading south.

Motorist Sees Fleeing Felon.

The tenth felon was reported seen on the outskirts of Michigan City. He was running when a motorist saw him. It is believed he probably caught a ride with an autoist driving away from the state prison who was unaware of the jail break. All the escaping men were heading in the general direction of southwest.

In forcing their way to freedom the convicts shot and perhaps fatally wounded Clerk Finley Carson, 72 years old. They also slugged several guards and officials of the institution.

Those Who Fled Prison.

The men at large, the sentences they were serving, the crimes for which they were convicted and the length of time they had served follow:

Joseph Jenkins, life term for murder; had served four years.

John Burns, life term for murder; had served thirteen years. He also has a Chicago record.

Edward Shouse, 25 year sentence for robbery; had served three years.

Russell Clark, 20 year sentence for bank robbery; had served six years.

Walter Dieterich, life term for bank robbery; had served two years.

Joe Fox, life term for bank robbery; had served three years.

Harry Pierpont, sentenced to 10 to 20 years for robbery; had served eight years.

John Hamilton, sentenced to 25 years for robbery; had served two years.

James Clark, life term for robbery; had served two years.

Charles Mackley, sentenced to 10 to 20 years for robbery; had served five years.

Hints at Chicago Hoodlums.

A remark by one of the convicts indicated that Daniel McGeoghagen, recently brought to the prison with two companions to serve 25 years for the robbery of a bank at Culver, had a hand in plotting the escape. After making a prisoner of Assistant Warden Albert Evans, the convicts told him that they intended to find Chief Deputy Warden D. H. Claudy and force him to liberate McGeoghagen and his two companions, Jack Gray and Edward Murphy, from the solitary confinement row. Evans convinced them that Claudy was not in the prison, and the plan was abandoned.

McGeoghagen and his pals, also from Chicago, were locked up last week after three pistols, wrapped in sound proof material were thrown over the outer wall of the prison, in the belief that the pistols were intended for them. A convict who found the guns informed prison officials. The pistols were recovered.

Trap Two Prison Officials.

At 2 o'clock, Russell Clark and Pierpont stepped up to G. H. Stevens, superintendent of the shirt factory, and told him that one of the guards wanted him in the basement of the factory. Unsuspecting, Stevens walked down a flight of stairs into the cellar and was immediately seized by the eight convicts waiting there.

Stevens was shoved into a small tunnel which connects the shirt factory with a power house and one of the convicts kept a gun pressed against his forehead.

Stevens and Evans then were forced to lead the convicts from the shirt factory as if they were marching as a prison group engaged in routine work. The prisoners concealed their weapons by carrying bundles of shirts. They also carried a long steel bar, similarly hidden.

Under the eyes of the guards upon the walls the little procession wended its way through the streets of the prison city. Hundreds of convicts were in the yard, also unaware that ten of their fellows were making a desperate bid for freedom in front of them.

The ten convicts, marching in step, with Supt. Stevens and Assistant Warden Evans at their head, proceeded past cellhouses and workshops. They swung smartly around a corner and approached the administration building. The two officials at the head of the column, aware of the hidden guns trained on them, made no attempt to sound a warning.

This extraordinary procession approached the first of the three steel gates which yet separated them from freedom. Guard Frank Swanson was stationed there.

Warned, Guard Opens Gate.

Swanson quickly swung open the gate. He, too, was forced to march in front of the convicts. The second gate was approached. Guard Guy Burklow was stationed at that gate. The convicts displayed their weapons and Burklow quickly unlocked the gate and the ten convicts, now captors of four officials, hurried to the last gate.

The convicts' nerves were on edge now, so near to success. Guard Fred Wellnitz, keeper of the third gate, was slugged with pistol butts and knocked unconscious. When Assistant Warden Evans remonstrated he was also struck. The keys to the last gate were taken from Guard Wellnitz and the gate unlocked. The convicts swept into the offices of the administration building.

"Let's get Mutch," they cried, and leaped upon him. Two of them led Mutch to the right, where they attempted to force him to open up the arsenal where scores of submachine guns and rifles are kept.

Shoot Aged Prison Clerk.

Mutch refused and was beaten until he slumped to the floor. The other convicts passed into a large office.

There eight clerks, two of them women, were working. They were herded into a vault. Carson, the elderly clerk, was slow in obeying. One of the convicts, with an oath, fired twice at him. He received one bullet in the stomach, the other in his thigh.

Warden Louis E. Kunkel also was in the office. The prisoners apparently did not recognize him and he was also forced into the vault.

The convicts prepared to depart from the main entrance. They came upon Sheriff Neel and Dr. L. B. Wolf entering. One group seized Neel and forced him into his automobile which he had just parked. They drove off.

The other prisoners ran down the concrete sidewalk to the street. Waving their pistols and shouting, they stopped an automobile driven by Herbert Van Valkenberg. With him were his wife and Mrs. Minnie Schultz, 39 years old, a relative. All live in Oswego, Ill.

The three passengers were forced out and all the convicts but two entered the car and sped away. The remaining two are believed to have stopped and stolen another car, although no report of such a theft had been made tonight.

It was possible, the police said, that the driver had been kidnaped as was Sheriff Neel.

Pay for Their Gas.

The next report of any of the convicts came from Burdick, Ind., 15 miles south of Michigan City. Mrs. John D. Miller, owner of a gasoline filling station there, reported that an automobile, apparently the one containing the kidnaped sheriff, stopped for gas. One of the men in the car flung her a $10 bill, she said, and the car speeded away.

Still later came the report of Sheriff Neel's release near Valparaiso.

The convicts were all clothed in the regulation prison uniform, blue shirts and blue trousers, when they escaped. Known as none were Chicago criminals, all having been sentenced from cities in central Indiana.

Search Starts at Once.

A few minutes after the escape became known searching parties were organized. The state police were notified and began cruising the roads and hunting through the rain swept countryside. The fugitives were aided by a moonless night and intermittent rains.

Naval reserve forces and vigilante bands, of which there is one in almost every Indiana town, joined the man hunt until there were more than 500 persons searching the territory. The convicts would have plenty of places to hide in this region, it was pointed out.

DEPUTY WARDEN TELLS OWN STORY OF PRISON BREAK

Forced to Aid Felons at Michigan City.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 26.—(AP)—G. H. Stevens, superintendent of the shirt factory, tonight told the following story of the prison break:

"I was upstairs on the second floor of the shirt factory when a prisoner, Dieterich, came up and said there were a couple of men downstairs to buy shirts.

"I went down to the basement storeroom where on occasion officials of the prison come in to buy shirts. As soon as I got there I heard another prisoner [Hamilton] say, 'Turn around, Stevens, we're going home and you're going to lead us out. There won't be any rough stuff if you just come along and mind your business.'

Official Faces Pistol.

"He had me covered with a .45 automatic. The two of them put me in a tunnel where there were three others of the gang. In a moment they said it was too hot in there and they took me around behind some racks. Then Albert Evans, an assistant deputy superintendent who works outside, came in and they stuck him up, putting him back there with me.

"After the rest of the gang came in, most of them with automatics, one of my foremen, Dudley Triplett, came in and they put the guns on him and tied him up.

"A few other prisoners, apparently not members of the gang engineering the break, came in and they—about five of them, I guess—were locked in the tunnel.

Forced to Lead Group.

"We were down there altogether about 15 minutes. Then they put me at the head of the procession, with a stack of shirts in my arms and Evans at the rear and started for the prison office building. We walked across about 600 feet of open prison yard between the factory and the guard room [the first gate between the open yard and the outside], seeing a few prisoners here and there, but no one said anything.

"Apparently it seemed that the prisoners with me were delivering a big order of shirts. They had their guns covered up with stacks of shirts. Guard Charles Swanson opened the gate to the guard room, then Turnkey Guy Burklow let me in the first of two gates that enclose the turnkey's cage. Off that room, to one side opens the warden's office and to the other side the general office.

Begin to Get Rough.

"It wasn't until they were inside the cage that they got rough. They pushed me roughly to one side and clubbed Turnkey Fred Wellnitz, who was in the cage and was the guardian of the outer gate, the one leading to the lobby. There was so much confusion after that that I don't recall exactly what they did except that they swarmed around the offices for about three minutes, then they rushed out and commandeered Neel's car."

MOVIE OPERATOR OFFICIAL FREED IN ASSAULT CASE

The surprise testimony of a state witness brought about the dismissal yesterday of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Dr. Emmett M. Quinn, a dentist, who is steward of the Motion Picture Operators' union. Judge J. William Brooks of the Municipal Jury court heard the case without a jury.

The complainant, Clyde Osterberg, a union operator, accused Quinn of beating him with a revolver. Osterberg said he had gone to the offices of the union to protest against the small pay Quinn was giving him as his "helper" at the World's Fair and at a loop theater. The men scuffled and exchanged blows, and then Quinn obtained the weapon, Osterberg testified.

Before the trial started, Osterberg told newspaper men that he had two witnesses to substantiate his story. Only one of them did. The other, Alfred Taylor, a permit operator, testified that he had seen the fight and that Quinn did not have a revolver in his hand at any time. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine prosecuted the case.

PRISONER SAWS BARS; ESCAPES FROM POLICE

Sam Greeno, 16 years old, 1309 Cleveland avenue, escaped from the bureau of identification cell yesterday by sawing through a bar and climbing down the fire escape from the fifth floor of the police building at 1121 South State street. Greeno had been held to the grand jury in bond of $20,000 in the Boys' court on charges of robbery.

SAM GREENO.

A week ago while Greeno waited in a cell to be taken to the Boys' court another prisoner reported that he was cutting at a bar with a hack saw blade. Greeno was searched thoroughly, but police were unable to find the saw blade. He was returned to the cell and searched again when another prisoner reported he was cutting at the bar. The second search revealed nothing and Greeno was returned to jail when the case was continued until yesterday.

His absence was noted shortly after his escape yesterday, but a police searching party was unable to find him in the neighborhood.

SHOOT AND SEIZE BANDIT IN LOOP BANK ROBBERY

One bandit was shot and captured and a second routed without loot yesterday by employés of the Bank of Nova Scotia on the second floor at 105 West Monroe street. The wounded bandit identified himself as Bernard Seco at the Iroquois hospital and said that his companion is Harry Folsen, 23 years old, 820 West Madison street.

The two bandits waited for Percy V. Colton, an accountant, as he opened the bank yesterday morning and forced him to lie on the floor. Francis J. McElherne, a teller, and Walter R. Davies, ledger keeper, entered and were forced to join Colton on the floor.

The bandits ordered Colton to open the safe in which $15,000 is kept. William H. Davies, the bank manager, entered as Colton was protesting that a time lock controlled the mechanism. Davies leaped at one of the bandits, and the three employés leaped to their feet and joined the rough and tumble.

Davies and Colton were cut about the head as the robbers struck out with their revolvers in an attempt to escape. McElherne seized Seco's revolver and wounded the gunman in the neck. Seco staggered from the bank and was captured by Policeman Peter Gunkel. Folsen made his escape.

GUNMEN HOLD UP TAVERN.

Three gunmen took $25 in a robbery of a beer tavern at 1806 South Ridgeway avenue after lining the owner, Sam Gertz, and three customers against a wall early yesterday.

INHERITS A MILLION FROM CELL MATE IN LEAVENWORTH PRISON

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Fate and a prison cell made a wealthy man out of Charles Ward.

Ward, who today was elected president of Brown & Bigelow company, advertising concern, after serving as vice president and general manager, related the events leading from his incarceration in Leavenworth penitentiary to his being left one-third of the $3,000,000 estate of H. H. Bigelow.

Bigelow, millionaire St. Paul business man, recently was drowned. Nine years ago he had met Ward in a prison cell. Bigelow was convicted of income tax evasion and Ward of violating the revenue laws.

"I made Mr. Bigelow a promise in our cell at Leavenworth," said Ward, "and I told him I would be his friend as long as he lived."

They worked together in Leavenworth; Ward, a mechanical engineer, being chief engineer of the prison, with the millionaire advertising man as his helper.

PRISONERS RIOT IN PENNSYLVANIA —ATTACK WARDEN

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The entire convict population of the eastern penitentiary—1492 "long term" felons—revolted tonight and threw the old stone prison into the worst riot of its 103 years.

With smoke and flames shooting along the radiating corridors and yells that could be heard for four blocks in the thickly populated neighborhood, the rioters grabbed the warden, Herbert [Hard-boiled] J. Smith, and beat and slashed him severely before guards came to the rescue.

The convicts, enraged at the loss of their special privileges after an earlier attempted prison break, started the outbreak about an hour after they were locked in their cells for the night and the lights extinguished.

Igniting their mattresses, they shoved them through the bars of their cells into the corridors, setting up a flaming barrier that prevented the guards from entering the long tiers.

The riot was put down after firemen dirted streams of water on the convicts and state troopers arrived with machine guns and riot sticks to augment 100 city police.

POLICEMAN FOILS A HOLDUP BUT IS SHOT BY BANDIT

Policeman Frank Bartola was shot in the right shoulder and seriously wounded last night by a bandit with whom he exchanged shots at Ogden and Oakley avenues during an attempted holdup of a party of motorists. The robber escaped, apparently unhurt. Bartola was taken to the county hospital.

The gunman was standing beside the automobile of N. H. Cole, owner of the Cole Auto Parts company, 1475 South Michigan avenue, when the policeman arrived. In the car with Cole was D. W. Blanc, head of an auto parts concern in Coldwater, Mich., and Miss Sylvia Beckett, 27 years old, 4515 North Monticello avenue. The robber was pointing his revolver at Blanc and Miss Beckett, who were sitting in the back seat.

Attracted by Miss Beckett's screams, the policeman rushed up and drew his own weapon. The bandit whirled to face him and each fired several shots. The last of the gunman's bullets struck the policeman. Bartola, who is an army veteran, lives at 1307 Raleigh court.

INSANE GUNMAN SHOOTS 1, SEIZES 4, WOUNDS SELF

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 26.—A mad gunman here tonight within an hour shot and perhaps fatally wounded a taxicab driver, abducted James K. Moffitt, San Francisco banker and paper company president with two women and a chauffeur, scattered pedestrians with gunfire and then shot and wounded himself critically.

Moffitt and a service station attendant overpowered the man, threw him from the banker's car into the street and raced for a police station as the two women, whose names were not made public, screamed in terror.

The gunman, believed dying at Providence hospital, was identified by police as William Wallace, 29, steamship steward living in Los Angeles.

Police said the man apparently became insane when he was repulsed in an attempted reconciliation with his wife.

JUDGE LOWELL ACCUSED NOW IN PURE FOOD CASES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Federal Judge James A. Lowell, already under fire in congress for his decision involving a Negro wanted in Virginia for murder, today was disclosed as under investigation for his conduct of cases involving the shipment of poisonous ginger extract from Massachusetts to western states.

Congressman Gordon Browning of Tennessee, member of a subcommittee, said here today that charges against the jurist had been filed with the congressional committee on judiciary.

"The pure food interests complained about the manner in which Judge Lowell handled the cases of Max Reisman and Harry Gross, who were found guilty in the Jamaica ginger cases in his court a few years ago," said Browning.

The complaints were from New Jersey and about "the small fines and small sentences" imposed by Judge Lowell.

Resent Negro Ruling.

The last congress directed the judiciary committee to determine whether impeachment proceedings against Judge Lowell should be brought as a consequence of his decision in granting a writ of habeas corpus to George Crawford, Negro, wanted in Virginia for a double murder. Judge Lowell's decision granting the writ "because," he said, "Negroes were not permitted to serve on juries in Virginia," aroused southern congressmen.

The subcommittee of which Congressman Browning and Congressman Randolph Perkins of New Jersey are members, today heard testimony regarding both cases in a private session. Tomorrow Judge Lowell will be heard.

Many Poison Food Victims.

Investigation of the poisoned extract shipments was caused by the death or illness of many persons in western states.

The two year suspended sentence given Gross by Judge Lowell allegedly forestalled extraditing him to Kansas, where thousands of persons allegedly were affected, many fatally.

Squad Leader Wounded Battling with Hoodlums

Sergt. John Frieichel, leader of a detective squad, was slightly wounded in the arm yesterday in an automobile gun battle between the squad and four young hoodlums in a west side street. The hoodlums escaped.

CHARITY CARNIVAL UNDER FIRE; CHARGE QUESTIONABLE ACTS

A controversy over the distribution of the proceeds of a charity ball and carnival to be given on Oct. 3, 4, and 5 in the First Regiment armory was revealed yesterday when a member of the sponsoring committee withdrew. The affair is called the "NRA charity ball and carnival" by its sponsors, the Civic Charities Group, Inc. At the same time the Better Business bureau charged that questionable methods had been used in the promotion of the event.

Mrs. Laurence Heyworth, wife of a contractor and member of the board of the La Rabida sanitarium, who withdrew from the committee, said she had been asked by the promotion headquarters to join the committee on the promise that part of the proceeds would go to her favorite charity.

"When I returned from my summer home my name was on the letterhead, but the proceeds were to be divided between two charities only, the Disabled American Veterans and the infant home and day nursery of the Daughters of Zion," Mrs. Heyworth said.

The report of the Better Business bureau signed by G. W. MacDonald said: "Recent inquiries indicate misrepresentation in soliciting of advertising for the ball and the use of the letters NRA, which are not approved of by the Chicago Recovery council or the government.

"The Disabled American Veterans recently underwent a change of officers and the new officers advise that they found conditions in the association in bad shape. Our records indicate one questionable promotion after another sponsored by this group, money raised ostensibly for the D. A. V's having found its way into the pockets of the promoters.

ASK ROOSEVELT TO PEG DOLLAR, RETURN TO GOLD

Advisers Declare It Will Speed Recovery.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—With currency inflation rejected by the President for the time being at least Mr. Roosevelt is being strongly urged by some of his most influential advisers, it was learned today, to declare for early stabilization of the dollar and return to the gold standard at no distant date.

Supporting this movement, which is being led by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, are members of the federal reserve board. They have advised the President that a simple declaration of policy envisaging monetary stabilization and restoration of the gold standard would reassure the financial world to such an extent as to revive the languishing recovery program.

Industry Hesitant to Borrow.

To fears of currency inflation and general uncertainty of the monetary policies of the administration the sound money group attributes the drying up of the sources of credit and the resultant slowing down of the recovery machinery. Industries are hesitant to borrow, bankers are reluctant to lend and investors unwilling to buy industrial bonds so long as there is uncertainty of the value of the dollars in which such loans will be paid.

The fact that there virtually is no capital loan market in this country today is pointed to as a symptom of a serious ailment of our economic system which must be cured before recovery can be expected. Without a capital loan market business cannot be expected to expand in accord with the design of the NRA.

Reports are reaching Washington from many parts of the country that there is increasing disappointment at the failure of the NRA to achieve the expected results and that even the President is suffering a loss of prestige. One official expressed doubt today, however, that the President is aware of the danger of a breakdown of his whole undertaking due to uncertainty of his monetary course.

Study Commodity Dollar.

That Mr. Roosevelt is studying this matter, however, is indicated by the fact that accompanying him to New York today was Prof. James M. Rogers, who, together with Prof. George Warren, succeeded in interesting Mr. Roosevelt in the commodity dollar.

Stabilization of the dollar, if undertaken, would be effected through arrangements with Great Britain and France and there have been reports for a couple of days from European sources that the negotiations are already in progress. At the treasury, however, it was denied that any negotiations have been initiated.

Members of the sound money group say that it would be impossible to establish for some time the exact value at which the dollar might be stabilized. It might be at the present value of about 65 cents, to which it has declined in international exchange. On the other hand, developments in the next few months might bring the dollar back to par. What is being sought of the President is not a statement attempting to forecast the eventual valuation of the dollar, but merely a declaration that the dollar will be stabilized and the gold standard restored as soon as it proves feasible.

Stabilized by Nations.

One member of the federal reserve board hazarded the opinion that the dollar will be stabilized by international agreement before Thanksgiving and that return to the gold standard may be looked for some time next spring. It would be a qualified restoration of the gold standard, he thought, for gold would be held by the government and the reserve banks and not allowed to circulate.

The increasing value of potential credit which is not being drawn upon by industry in the present state of stalling of the economic machinery was disclosed by the federal reserve bulletin today. The excess reserves of the reserve banks which are available for loans rose in August to 625 million dollars. This is the largest volume of excess reserves since last January.

Controller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor reported today that depositors in closed banks were paid $270,647,352 between March 5 and Sept. 23.

Plans Short Vacation at Hyde Park.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt set aside his official cares today in order to come here to New York City, not in his capacity of chief executive, but as a father seeing his boy off on a trans-Atlantic journey.

He arrived in the chief city of his home state late this afternoon, in time to attend a family dinner celebrating the departure for Europe at midnight tonight of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt.

The trip from Washington was made by special train. It was the President's first appearance in New York City since last March 4. From a goodly crowd which lined the sidewalks as the presidential party drove away from the station came generous, if not tumultuous, applause.

Drives to His Home.

The President drove immediately to his home on 65th street, just off Park avenue. He was greeted by his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt Sr., and his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall. The arrival later of Mrs. Roosevelt, the first lady, from a visit to Boston completed the family party. The President said good-by to his son at home and did not go down to the docks to watch the Europa depart.

The New York visit is to be the preliminary to a ten days' stay away from Washington. Early tomorrow afternoon President Roosevelt will motor up the Hudson valley to spend a third period of vacation at his summer home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Returns Oct. 4.

According to present plans, he will remain there until Oct. 4, when he is due to return to New York City for a speech before the Catholic Mission society. He will leave for the return to Washington immediately following the address.

Great pains were taken to make tonight's and tomorrow morning's stay in New York strictly nonpartisan, in view of the mayoralty fight and the factional strife over the selection of a candidate to beat Tammany.

During the evening the President received and talked with Jesse Straus, American ambassador to France, but this visit was the only one allowed to violate the rule of no appointments laid down by the President in the face of numerous requests that he throw his influence toward one or the other of the anti-Tammany forces.

BLAZE ON ROOF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The Opera, famous Paris landmark, narrowly escaped destruction by fire tonight. A blaze which broke out under the roof of the huge structure was put out after hours of fighting by all available apparatus. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

The gay opera district was thronged for hours as after-theater crowds watched twenty fire fighting squads battle the flames. Getting at the blaze atop the rambling structure was a difficult task. The firemen broke a hole through the solid lead roof, which was built half a century ago, just as the flames were beginning to lick at the exceedingly inflammable wings and costumes in the building.

The building has just undergone an extensive overhauling, much to the disappointment of visiting Americans, who during the summer tried in vain to get a look at it through the thick net of scaffolding. The fire is believed to have been caused by soldering irons used by workmen on the lead roof during the day, which ignited the heavy beams under the roof.

HOOVERS LEAVE BY AUTO TODAY FOR MISSOURI

Fomer President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover will conclude their visit in Chicago today and will leave by automobile this forenoon. The hour of their departure will be determined by weather conditions. They will motor at least as far as Mr. Hoover's farm in Missouri, where they will stop for a time to view the estate, continuing on to their Palo Alto [Cal.] home either by car or train.

Yesterday Mr. Hoover was the guest of Profs. William F. Ogburn and Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago at a luncheon given at the Quadrangle club. Prof. Ogburn was director of research for the recent social trends report prepared for the former President, and Prof. Merriam was vice chairman of the commission.

Mr. Hoover remarked humorously, after the NRA had been mentioned, on the hours of labor and wages of his work. He declared he is working under a special code as the only individual in his employment group—that of ex-President. The remainder of the luncheon conversation centered on developments in economics and government.

FUMES AND FIRE FOLLOW BLAST.

Four employes of the Brennan Packing company, 4021 Normal avenue, were driven to the street yesterday by ammonia fumes that filled the plant after an explosion of the compressor in the refrigerating department. Fire that followed the explosion was extinguished with slight damage.

YOUTH ASKS BOY TO WOUND HIM; KILLED BY SHOT

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A 19 year old boy died alone on a tenement roof today in a futile gesture of bravado.

Joseph G. Gregorovio, a naval training student, borrowed $5 from his family's grocer and had the loan charged to his father's account and feared detection.

Said he to Louis Zelenka, his 17 year old friend:

"You either cut or shoot me slightly in the arm and then I can say I was held up."

Louis agreed and "sneaked my rifle."

"O. K., Louie, shoot," said Joe.

"I did my best," Louis told officers, "but I guess I was shaking a little, because, instead of grabbing his arm, Joe put his hand over on his chest and fell down.

"I said: 'Gee Joe, I've hit you in the wrong place.' 'It's o. k.,' he said, 'you go downstairs and go home and I'll stay here for a while and then go to Flower hospital and get this fixed up. It's all right.'"

Louis went home and hid the rifle. Soon after dawn he went back to the roof and found Joe's body.

3 U. S. OFFICIALS ARE INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Three commerce department officials were injured tonight, two seriously, when a big trimotored airplane in which they were making a test flight crashed near College Park, Md.

The injured were Rex Martin, assistant director of aeronautics in charge of airways; Chester H. McColl, personal aid to Secretary Roper, and W. T. Miller, superintendent of airways. They were rushed to hospitals here, where the condition of McColl and Miller was reported serious.

The three took off from College Park airport with Miller piloting. Department officials said they were to make some tests in the plane, which was especially equipped for radio work.

FAMINE, THIRST, DISEASE PERIL HURRICANE CITY

[Copyright: 1933: By the Associated Press.]

TAMPICO, Mexico, Sept. 26.—The known death toll from last Sunday's hurricane which buffeted this oil port for several hours was placed officially tonight as 54, with 850 known injured and much of the city laid waste.

It was feared, however, that many more bodies were buried in the debris of collapsed houses or had not been recovered from the water which swirled in from overflowing rivers to cover the low lying sections.

An Associated Press correspondent, arriving from Mexico City by airplane, the first to reach Tampico since the storm, found the city suffering from heavy property damage but without the high death toll at first feared.

Danger of Famine.

Danger of famine, thirst, and disease threatened the stricken city tonight as inhabitants set about rebuilding their homes or waited patiently for help to arrive.

How long it will be before arrival of supplies sent from Mexico City by the government is unknown as the railroad outside the city is under several feet of water and the harbor filled with mud and débris, preventing ships from entering.

Gen. Anselmo Macias, who is directing relief work and maintaining martial law, described the storm as a terrible catastrophe. He said every building in the city was damaged. Macias appealed to the government to rush supplies as the wheat store is sufficient for only three days and the remainder of the foodstuffs is rapidly being exhausted.

It is believed the total number of dead never will be known. It is said the injured will probably total well over 1,500, many of whom were treated at their homes or at the homes of neighbors.

No Americans Killed.

Mrs. W. E. Evans of the American consulate made a tour of hospitals and found no Americans or other foreigners among the dead or injured. She said she counted 20 bodies and saw at least as many more dead carried past her home.

From the air Tampico appeared as a twisted mass of wreckage. Roofs were torn off, trees uprooted, and streets littered with débris. The city was surrounded by water on three sides, in some places as high as four feet.

Several hundred persons were seen clustered on a railroad track at one point where it was above water, signaling to the plane.

All the buildings at Miramar, numbering about 50, already battered by last week's hurricane, were completely ruined. Steel warehouses along the Panuso river, belonging to the Standard Oil company and the Aguila Oil company were unroofed as if they had been flimsy wooden structures, and their metal frames twisted into eccentric shapes.

Dead Washed to Sea.

Gen. Macias said in an interview:

"I believe the number of dead will never be known, as many bodies in sections flooded by the Panuso river were undoubtedly washed to sea. We know the dead include four soldiers whose bodies we found today.

"Unless the railroad lines are repaired shortly there is grave danger of a food shortage. I have requested a dredge to hurry from Tampico to clear the harbor and allow ships to enter and leave."

The general said he had declared martial law Sunday night because the populace was demoralized and there was some looting and robbery.

At the height of the storm, which was most severe from 6 to 9 p. m., Sunday, prisoners in the municipal jail staged a concerted break and 15 succeeded in escaping. Two were shot and killed by guards.

The Tampico railway station was destroyed and all the small houses in Ilanos del Golfo, a village, were demolished by the stiff blow. All that remained today at the site of the former village was an immense lagoon. On the water floated debris and clothing.

U. S. Red Cross Gives $25,000.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The American Red Cross today gave $25,000 toward relief of hurricane sufferers at Tampico, Mexico. John Barton Payne, chairman, instructed Red Cross chapters in large cities to accept contributions to the Mexican relief fund.

19 KILLED, 200 HURT AS QUAKE DEMOLISHES VILLAGES IN ITALY

ROME, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Latest reports tonight showed 19 persons killed, approximately 200 injured, and hundreds made homeless in the earthquake which occurred in the Abruzzi mountain region in the early morning hours. That district has furnished thousands of emigrants to America.

Hundreds, still terrorized tonight, slept in open fields. Soldiers and Fascist militiamen erected villages of tents. The hospitals in the area were overtaxed with the injured.

All the dead and most of the injured came from small villages. The larger cities were spared serious victims, although they suffered the loss of many homes. Dispatches from the Ligurian coastal town of Savona said a tidal wave swept the city following a slight quake in the inland region. Three persons were drowned in nearby villages, several injured, and heavy damage reported. Residents of Sulmona, a city of 19,000, found scarcely a home without a damaged roof, but less than 30 persons were injured there. Six of the dead were at the town of Lama dei Peligni. A number of the injured were reported dying.

WOMAN IS STRUCK AND KILLED AS 3 AUTOS COLLIDE

An unidentified, gray haired woman about 55 years old was fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile driven by Peter Covello, 515 Wrightwood avenue, at Waveland avenue and Sheridan road. Covello attempted to stop his car and it was struck by two others, driven by Ray Barenbrugge, 819 Willow road, Winnetka, and George Sedinan, 6700 Magnolia. All the cars were damaged. The woman died soon afterward at the John B. Murphy hospital.

Fred Johnson, 68 years old, of Lockport, superintendent of the Republic Steel mills, was fatally injured, and his son, George, 36 years old, was slightly injured last night when their car was struck by a truck at 118 street and Avenue O. Both were taken to the South Chicago hospital, where the elder Johnson died. Police said the Johnsons had stopped their car to repair the motor when they were struck by a truck driven by William McNichols, 323 West 102d street.

These deaths and one other during the day raised the 1933 auto toll in Cook county to 753. The other victim:

Robert Wilson, 42 years old, 5629 South Racine avenue. Died in the Woodlawn hospital while being operated upon for an arm injury incurred last Saturday when he was struck by an automobile at 55th street and South Racine avenue.

Dispatches from Dubuque, Ia., last night said that B. J. Sharp, 45 years old, of Chicago, an executive of the Independent Grocers' alliance, was killed and W. K. Hunter, also of Chicago and vice president of the alliance, was seriously injured in an automobile collision near Center Grove, Iowa.

Two Missourians Make New Saddle for New Deal

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Two Kansas City Republicans propose to saddle New Deal, the prize winning Missouri horse given to President Roosevelt by Missourians. Asserting admiration for the President, Sigel Hainkel, 70, saddlemaker, and Charles P. Shipley, his employer, today added finishing touches to a specially designed saddle. U. S. Senator Bennett C. Clark will present the saddle to the President next week.

and yourself to arrest hoodlums? A.—Yes in our spare moments.

Prior to Miller's appearance on the witness stand several other witnesses appeared, but only one, Sergt. Chris Callahan, had given any damaging testimony against Lang. He said that he was holding Nitti's hands when Lang came up behind the gangster and shot him in the head.

Even Nitti, who had Attorney Benedict J. Short at his elbow to advise him, said he bore no "ill will or animosity" toward Lang.

Nitti testified as follows concerning the raid:

Q.—Calling your attention to Dec. 19, 1932, did anything unusual take place? A.—I went to the office in the loop building at 11 o'clock in the morning to see Joseph Palumbo. I was up there about an hour when the door opened and four men with guns in their hands walked in. They announced themselves as police officers. I was called to the outer office and there Sergt. Callahan, who appeared nervous and excited, told me to spit out a piece of paper that I had in my mouth. Callahan began to search me a second time when Sergt. Lang came running into the room and hollered 'Spit it out.' I did not do it quick enough and he shot me.

Policeman Tells of Shooting.

Sergt. Callahan, who was one of the raiding officers, was then called to the witness stand. His story of the shooting was as follows:

"I searched Nitti. He appeared to be chewing something. I told him to spit it out. When I found he had no revolver I put mine back in my pocket. I was holding him by both wrists [he demonstrated for the jury]. Lang came up and said, 'What is your name?' He then shot him."

Sergt. Callahan said that after Lang shot Nitti three times the policeman then shot himself in the left arm and accused Nitti of doing it. Nitti, he said, was unarmed. On cross-examination Callahan denied that he had any feeling against Lang, and said he was "only telling the truth."

The prosecution closed its evidence with the testimony of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker. The latter said that both Lang and Miller gave him revolvers, each saying the gun he presented was the one used by Nitti.

The defense attorneys made a motion for a directed verdict, contending that no malice was shown by the state. The motion was denied by Judge Lynch. The defense will present its testimony this morning. It was rumored that Lang may not testify in his own behalf.

SIX RAPISTS SENT TO PENITENTIARY IN CRIME DRIVE

2 More Murder Trials Will Start Today.

Six young west side hoodlums, convicted of statutory rape for attacks on two sisters, 13 and 14 years old, were among the eight criminals sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday by judges of the Criminal court. The sentences raised to 329 the number of criminals ordered to prison since the war on crime began less than two months ago.

The rapists were sentenced by Judge Francis Allegretti, who imposed penalties in proportion to the responsibility of the defendants for the crime of which they were convicted.

The defendants and their sentences are: Thomas Arcuri, ten years in prison; Homer Cushing, five years; Charles Theullicx, three years, and Donald Cushing, Carl Butera, and Nick Balzama, one year each. A seventh member of the gang, George Arcuri, was sentenced to one year in the bridewell on a misdemeanor charge.

Two Murder Trials Today.

While these sentences were being imposed Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court was making preparations to start two murder trials today. In one case a change of venue petition has been filed, but another judge will be ready, the chief justice announced, to start immediate trial of the case. Several other judges will also be prepared to hear the trial if further venue changes are taken.

In both murder trials the state's attorney's office announced, the death penalty will be asked for at least some of the defendants.

In one case John Scheck, who is already under sentence of death for the murder of Policeman John Sevick, will go to trial for the second time. He is a codefendant with Carl Grundhoefer and Frank Keglovitz on a charge of killing Harry J. Mueller, cashier of a Niles Center bank.

Although Grundhoefer has been identified as the actual killer, Scheck is to be placed on trial so that the blame cannot be shifted to an absent defendant. The case is scheduled for trial before Judge Walter Steffen, but notice of a change of venue from him has already been filed.

Five Accused of Murder.

The other murder case, involving James Palambo, Tony Venezia, John Terracino, Sam Marabile, and Frank Pasocciello, is scheduled to start before Judge Benjamin Epstein. The five defendants are charged with slaying Vito Pisciotti, 3152 West Fifth avenue, during a robbery.

Besides the rapists the two convicted criminals sentenced to the penitentiary yesterday are:

JAMES J. McKENZIE, 54 years old, sentenced to one to ten years by Judge James Fardy for crime against children.

GEORGE DEARBORN, 47 years old, sentenced to one year to life by Judge Fardy for the burglary on Aug. 18 of an office at 28 South Loomis street. He has a long record. Morris Burns, 34 years old, a partner in the crime, who had no previous record, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell.

Judge Harry B. Miller was aroused over the acquittal by a jury of David Fleming, 22 years old, who was charged with stealing an automobile. Fleming previously had been arrested three times for automobile theft.

GUNMAN KELLY, CAUGHT, WILL BE RUSHED TO TRIAL

Will Face Urschel Kidnap Charges First.

BULLETIN.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, said tonight that he and other federal authorities had been apprised of a plan by George Kelly to "wipe out" guards and free defendants in the Charles B. Urschel kidnaping trial here. Keenan declined to disclose the source of his information.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 26. — [Special.]—George "Machine Gun" Kelly, wanted for murder in three large cities and captured here this morning without a shot being fired on information supplied by a 12 year old girl, is to be taken to Oklahoma City, Okla., within a day or two to stand trial for his part in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire.

Kelly had a pistol in his hand when arrested, but his captor, Detective Sergeant William Raney of the Memphis force, had a shotgun against him and Kelly didn't hesitate.

"Drop that gun," commanded Raney, and the machine gun slayer obeyed.

Will Fight Extradition.

Kelly was arraigned as officers with machine guns stood guard at the Shelby county jail tonight. He declared he would fight removal to Oklahoma City.

Both Kelly and his wife pleaded not guilty to charges of being involved in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man. They were arraigned before Lester H. Brenner, United States commissioner.

When the warrants were read, Kelly said:

"I won't sign that."

"You don't have to sign it," an officer explained. "That's the charge against you."

"How do you plead?" Commissioner Brenner asked.

"Not guilty," was the answer.

Wife Also Taken.

The capture climaxed a search that has been under way for weeks. It is not finished, for Kelly's companions in crime, Verne Miller, Wilbur Underhill, Richard Galiatas, and Bob Brady, are still at large. Kelly's wife, Kathryn, was taken with him, as were J. R. Tichenor, in whose home he sought refuge, and S. E. Travis, who was also in the Tichenor home.

Kelly had bleached his dark hair yellow and his wife was wearing a red wig.

Federal agents had been scouring the middle west for the Kellys, husband and wife, and were never far behind them. Besides collecting the $200,000 ransom that was paid for the release of Urschel, Kelly was wanted for participation in the massacre of four policemen and a prisoner in the Kansas City, Mo., railroad station, the robbery of a federal reserve bank messenger, and the killing of a policeman in St. Paul, Minn., and the robbery of federal reserve bank mail and the killing of Policeman Miles Cunningham in Chicago last Friday.

Linked Definitely to Kidnaping.

The government took up Kelly's trail after the Urschel kidnaping. It was revealed that Urschel had been held captive on a Texas farm owned by Mrs. Kelly's father and mother, R. G. Shannon and his wife, who are now on trial in Oklahoma City along with the notorious bandit, Harvey Bailey, and others.

There was no question of Kelly's participation in that kidnaping. The Shannons have made admissions and Mrs. Kelly had communicated with District Attorney Herbert H. Hyde of Oklahoma City in an effort to aid her parents, and it was through that communication that she and her husband were caught.

A $10,000 reward for the arrest of Kelly and a $5,000 reward for the arrest of Mrs. Kelly had been offered. Today it appeared that credit for the arrests was divided as follows: Geraldine Arnold, 12 years old, furnished the information that Kelly could be found in Memphis; Federal Agent William A. Rorer then was ordered to fly from Birmingham, Ala., to Memphis and did so, locating the home where Kelly was found; Sergt. Raney made the actual capture of Kelly.

As federal agents are not allowed to participate in rewards, there is no telling here today how the $15,000 will be split. Memphis police who assisted in the storming of the Tichenor home may come in for a share.

Threatens to Escape.

The main feeling among police and federal operatives was one of relief that Kelly was finally captured and without the loss of a life. It had been expected that he would resist unto the last bullet.

"I'll be out of this in no time," Kelly boasted when put in a cell. "Let's see them try to keep me."

The success of his confederate, Bailey, in breaking out of prisons caused police to believe that Kelly was not making an idle boast. He and his gang of Oklahoma desperadoes are regarded as the most dangerous ever encountered, and no less than fifty policemen will be guarding him as long as he stays in Memphis, and as many, or perhaps more, will be detailed to accompany him when the journey to Oklahoma City begins.

Wife Welcomes Capture.

Mrs. Kelly said she would waive extradition and go as soon as the officials are ready to take her. She is hopeful that her testimony will help her parents, whose defense to date is that they were coerced into acting as guards over Urschel. Her brother, Armon, is also on trial and testimony had been given that he received a part of the ransom money.

Mrs. Kelly said she had intended going to Oklahoma City voluntarily to surrender and testify. Her husband threatened to kill her if she tried to leave him, she added, but now that both are under arrest she is through with him.

"I'm glad we are both arrested because I am not guilty and I can prove it," she told Chief of Police Will D. Lee. "I'll be rid of him and that bunch. I don't want to say anything about that guy Kelly, but he got me into this terrible mess and I don't want to have anything more to do with him."

Story of Capture.

The story of the capture is somewhat as follows: About 15 days ago the Kellys picked up three hitchhikers in their automobile. They were the Arnold girl and her mother and father. The Kellys decide it would detract suspicion from them if they kept the little girl with them so they made an arrangement with the Arnolds.

Luther Arnold, the father, consented to leaving his daughter with them. He was asked to aid in making a contact with a lawyer in Oklahoma to defend the family of Mrs. Kelly in the kidnap trial. He recommended John Roberts of Enid and was given money and a car. He employed Attorney Roberts, who went to District Attorney Hyde and talked about the possible surrender of Mrs. Kelly and sought to have the Shannons released on bail. Hyde refused.

Hyde learned of the part Arnold had in the transaction and had him watched. Federal agents shadowed him on a trip to San Antonio, Tex., where he made a new contact with the Kellys. When he returned to Oklahoma he was arrested on a Mann act charge growing out of having two girls with him on the trip. Arnold agreed to help the government.

Government Agents Meet Girl.

Arnold learned Monday night that his daughter was being sent home. Government agents met the little girl at the train and she told them Kelly was in Memphis, but didn't know the exact address.

A message was sent to Agent Rorer. When he landed in Memphis near midnight he telephoned J. Edgar Hoover, his chief in Washington, and was told to get all available help and go to 1408 Raynor street, where Kelly would be found. The house was surrounded and Sergt. Raney knocked at the door.

Kelly opened it and stuck out his .45 caliber automatic pistol. Raney, who is a big and powerful man, pushed his shotgun against Kelly's stomach. It was a tense second, but Raney's coolness and the look that was in his blue eyes won. Kelly admitted defeat in this contest that might have ended in death for either or both.

The rest was easy. The man, wanted on capital charges in four states, was in the hands of the government, which in recent months has been waging a war against kidnapers for ransom, acting on orders of the President himself.

Oklahoma Trial Goes On.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—R. G. Shannon and his wife, Ora, parents of Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, who with her husband, George ("Machine Gun") Kelly, was captured today in Memphis, Tenn., both testified today in the trial involving the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, of which the Kellys are also accused.

The Shannons are defendants with Harvey Bailey, outlaw noted for his prison breaks, and several others, including their son, Armon. Urschel was held captive on their farm while Kelly negotiated for the $200,000 ransom which was paid into Kelly's hands.

Mrs. Shannon testified today she had never seen Urschel while he was held prisoner. She said her son-in-law, George Kelly, and Albert Bates brought a man to the farm who, they said, was an intoxicated friend. Next day her husband told her of seeing Bates and Kelly, armed with machine guns, taking a blindfolded man out of the home.

She said Harvey Bailey was a visitor on the farm at the time of the holding of Urschel—and it was there that Bailey was arrested later. She said she first knew Bailey under the name of Big Tom McDonald.

"Who was in charge of guarding Mr. Urschel?" Shannon was asked by Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant attorney general, assigned to fight kidnapers all over the country, and who is taking part in the prosecution.

"Armon and me guarded him but I can't say who was in charge," Shannon answered.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker yesterday asked the government officials to bring George "Machine Gun" Kelly, who was captured early in the morning in Memphis, to Chicago, instead of taking him immediately to Oklahoma City for trial in the Urschel kidnaping case.

Kelly's picture has been identified as that of one of the men who last Friday killed Policeman Miles Cunningham after the Federal Reserve bank mail robbery. Chief Schoemaker said Verne Miller's picture has also been identified and Kelly and Miller are known to be members of the same gang—pals of Harvey Bailey, who is now on trial for participation in the Urschel kidnaping in Oklahoma.

Chief Schoemaker pointed out that Kelly would be subject to the death penalty if convicted here. Government plans, however, were to take Kelly to Oklahoma first and after his trial there he may be given into the jurisdiction of Illinois, Missouri, or Minnesota. He is wanted for murder in all three states.

Gus Winkler, pal of Kelly and other Oklahoma bandits, and Joseph Berl were still in federal custody here last night. They were joint owners of a garage and it was through Bergl's efforts that the automobile used by the killers of Policeman Cunningham had been equipped with bullet proof glass, red and green headlights, and a smoke screen apparatus.

Mrs. Winkler, who was arrested with her husband in their Lake Shore drive flat Sunday night, was released by the police last night after being questioned by federal agents.

THREATENS JAIL FOR 3 LAWYERS IN MALONE QUIZ

Judge Sends Them Back to Grand Jury.

Three attorneys, who had been threatened with jail sentences for giving evasive answers on a previous appearance, yesterday went before the federal grand jury to testify again concerning alleged income tax frauds of William H. Malone of Park Ridge, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission. The attorneys are John W. Ellis, a master in chancery in the Circuit and Superior courts for 26 years; Henry L. Blim, and Frank L. Tuttle.

Close friends of Malone for years, the attorneys went before the grand jury under order of Federal Judge John P. Barnes to give "full, true, and complete answers" to the questions put to them by the jurors. Failure to comply with the order, the court hearing that preceded their visit to the grand juryroom indicated, would result in their being sentenced to jail for contempt of court.

Fourth Witness Accused.

A fourth respondent, William F. McCaughey Jr., Park Ridge architect and also a friend of Malone, was ordered to appear before Judge Barnes today to show why he should not be held in contempt of court for making false and evasive answers to the grand jurors.

Attorneys Ellis, Blim, and Tuttle appeared in court in response to similar orders issued on Monday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Their cases and that of McCaughey were transferred to Judge Barnes.

A synopsis of the original testimony given by McCaughey before the grand jury showed the government had tried to prove that McCaughey had held $50,000 in cash for Malone for two years so that Malone could not be held responsible for the money.

Attorneys Before Commission.

Malone, who served as chairman of the tax commission from 1926 to 1930, is now in Europe. During that period Attorney Ellis appeared before the commission as a representative of the Pullman company, and Attorney Blim acted as representative of the Chicago Surface Lines. Attorney Tuttle, a résumé of his first grand jury testimony showed, had made tax adjustments for the North Shore Gas company.

A transcript of grand jury testimony presented during yesterday's contempt hearing showed that all three attorneys had received large fees for their services. The transcript also showed that the government seeks to prove that these fees were split with Malone or some other member of the tax commission.

Surrenders on Warrant.

McCaughey made his first appearance in the case yesterday when Judge Barnes issued a bench warrant for his arrest on a charge that he had evaded a grand jury subpoena. The architect surrendered in the afternoon and was granted a continuance until this morning in order to retain counsel.

In seeking the bench warrant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said that McCaughey had appeared before the grand jury on a previous occasion and had been told to hold himself in readiness for the second appearance. A search yesterday failed to disclo the whereabouts of the architect, Mr. Green said, and the warrant was issued. Before McCaughey's surrender government agents were told that he was to teach a class in modeling at the Art institute yesterday afternoon.

The Government's Charge.

According to the information filed against McCaughey by Mr. Green and his assistant, Leslie E. Salter, the architect purchased a certificate of deposit at the Citizens State bank of Park Ridge on Dec. 31, 1929, with $50,000 in currency. The information showed that the government sought to prove that this $50,000 had been given to McCaughey by Malone.

McCaughey admitted, however, according to the record, that he had withdrawn $32,000 of the questioned deposit on July 5, 1930, and that the money had found its way into the hands of Malone. The witness held, however, his grand jury testimony showed, that he had loaned the money to Malone and that not all of it had been repaid. He testified that he had no record of the loan or the payments made by Malone.

Other Withdrawals Shown.

Bank records showed that McCaughey had made the following withdrawals from the $18,000 remaining in the bank:

January 30, 1931	$5,000
February 10, 1931	5,000
February 24, 1931	1,500
March 16, 1931	1,100
May 1, 1931	2,000

In the face of government records which showed that on the day following each of the withdrawals by McCaughey Malone had deposited an identical amount to his personal account the witness denied that the money had gone to Malone.

Attorney Tuttle, who lives in Des Plaines, averted the issuance of a warrant for his arrest by discovering shortly before noon that the case was being heard by Judge Barnes. He had waited all morning in the court of Judge Wilkerson. He said he had not known that the contempt matter had been transferred to Judge Barnes.

A synopsis of the previous grand jury testimony of Tuttle showed he had done some tax work, but did not set himself up as an expert. In 1925, Attorney Tuttle told the grand jurors, he was retained by the Pullman company and was given a fee of $15,000 for gaining a tax reduction.

Tuttle denied that he had split the fee with any one, but said he had not deposited any of the money because he did not want people in his community to know he had it. The money, he said, he used and spent.

Another $15,000 was given him as a fee for helping the Pullman company file a capital stock return in November, 1928, his testimony showed, and Attorney Tuttle said he handled this sum in the same manner. The attorney said that he "didn't know why the company retained him."

Retained by Gas Company.

In November, 1927, Tuttle testified, he was retained to do some tax work for the North Shore Gas company and received a fee of $2,500. Five hundred dollars of this sum was his share, the attorney said, according to the grand jury record, and $2,000 was given to several persons whose identity he said he did not recall. None of the money, however, went to Malone, according to the witness.

Tuttle testified that it was understood between him and the late Everett L. Millard of the North Shore Gas company that the $2,000 should be distributed among persons who had done favors for the company. On Nov. 16, 1928, and on Dec. 11, 1929, the synopsis of the testimony showed, Tuttle again received a fee of $2,500. His share on each occasion was $500, Tuttle told the grand jurors, and the $2,000 had been placed "where it would do the most good."

Tuttle paid tax on the full $2,500 on each occasion rather than disclose to whom the $2,000 had been given, according to his testimony.

Hearing Before Judge Barnes.

The contempt hearing before Judge Barnes began with a discussion of the power of the court in cases where witnesses had refused to answer or had evaded questions in the grand jury room.

United States Attorney Green told the court that he was not seeking an order committing Attorneys Ellis, Blim, and Tuttle to jail, but merely asking a ruling instructing them to go before the grand jury and tell the truth. He pointed out that previous cases showed that failure to obey this order would give the court power to deal with the witnesses in summary fashion.

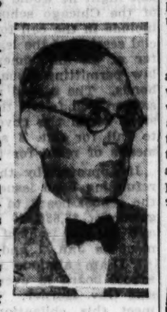
FISHER IS NAMED TO CO-ORDINATE TRANSIT GROUPS

Wilkerson Takes Action to Speed Unification.

The appointment of Attorney Walter L. Fisher, city traction expert, as "coördinator" to bring the conflicting traction interests into agreement on a reorganization plan so that the street car and elevated companies may be unified into one system with improved services, was announced yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.



WALTER L. FISHER

The conflicting financial interests are the various security holding protective committees. They have been unable to agree on the allotment of new securities to be exchanged for the old under the proposed merger. It will be Attorney Fisher's task to bring these opposing elements together so that the new company can be formed and the pending city council unification ordinance accepted. The ordinance provides for the rehabilitation of the facilities of the transit companies with many extensions and improvements.

Expects Action Within 30 Days.

With the announcement of his selection, Judge Wilkerson said he believed that something in the way of real progress on a settlement will be done within thirty days. He said the appointment received the approval of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of the city council local transportation committee and its chairman, Ald. John B. Bowler, and of the principal protective committee chairmen.

"The court has selected Mr. Fisher to expedite the work of reorganization," Judge Wilkerson said in a statement. "His part will be analogous to that taken by him in connection with the preparation of the city ordinance. He will direct and coördinate the activities of the various committees. The court has been assured that this action is satisfactory to the representatives of the various interests and that they will coöperate heartily with Mr. Fisher to effect a reorganization of the properties."

D. F. Kelly Is Pleased.

"I know no man who is more thoroughly conversant with all the various phases of the traction problem," said D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair department store and chairman of the first mortgage bondholders' committee of the elevated lines. "I am delighted to know he has accepted. I know that Mr. Fisher will be glad to finish the work he started years ago."

Both Mayor Kelly and Chairman Bowler expressed satisfaction over the appointment. Both, however, declared that they would proceed with their program to speed the traction settlement and to demand the immediate establishment of universal transfers pending the reorganization. A meeting of the council local transportation committee is to be held today. The traction company receivers are to appear and state their position on the universal transfer.

Meets with Chairmen.

It was learned yesterday that the appointment of Attorney Fisher was virtually agreed upon at a conference which Judge Wilkerson held Monday afternoon with the three principal protective committee chairmen. The three, D. F. Kelly, Melvin A. Traylor, and Albert W. Harris, had been appointed by the federal judge to try to bring the financial transit groups into some agreement.

After three months of inactivity, during which apparently no progress was made, Judge Wilkerson decided to take matters into his own hands. The judge had expressed impatience with the dragging of the receivership cases in his court. All of the traction companies are in receivership.

"I hope to work out some kind of an agreement," said Attorney Fisher. "I met with Mr. Harris, Mr. Kelly, and Mr. Traylor, and they promised to coöperate as fully as they can. They will place in my hands their views in the matter and what they think ought to be done. I will study what differences there may be and see what can be done to reconcile those differences."

County Building Elevator Cable Snaps; 16 Marooned

Sixteen passengers were imprisoned for 25 minutes yesterday in one of the county building elevators, which was halted by the operator between the sixth and fifth floors of the building. A. F. Dulski, operator of the cab, heard the main cable by which the car was suspended break and drop to the roof of the cab as he was descending from the seventh floor. He clapped on his emergency brakes, stopping the car between floors.

SHOTGUN CREW WOUNDS THREE IN LABOR FEUD

Two officials of the Building Material Teamsters' union and one of their friends were shot and wounded on Sept. 19 while in front of a beer tavern at Wolf and Butterfield roads, Hillside, it was learned yesterday. News of the shooting had been suppressed.

The two wounded union men are Frederick Waldt and his brother, Robert. Frederick is president and Robert a business agent of the material teamsters' group, which is an affiliate of the outlaw Chicago Teamsters' union. The third man wounded is Frank Becie, orchestra leader in the tavern, which is owned by the Waldts.

Witnesses said that the three were standing in front of the saloon when a large automobile containing several men passed by. A shotgun was fired from the car. The victims were all treated at the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park. Their wounds were not serious.

The Chicago police records show that the headquarters of the material teamsters' union at 639 South Ashland avenue was the scene of a shooting on Sept. 8.

VISIONS X-RAY POWER TO ALTER HUMAN TRAITS

Scientist Tells Success in Plant Tests.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The power which X-ray and cathode ray tubes afford for artificially altering hereditary traits in living things, for making variations which persist for many generations, and originating species, was described yesterday in the biology section of the American Congress of Radiology, in session at the Palmer house.

These effects are brought about, according to C. P. Haskins of the General Electric company research laboratory, by alterations in the chromosomes at the nuclei of germ cells. The work has been in plant cells, but it is fundamental to all cellular alterations and inhibitions. New announcements from the laboratory are expected soon along these lines.

"We don't actually know what takes place in the cell," said Mr. Haskins. "We hope to tie it up with the metabolism of cancer cells, for instance, or the protein and molecular linkages which constitute life. We are right on the edge of these problems."

Make Changes in Plants.

Among the changes artificially brought about by these rays is the premature flowering of grape fruit, bringing it to flower in six weeks from the seed, instead of years. There are also double gladiolas, double narcissus, doubling leaves in cotton plants and beet and squash, and changes in the form and color of delphinium and petunias. X-ray work on branches produces a different type of flowers, reproducible, the same dosage producing the same effect in a definite cycle.

There has been alteration of the sex ratio in such a bi-sexual plant as hemp, the X-ray destroying one gamete without destroying the other. In sorghum the color of the whole plant has been changed by working on the chromosome and making the dominant character inactive.

"The trail opens to frontiers yet unseen," said Dr. A. W. Crane of Kalamazoo, who traced the research which led to the X-ray back to the study of amber, from which electricity takes its name, the lodestone and the barometer.

"We who were born into the present age of electricity may well wonder why electrical development was so long delayed in the world's history. Great civilizations flourished and decayed without bringing comprehension of this all pervading force. We may turn the pages of history century after century until we come to the time of Queen Elizabeth before we find the small beginnings of electrical science."

Discovery of the X-Ray.

The discovery of the X-ray by Prof. Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen in 1895 was the fruit of 300 years of experimentation in all parts of the world. Dr. Crane gives the story of this as follows:

"Roentgen's actual discovery was made on Nov. 8, 1895. A false story of the discovery, describing the accidental image of a key developed on a photographic plate, obtained a wide circulation in America and is still quoted. The true story is given by Sylvanus P. Thompson. We are assured that Roentgen had set up his apparatus for the purpose of investigating emanations from a Crookes tube. He had covered a Crookes tube with a black paper and excluded all the light from the room. He had, lying on a table nearby, a piece of cardboard coated with platino-barium-cyanide.

"He turned on the electric current to excite the tube and saw the coated cardboard brightly luminous. At once he found the tube to be the source of invisible emanations which could penetrate cardboard or a book of a thousand pages, or the flesh of the hand."

It was 15 years later before the X-rays were traced and identified in relation to light. This came about through the deductive reasoning of Prof. Max Laue of Munich. The rays were at the ultra-violet end of the spectrum and designated X—an unknown quantity.

Fairy Tale of Science.

"This work with the littlest of the cosmic bodies," said Dr. Crane, "the bending of unseen radiations by the unseeable structure of crystals, is indeed a fairy tale of science in which the real treasure was found to have been hidden all the time in the far end of the rainbow."

An X-ray apparatus small enough to pack into a doctor's bag is the latest device in this field. An American made machine is exhibited by John H. Clough of the General Electric company, and there is a European machine by Dr. Albert Bouwers of Holland in the exhibit in connection with the convention. Dr. Bouwers said that compact apparatus, shock proof and ray proof, is now being used in Europe. The smallest unit weighs 12 pounds and may be used by plugging into a wall socket.

GRANTED DIVORCE

MRS. E. E. WILMANS BORN.

The marital troubles of Mrs. Edith Wilmans Born and Henry A. Born, president of the refrigerator company bearing his name, which have been reviewed by seven different judges in Cook county courts, came to a close yesterday when Mrs. Born got an uncontested divorce before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court.

Mrs. Born is a poet and was the first woman member of the Texas legislature. She ran twice, unsuccessfully, for governor of the state. Born met her in 1928, when he heard her making a prohibition speech, and they were married Feb. 29, 1929.

Mrs. Born charged that her husband treated her "contemptuously and cruelly" and that on June 17, 1930, he struck her and threw her downstairs. She had Born arrested on that occasion and Municipal Judge John H. Lyle testified that when she appeared before him the following day she was bruised.

Mrs. Born waived alimony and received a $1,500 settlement. She was given permission to resume her former name, Edith Eunice Wilmans.

S. Tracy, Film Star, Fined for Disorderly Conduct

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Spencer Tracy, film star, failed to appear before Justice H. E. Tracy was shackled both on wrists and legs when he objected to being arrested in an auto in a roadside ditch at 5 a. m.

COUNTY AWAITS U. S. NOTICE OF $2,000,000 LOAN

Board Must Approve Terms, Says Whealan.

At a meeting of the county board yesterday, Emmett Whealan, president, said that he had received no formal notification that public works administration officials in Washington have approved a federal loan of $2,040,500 to complete the Cook County Nurses' home. His statement was made in connection with a controversy begun last week between women members of the board.

It was explained at the meeting yesterday that the federal loan will be withheld until legal notice announcing the terms has been received from Washington and submitetd to the county board. Mr. Whealan said that the board must approve the term of the loan by a formal vote before the public works administration will make the federal funds available.

Mrs. Fleming Opposes Loan.

Mr. Whealan took the floor after Commissioner Grace Fleming announced that she had read in the newspapers that the loan had been granted but had heard nothing of the matter from the board. She asserted that she would oppose acceptance of the money until the board has been consulted.

Several commissioners, among them Mrs. Marie Plumb who was the representative of the board in Washington during negotiations for the loan, explained that the Washington report was correct. They said the formal terms of the loan would be submitted to the board at a special meeting to be called as soon as the legal notice arrives.

Want U. S. Loan Accepted.

Several commissioners said they believed the loan should be accepted since its terms provide that $500,000 of the total will be a gift from the federal government. The remainder will be paid when $2,300,000 worth of bonds, which the voters of the county approved two years ago, are retired through tax collections. They explained that the loan will give the county a $2,000,000 building for $1,500,000.

Several commissioners said they had been advised that the board will be forced to fight suits by contractors to whom the work was given, unless the nurses' home is completed. Such a process, they said, would be even more expensive than utilizing the government loan. Work on the 17 story building which will house 850 nurses was halted after the foundation and basement were constructed, when funds gave out.

6 POLICEMEN GUILTY IN INSURANCE CASE FINDING OF BOARD

Six policemen, who were incorporators of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, which insures Checker taxicabs, were found technically guilty of conduct unbecoming policemen by the civil service commission yesterday. Their cases were referred to Commissioner of Police Allman for disposal. The police commissioner said he would act upon receiving the official report.

The policemen are William E. McEvoy, Michael Chambers, Charles P. Dillon, Arthur J. Georg, Fred R. Helden, and John McCambridge, all of whom were assigned to the vehicle bureau at the time the insurance company was incorporated. Their defense was that in signing the incorporation papers they believed that they were merely acquiring insurance for themselves. They are subject to fines or reprimands, but not to discharge from the force, as the civil service commission is the only authority that can order their dismissal.

The public vehicle license commission yesterday held its final public hearing on taxicab operation, and will begin soon to prepare recommendations to the city council on a rate of fare, the number of cabs that should be licensed, and that amount of liability insurance the cabs should carry. The hearings have been held over a period of three months.

Gunmen Hold Up Woman Hotel Clerk and Get $911

Four gunmen entered the Bernard hotel at 4170 Drexel boulevard early last evening and robbed the clerk, Miss Isabel Gormley, of $228 belonging to the hotel, and cash and travelers' checks to the amount of $683, which had been deposited by guests. Miss Gormley was alone in the lobby at the time of the stickup.

GOVERNOR AIDS SCHOOL BOARD IN BOND CRISIS

Extra Session to Consider Refunding Issue.

Gov. Horner indicated in Springfield last night he would grant the request of the Chicago school board that he include in the call for the second special session of the legislature the matter of an amendment to the school law permitting issuance of refunding bonds. The second special legislative session will follow the first extra session, which the governor is expected to call for Oct. 3 solely to consider means of relief for the idle.

If approved by the legislature the refunding bond issue will be used by the school board to take up an obligation of $5,696,260 in bond principal and interest which the board must meet on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1, 1934.

"I am anxious to help out the school board in every possible way," said Gov. Horner. "If the money to meet this obligation cannot be obtained the refunding bonds must be issued."

School Bond Fund Low.

The bond redemption fund of the school board is low and not enough taxes will be collected by the first of the year to meet the obligation, in the opinion of James B. McCahey, president of the board. Should the board default in the payments its credit would be seriously impaired. Mr. McCahey will explain the situation to the school trustees at the meeting today.

Another request of the school board cannot be granted at this time, Gov. Horner said. This was a plea for $246,391 appropriated by the legislature for the education of deaf, delinquent, and crippled children in Chicago in 1929. The appropriation contained the provision that the money was payable when, in the opinion of the governor, the moneys in the general revenue fund justified such expenditure.

Gov. Horner said it was possible that the money might be reappropriated at the next regular session of the general assembly. The appropriation lapses at the end of this month.

At the board meeting today the trustees will probably vote to close the schools on Oct. 3, which is American Legion day by proclamation of Mayor Kelly. Supt. Bogan has announced that 125 Boy Scout pupils in the schools will be allowed to act as pages and guides during the Legion convention.

In connection with the operation of the economy program in the schools Mr. Bogan said that the system was "getting under way."

"The matter of districts is causing a little trouble," he said, "because the information we relied upon in redistricting the city didn't pan out in every case. We are taking off corners here and there to straighten out the situation."

He added that where experienced teachers were in the classrooms a shortage of books was not a serious problem.

Rules Alan Dinehart Must Answer $250,000 Love Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Alan Dinehart, film actor, must answer the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Betty Kaege, Chicago actress, Superior Judge L. W. Roth decided today, overruling Dinehart's demurrer. Miss Kaege charged Dinehart Dec. 12, 1929, promised to marry her as soon as his divorce from Mrs. Louise Dinehart became final. He obtained his final decree in October, 1932, in New York and last June married Mozelle Britonne, screen actress, who had been named co-respondent by his wife.

TAX RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR 30 PROPERTIES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $287,211, making a total of $72,790,202 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 26	$ 12,968	$ 38,727
Uncollected	17,367,951	45,958,890
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 26	$ 52,438	$ 183,078

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $2,505.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday was appointed by County Judge Jarecki as receiver for 30 income bearing properties under the Kerner-Skarda act to enable him to collect delinquent taxes totaling $100,000. Attorneys seeking to avoid receiverships for other properties paid $90,000 in Judge Jarecki's court.

The treasurer continued his campaign under the Kerner-Skarda act by filing 50 tax receivership petitions in the County court. The properties involved owe a total tax bill of $169,664.

SEYFERLICH IS URGED FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT JOB

Kelly Asked to Appoint Him Commissioner.

The appointment of Arthur R. Seyferlich, former chief fire marshal, as fire commissioner to succeed the late Daniel J. Carmody was urged upon Mayor Kelly yesterday by leading German-Americans. They stressed his national reputation as a fire fighter and his familiarity with the department in support of their recommendation.

Chief Seyferlich had served on the force for thirty-seven years when he resigned in 1927 rather than submit to demotion to his former rank of division marshal at the hands of a former Republican mayor. At that time he had headed the uniform force for five years except for a short interim.

"We believe that it would be impossible to get a better man for fire commissioner," said Prof. George L. Scherger of Armour institute and associate pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Evangelical church, one of a delegation that has petitioned the mayor in behalf of Mr. Seyferlich. "We believe also the appointment would rectify the injustice done to him for political reasons at the time he resigned. The German-American element in Chicago is solidly supporting him."

Kruetgen Voices Plea.

Besides Prof. Scherger, those who have spoken to the mayor for Mr. Seyferlich are Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen; Herman C. Hintzpeter, president of the German club; Fred Rixmann, president of the German-American Citizens' league; William Adelhelm, president of the Schwaben-Verein; William F. Jacobs, director of the German club; Paul Mueller of the Abendpost, and Oscar A. Stoffels, former president of the German club.

"I would like very much to see the appointment of Mr. Seyferlich," said Postmaster Kruetgen. "He has had much experience in the fire department, and is held in high esteem by the German-Americans of the city."

"It would be an excellent appointment," said George Seif, clerk of the Criminal court. "Mr. Seyferlich is well informed in modern practices of fire fighting and has a national reputation as a fire fighter. He has a wide personal acquaintance in the department, and is well liked."

A Long Career.

Chief Seyferlich entered the department in 1891 as a truckman. He rose in the ranks to the position of chief fire marshal in 1922. He is 64 years old, but in excellent physical condition, according to his friends.

Twice Chief Seyferlich nearly lost his life after being overcome with ammonia fumes while fighting fires. He was one of those who risked their lives recovering the bodies of twenty-two firemen, including Fire Chief James Horan, at the stockyards fire of Dec. 22, 1910. His brother, Charles Seyferlich, was appointed fire marshal after the stockyard fire and held that post until his death in 1914.

The appointment of a fire commissioner is expected to be submitted to the city council by the mayor on Oct. 4. Inasmuch as the late Commissioner Carmody also was deputy chief fire marshal, the mayor is expected to fill the latter position at the same time.

R. S. FOLSOM AND C. C. CASE TO GET U. S. COURT JOBS

Hear Lawyers Will Be Named Within a Week.

Reports were current yesterday at the United States courthouse that the two vacancies on the federal bench in Chicago will be filled by presidential appointment within a week. Richard S. Folsom and Charles Center Case will be given the appointments, it was said.

It was understood that Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court, most prominently mentioned for one of the places, had declined. Attorney Folsom is said to have the backing of United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, with whom he was formerly associated in the practice of law. Attorney Case is said to have the recommendation of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

Former Corporation Counsel.

Attorney Folsom was corporation counsel under a Republican administration in 1915, although he was known as a Democrat. During Senator Lewis' first term Folsom was often mentioned as a federal bench possibility, but his name was never submitted by the President.

Attorney Case is best known for his work in prosecuting election fraud cases and for his activities during three terms as county attorney or legal adviser to the county board. He has practiced in Chicago for more than 30 years. He was chief clerk of the Circuit court in 1904. In 1913 he became an assistant state's attorney and was assigned to prosecute election frauds.

Fails of Election.

In 1927 he was appointed special state's attorney to prosecute election irregularities. He has been a candidate for the Circuit court, but failed of election. Neither Case nor Folsom has been aligned with the Democratic organization in local politics.

State Street Will Decorate for Four Great Celebrations

Gala decorations and resplendent lighting effects will bedeck State street continuously from Oct. 1 to 15 when the "world's greatest business thoroughfare" dons holiday raiment in honor of four different celebrations which will be in progress in Chicago during that period.

The first decorations will be put in place this week-end in preparation for the American Legion national convention, which will open on Monday. Following that will be the display of carnival attire for Chicago week, Oct. 6 to 12. Chicago day will be celebrated on Oct. 9 and then will come State Street day on Oct. 13.

Thousands of persons from all Chicagoland are expected to visit the State street stores during the celebrations. Preparations for the army of shoppers are being made by all the stores.

Besides the brilliant lighting effects planned, gay banners will be flown from light poles which will also bear the insignia of each succeeding celebration.

During Chicago week the official flag of the city will be flown from every flagpole on the street as well as from other vantage points designated by city officials. Other special decorations have been devised for Chicago day, including an official 100th anniversary flag.

On State Street day the center of the city's retail trade will become a spectacle of gay colors and scenic lights. The welcome mat will be spread by business men and the fronts of their stores will be cloaked in carnival style. Confetti and streamers of every description will wave over the heads of passersby. Special window displays will be a feature of the occasion.

JOINT HEARING WILL BE HELD ON OUTER LINK LOAN

A formal application for the allocation of $2,300,000 to be used in completing the north section of the outer drive bridge was presented to the United States advisory board on public works yesterday by the Lincoln park board. Thirty per cent of the requested amount would be an outright grant from the federal government.

In a day or two the south parks commissioners will submit a request for an allocation of $5,500,000 for the construction of the south section of the proposed span at the mouth of the river. After this application has been submitted Carter H. Harrison, chairman of the federal loan board in Illinois, will set a date for a joint hearing on the two applications.

Before Cook county became enmeshed in the tax muddle the Lincoln park commissioners had completed the north approach of the bridge, but the south parks board still has the south approach to construct. This was given as the reason for the necessity for a larger loan to the south parks.

MAYOR SPEAKS TO WOMEN AT LOOP MEETING

Mayor Kelly yesterday addressed a Chicago meeting of the Illinois Women's Democratic club in the Morrison hotel. The mayor told the more than 100 women who braved the rain to attend the meeting that they were the "sales force" for the Democratic organization.

He briefly sketched the financial condition of the city and of the school board, and pointed to the recent progress made in jailing hoodlums and racketeers. He told the women to "preach the doctrine of democracy" and to remember that the Democratic party cannot be stopped by propaganda.

ALLEGED RAPIST IN SHOWUP AT POLICE STATION

Martin Powers, 25 years old, 5055 North Claremont avenue, alleged rapist, was taken to the weekly showup at the detective bureau last evening. He will be arraigned today in the Felony court before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green. He will be charged with attempted rape by Mrs. Mabel Orians, 40 years old, 5014 Glenwood avenue, and by a 9 year old girl, whom he assaulted on Sept. 17.

Powers was arrested on Monday evening when he seized Mrs. Orians and threw her to the ground in an alley near the Summerdale police station. Policemen Frank Fetak and John Lindermann heard Mrs. Orians' screams and captured her attacker. Detectives yesterday said that Powers was known as a neighborhood hoodlum, and had been in trouble several times since he was granted probation after a charge of rape had been changed to a misdemeanor by Judge William J. Lindsay in the spring of 1929.

Yesterday Judge Lindsay said that at the time of the trial no evidence had been produced to show that a rape had occurred. He produced his own records of the proceedings, and also obtained the records kept by the Chicago Crime commission. Both showed that the young woman whom Powers was said to have assaulted had not opposed his advances and admitted this fact in court.

MAYOR ORDERS $1,900,000 CITY PAY DAY TODAY

Mayor Kelly ordered yesterday that city employés, including those of the tuberculosis sanitarium, be paid today for the last half of June. The pay roll is approximately $1,900,000. Today's pay day will leave city workers less than three months behind in their pay. Two days after Mayor Kelly took office, on April 13, their arrears amounted to five and a half months. Today's pay day was made possible by collections of license fees and by the fact that the city, having retired all its 1928, 1930, and 1931 tax warrants in the hands of the public, is able to use further payments of delinquent taxes for those years to meet pay rolls.

THE HIDDEN QUART
STAYS UP IN YOUR MOTOR AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY

Care in maintaining proper oil level is very desirable and necessary for efficient motor operation—yet, there are times when a slip of memory may be forgiven, if you use Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil. Then the "Hidden Quart" extends its protection to cover the lapse, and gives extra miles to safely reach the next Red Triangle Station.

This exceptional lubrication is brought about by fine, selected paraffin base crude oil, adroit and experienced refining and the Germ Process—exclusively Conoco's patented formula. By adding extra oiliness and penetrativeness to the very highest quality motor oil, complete protective lubrication is achieved.

With all these qualities, the total cost for this oil is low—one-fifth of a cent per mile!

RENEW BATTLE NEXT WEEK ON LAKE DIVERSION

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

The time worn fight of five lake states to limit water diversion by Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district is expected to be renewed with accustomed acrimony before the United States Supreme court in Washington next week.

On or before next Monday, Attorney General Kerner must file a report on the progress this state has made toward financing the Chicago sewage treatment works, which the court has ordered built in anticipation of the time when the drainage canal may no longer be used for sewage disposal.

Within a few days thereafter, the court may hear arguments on Mr. Kerner's petition for a rehearing of the court's decree of last May 22, which instructed the state to finance the sewage plants, since its corporate creature, the sanitary district, had proved its inability to do so. On these arguments a new issue between Illinois and the opposing states—Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York—is expected to be joined.

Working on the Report.

The attorney general and his special assistant, Cornelius Lynde, were toiling over the report yesterday, their desks piled high with voluminous records of the long fight. It was conceded on all sides that they are hard put to set forth any real "progress."

About all there is to tell the court, it was pointed out, is that the legislature voted at the last session to allow the sanitary district to issue up to $100,000,000 in additional bonds without a referendum by the taxpayers. With the district already in default on 15 millions of its bonds at the time and holding another 40 millions for lack of bidders, some held the legislature's action almost futile.

The High Court's Order.

The Supreme court's order for the state to take over the burden was direct and explicit. After conceding the district's claim that it had exhausted its resources, the order, as written by Chief Justice Hughes, set down the following instructions:

"That the state of Illinois is hereby required to take all necessary steps, including whatever authorizations or requirements, or provisions for raising money may be needed to secure the completion of adequate sewage treatment plants within the sanitary district, so as to preclude any ground of objection to the reduction of the diversion of waters of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system, and at the times and in the manner provided by this decree."

Stringent as the order was, attorneys for the district pointed out that it represented a considerable modification of the recommendations of the court's special master, Edward F. McClennen, who, in a set of findings on which the order was based, proposed a mandamus to force the state to construct the sewage works.

Obstacle to Bond Issue.

"It might be argued," said Mr. Lynde, "that the legislature should have authorized state bonds to do the job. On that score, however, we get back to the ability of the taxpayers to meet the bill, just as we did when the district was under fire.

"If the district was able to plead financial inability, I think the state can make out a strong case on the same grounds. The evidence before the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the public works administration, where the state has been seeking loans from month to month to feed the idle, would be eloquent testimony of the Illinois taxpayers' plight.

"What many people seem to forget is that bonds of Illinois are not promises to pay nor pledges of good faith, as in some states. They are simply extensions of the taxes. When a bond is issued, a tax is automatically imposed to the amount necessary to cover interest and amortization over twenty years. Under such a system, when taxes are not coming in, what point is there in levying new ones?"

Plenty of fireworks are expected in the arguments on the petition for a rehearing. This petition was drawn by Mr. Lynde and has already been filed. Its principal point is a citation of the so-called rule of equitable apportionment, as established by the Supreme court in a case of Colorado vs. Kansas and applied in other interstate controversies over waterways.

"We suggest that any application of the doctrine of equitable apportionment of the waters of Lake Michigan would necessarily allow to Illinois some portion of those waters and that, as to such diversion, the acts of the defendants were not 'wrongful,' but clearly within the rights of Illinois," the petition avers.

In the attorney general's report, it was said, some allusion may be made to the current efforts of the sanitary trustees to procure the sewage works financing through the 3 billion, 300 million dollar easy money fund of the public works administration. The trustees have asked Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, who is the public works administrator, for 120 millions, 30 per cent by outright grant and 70 per cent by a collateralized loan or by federal purchase of district bonds.

$78,000,000 to Be Sought.

Notwithstanding a previous assertion of Mr. Ickes that the bonds were of doubtful standing, a formula is being developed for the granting of a portion of the sum sought, it was learned, 78 millions being the sum now under consideration.

Mr. Ickes' counsel, Lloyd H. Landau of St. Louis, was in Chicago studying the project for several weeks, it was learned, and has returned to Washington with what is reported to be a favorable report. He has conferred, among others, with Gov. Horner, Attorney General Kerner, Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the sanitary district finance committee; Carter H. Harrison, chairman of the public works regional advisory board, and Joshua d'Esposito, consulting engineer for the advisory board.

"The immediate problem is to find a way to establish the district's unexpended bonding power at 60 million dollars," explained an engineer conversant with the negotiations. "There seems to be some question as to what the exact remaining bonding power is, but they hope to work it out at 60 millions. That would allow 60 millions to be borrowed and 18 or 20 millions of an outright grant.

"Secretary Ickes is insisting that the government have full supervision and control. That would be secured by the government setting up a corporation to take possession of the properties on which the plants are to be built, and holding possession until the job is done, when the property would be turned back to the district."

LACK OF SEAWAY TONNAGE IS LAID TO BRIDGE TIEUP

Span at Morris Hampers Traffic, Sultan Says.

Pictures of huge tonnage passing through the Illinois waterway painted oratorically when that channel was formally opened three months ago are still far from realization.

Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, United States district engineer, put the situation graphically yesterday.

"I shall never be thoroughly satisfied," he said, "until the tonnage reaches 5,000,000 tons a year. Right now I doubt that the figure exceeds 100,000 tons."

There is no record, Lieut. Col. Sultan said, of the actual tonnage. The only statistics available are the records of the use of the locks. In reference to this phase of activity Lieut. Col. Sultan was a bit more cheerful. As an example he took the Brandon road lock. The record shows there were 175 lockages there during August.

"That," he said, "indicates a pretty busy waterway. The trouble is that the tonnage was small."

Bridge Blocks Waterway.

Asked for the reason for the small tonnage, the federal engineer pointed to an old difficulty in connection with the waterway—the bridge problem. Right now there is one bridge that is tying things up, a highway span at Morris, a city of about 6,000 population about half way between Joliet and Ottawa, he said.

"Only the federal barge line, as the Inland Waterways corporation is commonly known," he said, "is using the waterway regularly. It is making two trips a week regularly. But its tonnage is held down because it cannot bring its big tows any further than Ottawa.

"At this point it must break them up. Its two barge, four and six barge tows are handled two barges abreast. The Morris bridge has clearance enough for only one barge. Until that obstruction is removed there will be no big tows coming up to Joliet or Lockport, a stretch that except for this one bridge we hope to have completely cleared for big tows in November or December."

Controversy Over Site.

Lieut. Col. Sultan was asked what caused the difficulty at Morris. He said it was due to a controversy among the citizens there over the location of the proposed new bridge. He added that he understood a contract is to be let soon but that construction will occupy another year.

"That is a serious delay," he continued, "that can be obviated only by summary action. The present bridge should be torn out at once and a ferry should be established at that point. This would not cause serious injury. Through traffic would not care if it could be detoured about a dozen miles either way, to the bridge at Seneca or the Smith's highway bridge at Dresden island. The only objection would come from local merchants and they could be taken care of by the ferry."

Other existing obstructions of similar character, Lieut. Col. Sultan said, will be eliminated Dec. 1. These include the bridge about half a mile below Lockport and the Ottawa highway bridge. These are being replaced. The alteration of the Big Four railroad bridge at Seneca, he said, also will be completed by Dec. 1.

In the meantime great tonnage has been kept off the waterway so far. The federal engineer said that considerable gravel is going down the canal for road construction but that thousands of tons that might have been carried by water have been handled by the railroads.

But he said that there had been what might be called indirect benefits from the opening of the waterway.

"Since it was opened," he said, "railroad rates for wheat, for coffee, sugar, sisal and other products from down south have been reduced. Some shippers might say that they don't care whether the waterway is ever put into full operation since they already are receiving the benefits of competition."

OAK PARK TO VISIT FAIR TODAY ON ITS 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Oak Park, known as the world's largest village, is 100 years old this year, and the entire community is coming to the Fair today to help Chicago commemorate A Century of Progress.

Following daytime musical programs, speeches, parades, and other features, the chief event of the ceremonies will take place at 8:15 p. m. At that time in the court of the Hall of Science more than 3,000 persons will participate in a pageant portraying the history of the suburb. The pageant was written by Mrs. Lionel S. Hakes and is being directed by Andrew String, Allen York, Edward Weiss, and Mary Kane.

The celebration will open at 10 a. m. with a musical program in the Court of States. One of the colorful events will be the children's pageant, to be given by students from the various schools and Sunday schools at 1 p. m. in the Court of States.

Maj. Hugh M. Walter is chairman of the day.

BIRTH DECLINE CAUSES HUNT FOR NEW USES FOR GAS

Are Needed to Maintain Growth of Industry.

A declining birth rate throughout the country has convinced the gas industry that new uses for gas must become general to insure a growth of the business during the next 50 years. The subject came up for discussion at yesterday's session of the American Gas association convention.

"The era 1920-'30, just passed, marked the peak of our jazz age, when we placed undue emphasis on speed, color, swank, and flimsy beauty," declared the report of the association's committee on research. "We are now in a period of emphasis on economy, durability, conservative comforts, and other qualities of a more lasting nature. We are through scrambling for artificial happiness. We are today concerned with more mature things, comfortable homes, adult education, greater distribution of wealth, unemployment insurance, and old age security."

Work on Gas Driven Auto.

Frank P. Tarratt of London, president of the British Institution of Gas Engineers, said that experiments are now under way in England looking toward the use of compressed gas for the operation of automobiles. The gas is compressed to 5,000 pounds to the square inch in special containers and is fed to cylinders permanently fixed to the automobile chassis and goes into the engine at a pressure of 3,000 pounds per square inch.

Equipped with gas fuel a single deck motor bus covers a distance of 7 miles without recharging, Mr. Tarratt said. He explained that 250 cubic feet of gas is equivalent to one gallon of gasoline, and the cost is substantially less.

N. T. Branche of Toledo, O., declared that year around air conditioning is the next big development of the industry. What he termed manufactured weather has already made it possible to transfer a large cigar manufacturing business from Cuba to New Jersey. The association's research committee announced that an eight or nine room house can be air cooler during the summer at a cost of $100 or less. It was predicted that in a few years a house without conditioned air will be as unsalable as one without running water.

The delegates to the gas association convention will take over the Old Mexico concession at the World's Fair today. Starting at 1 p. m. the building will be closed to the public for the day and evening.

LINDBERGHS VISIT LENIN'S TOMB; ATTEND BALLET

MOSCOW, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh topped off a strenuous day of sightseeing in the soviet capitol with a visit tonight to a Russian ballet, the "Red Poppy."

While Mrs. Lindbergh toured several Russian art museums and inspected a number of modern workers' homes, the colonel was busy conferring with chiefs of the military and civil aviation services concerning the development of the industry, then was taken through a military aviation factory. In the late afternoon the couple went together to visit Lenin's tomb.

Col. Lindbergh insisted his visit is "purely personal" and not intended as a good-will tour.

"We didn't decide to come here until long after we left the United States," he said. "We are here merely because we wanted to see such an interesting country."

FAIR WILL BRING ERA OF SPIRITUAL GROWTH: PINCHOT

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition marks not only the end of 100 years of the greatest material progress the world has seen, but also the opening of another century of progress during which social and spiritual progress will catch up with material development.

This was the belief expressed yesterday by Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who spoke at the celebration of Pennsylvania day at the Fair. Appearing before city, state, and Fair officials in the trustees' room in the Administration building, the governer lauded President Roosevelt and the NRA as "proof that America has not lost her soul, and that the public comes first."

Sees a Greater Century Ahead.

"The past century was one of progress such as the world has never known," Gov. Pinchot said. "It is worth talking about, and Chicago has done us a great service in letting us see it so clearly. But I think that an even greater century is ahead of us. I believe that social and spiritual progress is beginning to catch up with material progress.

"I believe that our grandchildren are going to live in a country so much wiser, so much richer in a true sense, so much healthier and happier than ours today, that it will be like a new earth inhabited by a better race."

Only 35 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

President Roosevelt is the prophet of this new era, according to Gov. Pinchot, who referred to him as "the man who remembered the forgotten man during the campaign and has continued to remember him since the election."

"The Public Comes First."

"We are changing from an unlimited monarchy to a really democratic state," he said. "We are moving toward a time when, indeed and in truth, the public will come first. And the man we have to thank for it is Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States."

Gov. Pinchot assailed the old line politicians, charging that they were creatures of "hereditary money kings." He pointed to his own state, where, he said, the old line politicians have been "kicked out" as an example of the new century approaching.

"Pennsylvania has the best people and the worst politicians in the world," he said. "But there is a new deal approaching. Rock ribbed Pennsylvania, for generations in the control of the hard boiled money bossed Republican organization, has been having a change of heart. One Matt Quay and then Boies Penrose ran the state. They were the kind of bosses big business likes. They held the state in an iron grip and made the governors and legislators do what the money kings wanted."

The overthrowing of Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, who succeeded Penrose, and the election of Pinchot himself was cited by the governor as proof that Pennsylvania is awakening.

Holds Mellon Is on Toboggan.

"Mellon and the Mellon dynasty are on the toboggan. But they are not there alone. We shall not go far wrong if we say the same thing of Morgan and the Morgan dynasty, and the other big fellows who think and act as if they had title in fee simple to the United States and all that is therein. Mr. Mellon was the only man in American history of whom it may be said that three presidents served under him. The new deal put an end to his power."

When the governor's party entered the grounds at the 14th street Court of Honor a salute of 19 guns was fired and troops from Camp Whistler at the Fair passed in review. Plans to hold the speaking and general celebration in the Court of Hall of States were abandoned because of rain.

MINERS STRIVE TO STIR STEEL WORKERS' STRIKE

Parade Town Near the Carnegie Mills.

Clairton, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—A veritable army of police stood guard with tear gas and riot guns today while 500 Fayette county coal miners marched into this town to try to induce the 6,000 workers in the Carnegie steel plant to walk out in a sympathetic strike. There was no disorder.

The strikers, with police escorts, paraded through the streets, started home, and then returned to encamp for several hours, a block from the plant's entrance. Later they started home afoot and by truck, leaving about 50 behind.

More than 4,000 Clairton school children had been excused from classes today for fear there would be trouble. The strikers were singing and playing accordions and guitars as they departed.

Banners Carried in Parade.

"Join the union, men!"

"United we stand; divided we fall."

"Frick does not own us; we only work for him."

"Join our 'holiday' and do not return to work until Frick signs the coal code."

Frick is the H. C. Frick Coke company, a United States Steel corporation subsidiary, which has not yet agreed to the coal code recently signed by President Roosevelt. The Carnegie company also is a United States steel subsidiary.

The police detail included state police, Clairton officers, county deputies, and 90 private police of the Carnegie company.

Steel Official Answers Pinchot.

Gov. Pinchot sent a telegram from Chicago to Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel company, putting blame on that company's policy toward organized labor.

Answering the governor late today, Hughes said:

"Our only purpose in wiring you was to prefer our duty to notify you, the chief officer of the state, of a situation which was and still is extremely dangerous. . . . The continued operation of our plants, employing thousands of men, is certainly an aid to the recovery program and any interference, especially from outside sources, will retard any possible recovery."

CREDIT INCREASE IN AUTO TOURING TO WORLD'S FAIR

An upturn was reported yesterday in America's three and a half billion dollar a year industry of catering to motor car travelers. The report was compiled at the close of a two day conference of the American Automobile association's touring advisory board at the Palmer house.

A Century of Progress was credited with boosting 1933 touring over the 1932 records. Elmer Jenkins, manager of the A. A. A. tour service, said that 30 per cent of the travel inquiries received at the association's 1,000 affiliated clubs this year were about the World's Fair. There was a decline in travel to Canadian, New England and far western resort areas.

"Any increase in public confidence for the future will be attended by the heaviest automobile travel in history next year," Mr. Jenkins said.

William Furlong, director of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce highway department, reported that the new road to Mexico City will be open to traffic after the middle of November or the first of December. Next year, he said, the highway wil be surfaced for the entire 765 miles across deserts, through jungles and over mountains from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City. "Mexico will become the outstanding attraction for long distance winter motoring," said Mr. Jenkins.

GOV. PINCHOT BLAMES U. S. STEEL CORP. FOR COAL MINERS STRIKE

Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania yesterday telegraphed Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel company, that Hughes had "nothing but the blind and brutal conduct of affiliated officials to thank" for activities of striking coal miners in Pennsylvania.

Hughes wired him asking that he prevent a gathering of miners at Clairton, Pa., to protest against the alleged violence of deputy sheriffs employed by the Frick Coke company and against the refusal of officials of the United States Steel corporation to sign the soft coal code. Carnegie Steel and Frick Coke are U. S. Steel subsidiaries.

"If the Carnegie Steel company is threatened by striking miners," Gov. Pinchot replied, "it has nothing but the blind and brutal conduct of affiliated officials to thank for it. The moment these officials cease to let their willful and antiquated prejudices against organized labor stand in the way of national recovery and sign the coal code the trouble will be over."

He asserted that until they do sign the national supply of soft coal "and with it the whole recovery program will be in serious danger."

"I hope," he continued, "that the people of the United States will come to know that the selfish arrogance and resort to violence of the U. S. Steel, through its subsidiaries, is holding up the success of our national efforts for recovery.

"Now that this violence is recoiling upon you, and you are getting a taste of your own medicine, you run to me for help. I am under oath to enforce the peace in Pennsylvania. I have already suppressed the violence of your deputy sheriffs in Fayette county. State police were already on the ground before your appeal was received."

HORNER CALLS ON COAL OPERATORS TO ASSURE PEACE

Gov. Horner yesterday notified Illinois coal mine operators in session at the Majestic hotel that "we can't have any more disorders growing out of union struggles" and received a reply that the meeting was concerned with the marketing phases of the industry rather than with labor matters.

The operators' meeting had set up part of the system to administer the coal code in 1,200 mines in Illinois, and had adjourned before Gov. Horner's message was received.

However, the heads of two operators' associations said they would take up the governor's request, and meet union representatives soon. They were Rice Miller Jr., Hillsboro, of the Illinois Coal Producers' association, and W. J. Jenkins of Chicago, of the Illinois Coal Operators' association.

Machinery to handle labor disputes will be set up after the operators' organization has been completed, it was said.

VETERANS OF 1893 FAIR TO RECALL CONGRESS FIGHT

The Association of '93rs, composed of veterans who attended the Columbian exposition of 1893, will gather tomorrow evening in the Great Northern hotel for dinner.

Col. William Nelson Pelouze, who will be toastmaster at the dinner, recalled yesterday how prominent citizens of Chicago, by pledging their personal financial support, succeeded in bringing the Fair here, although New York offered strong competition.

HONOR ILLINOIS AUTHORS TODAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

Literature day will be observed today in the program of Illinois achievement week at the Illinois Host house at A Century of Progress. Illinois writers will be guests of the Fair at the Illinois building.

Mrs. F. Jefferson Redfield, chairman of the program, announced that representatives of three universities—Illinois, Northwestern, and Chicago—would be present at the afternoon program from 1 to 5 o'clock to point to the contributions to literature made by their institutions. Vincent Starrett, president of the Society of Midland Authors, will preside at the evening program, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Among those to speak in the evening will be Carl Sandburg, Mary Hastings Bradley, James Weber Linn, and Lew Sarett. Ethel M. Colson Braselton will pay tribute to deceased Illinois authors. Mrs. James Henry Jackson of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will speak on "A Century of Illinois Authors."

MARCONI AND HIS WIFE TO ARRIVE IN CITY SUNDAY

Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, will arrive in Chicago, with his wife, on Sunday, to attend the World's Fair and participate in the American Legion convention. He will deliver a formal address in behalf of the Italian government at the opening of the convention in Soldiers' field Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

"A Century of Progress would not be complete unless it paid homage to the man who has made the nations of the world neighbors," said Commander Luigi Ranieri, general director of the Italian pavilion at the Exposition, yesterday.

Upon their arrival the Marconis will be welcomed by a reception committee and escorted to the Drake hotel where they will stay. Later they will attend mass at the Holy Name cathedral, and a Sunday evening banquet in the Stevens hotel.

Senator Marconi will be officially received at the Fair Tuesday afternoon.

JURORS APPEAR BEWILDERED IN STEVENS TRIAL

State and Defense Outline Their Cases.

Twelve jurors, accepted by the defense because they had few financial dealings and suffered no losses in the market crash of 1929, appeared bewildered yesterday by the intricate financial transactions presented to their view in the opening statements at the trial of Ernest J. Stevens. The trial is being conducted in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg.

Stevens is a former director of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance company. He is charged with embezzlement and larceny in connection with the transfer of $1,600,000 of the assets of the insurance company to the Stevens Hotel company. Both compaines were formerly controlled by the Stevens family.

Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora made the opening statement for the prosecution. Stevens, left as the only defendant in the case through the illness of his father, James W. Stevens, and the suicide of his brother, Raymond W. Stevens, showed no emotion as he heard Prosecutor O'Hora outline the charges of the state.

Charges Records Falsified.

Mr. O'Hora told the jury that he would prove that records of both the insurance company and the hotel company had been falsified in the transfer of $1,000,000 in cash and $600,000 in securities from the insurance company to the hotel. He also charged that the Stevenses made false statements to the state insurance commissioner concerning assets of the Illinois Life.

The prosecutor declared that the insurance company had a finance committee made up of James W. Stevens, his two sons—Raymond and Ernest—and Clarence Moore and B. S. Stookey. The committee held no formal meetings, Mr. O'Hora charged, but did business on a memorandum basis.

A memo concerning a contemplated transaction was sent to members of the committee and the signatures of three of them enforced the action, according to the prosecutor.

Discusses Assets Transfer.

The transfer of assets involved in the case, Prosecutor O'Hora told the jury, took place in 1931—$700,000 of cash in June, $300,000 more cash later in the year, and then an additional $600,000 in Liberty bonds.

These Liberty bonds, Mr. O'Hora said, were listed as assets on the books of the Illinois Life and the Stevens hotel at the same time.

"We will show that the books of these corporations were falsified," the prosecutor said. "We will show that the Illinois Life Insurance company on Dec. 31, 1931, made a statement to the state insurance commissioner reporting cash of $700,000, when they actually had only $200,000."

Another charge made by Mr. O'Hora was that in 1931, when the Stevens hotel's first mortgage bonds were selling on the open market for half their par value, the Illinois Life Insurance company purchased several hundred thousand dollars worth of the hotel's third mortgage bonds at par.

Stransky Opens for Defense.

Attorney Franklin J. Stransky made the opening statement for the defense. He declared that the transfer of funds from the Illinois Life to the Stevens Hotel company appeared on the books of both concerns. The transaction was "open and aboveboard," and there "was no attempt to hide anything," he said.

"The three Stevenses—James W., Raymond W., and Ernest J.—could not by the greatest stretch of imagination be said to be men of criminal type," Attorney Stransky continued. "They were outstanding business men and their activities and the activities of members of their family before them had a great effect on the growth and progress of the city.

"Ernest J. Stevens is not an insurance man and did not direct the policies of the company, although the dealings of the company were open and aboveboard. Ernest J. Stevens is a hotel man."

Attorney Stransky said that the Stevens family determined to build the Stevens hotel after the city council in 1925 had passed an electrification ordinance. The ordinance brought a proposal for the building of a "super railroad station" on the site of the 12th street station, and this would have made the Stevens the outstanding hotel in the city, Mr. Stransky said.

"The hotel looked like a good investment and as such the Illinois Life Insurance company purchased three million dollars worth of hotel bonds," he continued. "Then came the depression—one of the things that made the hotel a poor investment. Another factor, that caused the hotel to lose money was the closing of the banks.

Defense View of Transaction.

"Every one felt that the depression was a matter of a few months at most and our president was crying that prosperity was just around the corner. The Illinois Life Insurance company faced the prospect of losing $3,000,000 if the officials allowed the hotel to fail. To protect their investment and—in so doing—to protect the hotel, the officials brought about the transaction in question."

Judge Feinberg overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment during the day's hearing, and also overruled a second defense motion to force the state to elect one of the three counts in the indictment as the issue at the trial. The judge indicated that he might rule that the state must make the latter choice before the case is given to the jury.

A property settlement described as "substantial" was made out of court, and Dix created a trust found for the couple's daughter, Mary Ellen, 10 months of age.

JAIL WOMAN FOR KILLING KEEPER OF BEER GARDEN

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Miss Sonya Dean, 22, was a police prisoner in receiving hospital today, accused by officers of killing Clement Snyder, 39, proprietor of the beer garden in Ecorse, where she was a waitress.

Miss Dean was quoted by investigators as admitting she shot Snyder, and explaining she became enraged when he swore at her. She had been keeping company with her employer, she said, and the tragedy was the culmination of a quarrel that began Saturday night. Snyder was married.

A score or more patrons witnessed the shooting late last night. They said Miss Dean went behind the bar and picked up a revolver Snyder had kept there since the place was held up recently. Just as she fired the barkeeper struck her with a cuspidor, the first object he could lay his hands on, in an effort to keep her from shooting. That blow knocked her unconscious and sent her to the hospital.

BATTLE ON MILK BOOST LOOMS IN CAPITAL TODAY

Rival Chicago Groups Go to Washington.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A fight over the right of the federal government to force all distributors of milk in Chicago and suburbs to raise their retail prices of milk and cream is in prospect in Washington today, according to leaders of rival delegations of dairymen who left Chicago yesterday for the public hearing on the milk code before Dr. Clyde L. King, dairy administrator.

On one side of the fight are the milk companies who control most of the milk and cream retailing in the metropolitan area. Together with the Pure Milk association, sales agency for some 17,000 dairy farmers, these dealers have prepared a revised milk agreement and are asking the agricultural adjustment administration to approve it in place of the one under which all milk purveyors in the Chicago area were licensed on Aug. 1.

Calls for Price Increases.

Included in the provisions of the amended agreement, whose terms have been kept a secret from the public and those farmers and milk dealers who do not belong to the Milk Control, Inc., or Chicago Milk Dealers' association, are a price increase of 1 cent a quart on milk and 5 cents a quart on coffee cream. These price raises are expected to enable the dealers to boost the prices paid to farmers by about 33 cents a hundred pounds.

On the other side of the fight are the attorneys for several milk companies in Chicago who sell their bottled milk at wholesale to independent milk wagon drivers and stores. These concerns maintain that the wording of the milk code favored the companies owning their own retail routes.

Leave for Washington.

Another group opposing the federal milk code who left for Washington yesterday consisted of State Representative Frank A. McCarthy of Elgin and Thomas Bolger of Woodstock, members of the Illinois state milk commission. According to their statements yesterday, the milk companies are asking the government to approve a system whereby the farmer gets one price for milk sold in bottles and a lower price for the milk sold as cream, although both grades of milk are identical in quality and the retail cream business is just as profitable to the companies as are fluid milk sales.

Another group which indicated yesterday that it would oppose the AAA milk agreement today consists of some 40 milk depot owners belonging to the Independent Milk Distributors Association of Northern Illinois. They charge that consumers are being discriminated against when they are forced to pay as much for milk on a "cash and carry" basis as for milk delivered to the doorstep on credit.

All of the opposing factions contend that the proposed changes in the code, with the higher price provisions, will curtail milk consumption in the Chicago area, thus taking away market outlets for the farmer, contrary to the purpose of the farm adjustment act.

Report Meadowmoor Dairies Sold.

Reports were current yesterday that the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., one of the milk companies cited by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for violation of the milk code, was being sold to a group of persons formerly with a Wisconsin dairy company. At the Meadowmoor company offices it was said that the transaction had not been completed, while at the Pure Milk association headquarters it was stated that the new management of the Meadowmoor company expected to buy and sell milk under the terms of the milk code.

The campaign for enforcing the detailed specifications of the milk code was said by local agencies of the federal administration to be "making progress," but it was asserted that several concerns were still continuing violations and faced loss of their licenses and fines of $1,000 a day.

Some apprehension was expressed by organized milk dealers here yesterday that a further boost in retail milk prices might react upon those who wrote the amendment should the government be unable to enforce the code upon all dairymen. They feared that consumers who are obliged to budget their milk purchases might turn to condensed or evaporated milk.

DIPLOMATS COOK UP FORMULA TO LESSEN WAR RISK

Seek a Rebalancing of Power in Europe.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—While the league of nations assembly put off the public session scheduled for this afternoon for the unusual reason that no one could be found who wanted to make a speech, disarmament negotiations on the margin of the assembly attained a higher pitch of activity.

Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary of foreign affairs, called on Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador at large, in the morning. In the afternoon Suvich had an important interview with Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister. Then he saw Davis again.

Davis Has Tea with Simon.

The American envoy had tea with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, while Baron von Neurath and Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, got chummy with Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, at a luncheon where they happened to sit together.

While all this was going on Joseph Paul-Boncour, French foreign minister, conferred with Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria.

The disarmament conference was definitely transferred to the backroom and it is hard to tell just what the boys are hatching among themselves. In some quarters great optimism is derived from the fact that the delegates have stopped talking about ideals for home consumption and have got down to brass tacks in the secrecy of their boudoirs. In other quarters, mostly orthodox pacifist ranks, this is viewed with alarm.

Asks Right to Declare War.

From what is known at the moment of the various positions, one country, France, is virtually asking for the right to declare war on Germany if the projected disarmament convention is violated.

Another country, Italy, is urging a formula which would make an increase in German armaments one of the first consequences of the so-called disarmament convention.

Furthermore it is believed that disarmament is being used as a quid pro quo in the tortuous negotiations between France and Italy for the hegemony of central Europe. The purists are sure no good can come from this.

Rebalance European Forces.

Actually what is being cooked up here has little to do with disarmament as an abstract ideal, but is rather a rebalancing of forces in Europe which is intended to diminish the risk of war caused by the present tension between France and Germany.

If the negotiations here are successful THE TRIBUNE is reliably informed that the disarmament conference will be adjourned for four years after the signing of a preliminary convention covering that period. Signatories to the convention would be obliged to state what actual reductions in arms they are going to make at the end of the trial period, but it is obvious that a great many questions are going to be left in suspense.

A dominant rôle in the negotiations here is being played by the Italians. It is generally understood tonight that the Italians have hatched up a concrete compromise formula for bringing the French and Germans together, but nothing definite about the plan can be learned. The Americans deny any plan has been referred to Davis.

The theory on which the Italian compromise is based is that if they get adequate supervision guarantees the French can afford to let Germany increase its "defensive" armaments, both of men and material, above the treaty figures. This will enable the Germans to accept close supervision during the test period demanded by the French.

Many reported details of the plan are highly ingenious, but apparently have not yet assumed importance, as there is so far no suggestion of a general get-together. Davis' rôle, as far as can be gathered, is just one of listening.

Nazis Forbid Prisoners to Use Hitler Salute

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The Hitler salute must not be used in prisons, the governor of Mecklenburg-Luebeck decreed today. "It is the salute of free men," he said. "Therefore prisoners are prohibited from saluting each other or the warden with it."

REPEAL IS RATIFIED BY CONVENTIONS IN COLORADO, VERMONT

Meeting in the senate chamber of the state house, fourteen delegates elected to a constitutional convention on Sept. 5 voted unanimous ratification of the twenty-first amendment repealing the eighteenth. Vermont's popular vote in favor of repeal was 41,182 to 20,714.

The convention was called to order by Secretary of State Rawson C. Myrick, who read the proclamation of Gov. Stanley C. Wilson. The ceremonies were brief and simple. After a chairman was elected the vote was taken, tabulated, and announced.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—At a constitutional convention held at the state capitol today 15 delegates elected at a recent special election formally voted Colorado's ratification of the 21st amendment which repeals the eighteenth. The repealists won the election by 70,000 majority. Colorado becomes the twenty-fifth state to complete formal ratification.

ASK ALDERMEN FOR VIEWS ON LIQUOR CONTROL

Councilmen Will Be Heard by Board.

State Senator Harold G. Ward, chairman of the state commission on liquor control legislation, announced last night that he had sent telegrams to all members of the city council asking them to present their views on the question of what new state laws will be needed when prohibition is repealed.

"A number of aldermen have spoken to me," said Senator Ward, "and some of them seem to have decided views about what our commission should recommend to the legislature. They were elected to speak for the people of their wards in such matters and we feel that they can be of material assistance to the commission."

Aldermen to Be Heard.

The aldermen from the first twenty-five wards have been invited to appear at a commission meeting tonight and the second half, those from wards 26 to 50, have been asked to speak tomorrow night. Both meetings will be held in the county building.

"These probably will be our last hearings in Chicago," said Senator Ward, "as next week, with the opening of the special session of the general assembly, we shall transfer our meetings to Springfield to give downstate its opportunity to be heard fully. We have heard from some downstaters here, but we hope to have representatives of all interested organizations come in before we get down to our conference work."

Speak Before Commission.

He made his announcement at a meeting of the commission which heard several speakers, among whom were Miss Jessie Binford of the Juvenile Protective association; W. W. Bayley, former state secretary for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment; Edward McGinnis, president of the Cook county council of the American Legion, and Attorney A. D. Weiner, who was chairman of the political action committee of the United Societies when that organization was fighting the Anti-Saloon league.

Miss Binford urged the commission to include in its recommendations safeguards against all night bar permits for dances and the sale of strong liquor in cabarets and roadhouses. Bayley urged an adaptation of the Canadian control system with a state commission in charge of all licensing and regulation, the establishment of controlled package stores, and the abolition of all bars.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Ruth Bryan Owen, United States minister to Denmark, was the only woman among high Danish dignitaries and foreign envoys who today offered congratulations to King Christian on the 63d anniversary of his birth.

The king drove in a four horse gala coach across Amalienborg castle square through crowds of school children who had been given a holiday in honor of the occasion.

FOOD SHORTAGE ALARMS RUSSIA; PEASANTS EXILED

MOSCOW, Sept. 26. — (AP) — The Ukraine and north Caucasus, producers of one-third of soviet Russia's grain, have seen a general house-cleaning among local officials and dissident peasants because of a serious food shortage.

At the same time political sections were introduced into agriculture to supply a driving force for collectivization of farms, and to place the undisputed control of the key units in agriculture in the hands of new leaders.

Outstanding among the changes in the Ukraine was the sending of P. P. Postisheff, a veteran member of the communist party, to clean up a situation in that area wrought by the mass inertia of the peasantry, at whose door was placed part of the blame for a famine last winter.

On Job Short Time.

Virtually every regional communist party official in more than a dozen villages through which an Associated Press correspondent passed on a recent motor tour said he had been on the job only a few months.

Most of them were brought from distant places to supplant those whom the central authorities in Moscow found too lenient with the independent farmers and were thus held responsible for last year's scanty crop.

Even the native presidents of some collective farms—the administration of which heretofore has been self-elective—were replaced in some instances by communist party members from other localities.

Some of those who were removed were transferred to other jobs. Others, perhaps, shared the fate of some sections of the dissatisfied peasantry and were exiled to northern regions.

Mum on Food Shortage.

Soft-spoken men — men in deadly earnest about their work—are now in the saddle. They do not talk about these developments. They refuse to discuss the exact extent of last winter's distress.

"We are not concerned with that, now," was the typical official answer to questions about the food shortage.

"Can't you see that we have a good harvest this year?"

No record was available regarding the changes among the peasants, but it is known that in addition to mass exiles for open opposition to the government's policies—particularly in the Cossack region in north Caucasus—large numbers, it is officially admitted, fled the Ukraine and north Caucasus, seeking more food.

Some of these have now returned, attracted by the new, bumper harvest. The replacement of others is now going on by the gradual settlement in key regions of persons drawn from other places, particularly communists and sympathizers and Red army reservists.

The correspondent saw many deserted village huts, their yards overgrown with weeds. Few fields, however, were not cultivated because of the emigration. From none of the remaining peasants came tales of acute suffering, although all said conditions had been very bad.

Even the individual peasant, the loudest grumblers of all because their taxes were higher than those of the collective farmers, seemed imbued with a spirit of optimism occasioned by the present large crop.

KANSAS TREASURER RESIGNS IN FORGED BOND INVESTIGATION

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Tom B. Boyd, state treasurer, resigned his position late today, following repeated demands from Gov. Landon that he step aside so the state fiscal agency could be reopened. Boyd, who has been implicated in the Ronald Finney bond forgery manipulations, had refused to relinquish his office until his friends began "putting on pressure" when it became evident that they would be dragged into the impeachment proceedings which were being formulated by a legislative committee.

His resignation paves the way for immediate opening of the fiscal agency and payment of principal and interest on municipal bonds. The municipalities have paid in over a million dollars since the state treasury was placed under military guard when Finney and Boyd were arrested on charges of embezzlement, forgery and fraudulent use of the mails. Boyd is at liberty on $50,000 bond. Finney is still in jail.

NOTES OF THE LEGIONNAIRES

Toronto will make a strong bid for the 1934 convention of the American Legion, it was indicated yesterday. Legion officials were notified that a check for $25,000, the amount which must be posted, would be brought to Chicago shortly by Col. Le Felsch, Canadian minister of national defense. A fund of $75,000 has been raised in Toronto, it was said. Miami previously seemed to be in the best position for getting the 1934 convention.

An impressive preliminary to the convention will be a dedicatory service Sunday evening at 8 o'clock on Navy pier, when the public "will be taken into the Legion." The program will be opened by the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra, and posting of the colors by the Combat Medal Men's association.

After singing by the Cook County Legion chorus of 200 voices, Mayor Kelly and Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal church will speak in tribute to the soldier dead.

Preliminary contests in the drum and bugle corps competition will be limited to five minutes each. Eleven corps will be selected for the finals starting at 7 o'clock in the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 4, at Soldiers' field. There will be eight special judges for the event.

An individual contest for drummers and buglers will be held Monday, Oct. 2, at the Board of Trade building. It will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

There will be no convention session on Tuesday, Oct. 3, when 135,000 Legionnaires will take part in the great parade. The convention sessions will be resumed on Wednesday and Thursday at the Civic Opera building, Madison street and Wacker drive.

Trophies to be awarded to prize units in the parade were placed on display in one of the show windows of the Marshall Field & Co. Men's Store yesterday. The trophies have a total value of $1,000, according to F. L. Boissy, chairman of trophies and awards for the Legion. Public officials and business men donated them.

Hosts for those attending the convention will be 10,000 Legion and auxiliary members. This army is required for the housing committees, transportation, and for information and liaison. More than 250 Legionnaires are needed to handle the drum and bugle corps and band competitions.

"We expect no rowdyism," said Hugh J. Falvey, one of Sheriff Meyering's assistants, yesterday in discussing plans for policing the convention. "The average age of the Legion members is 41. Most of them are settled down, and many are bringing their wives and children."

Free band concerts will be a part of the convention program, when the band contests start at 8 o'clock in the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 4, at the band shell opposite 11th street in Grant park.

MARY ADMITS SCRATCHING HER PRINCE'S FACE

Mary McCormic, opera singer, will not abandon her present vaudeville tour to return to California to fight the divorce suit brought by Prince Serge Mdivani, she said yesterday. Admitting that his citations of a face scratching she administered was true, she inquired cheerfully, "why deny it? They ought to give me a medal for it." She said she would remain in Chicago for about ten days before proceeding to New York to keep an engagement there. Mdivani's charges that she was too friendly with Samuel Insull, deposed utilities magnate, continued to irritate the singer, who has repeatedly denied the allegations.

NAZI BOYCOTT MEETING CALLED FOR TOMORROW

Plans for boycotting Nazi products in this country will be discussed at a luncheon tomorrow at the Covenant club, it was announced last night by Max M. Korshak, a master in chancery who is organizer of the central western states in the movement.

Among the speakers will be Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, who was one of the delegates from Chicago to a conference called in New York by Samuel A. Untermeyer on Sept. 10. Gen. Clinnin will report on the resolutions adopted at the conference protesting against the alleged inhumanity of the Nazi government and resolving to raise a fund of $500,000 for the purpose of carrying on an active campaign against the purchase of Nazi products in this country as long as that government continues its present policy.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

RECOVERY BY RETREAT.

When President Roosevelt, just taking office, met the bank crisis with decision there was no doubt a thrill of confidence borrowed from him spread over the country. Even with every bank suspended the people did not despair nor were they unduly alarmed. They awaited the recovery of their monetary system in good spirit. There was an invaluable lift to the national morale and a valuable experience showing that the country could take the shock of the unexpected if it could place reliance in the administration faced with the problems.

This confidence carried over for several months. Although the hundred days of congress might have started many serious doubts, the belief prevailed that the nation had swung from down to up. Much that was being done in government could be questioned by experienced judgment, but there was a general inspiration in the vigor and enthusiasm with which new policies were put into form, if not into operation. After much despair the people were ready to believe that the untried might offer them more hope than they had found in anything proposed or done to date.

In such an atmosphere of lively expectation the new program of government, however alarming to the old line constitutionalists, was developed for a people prepared to coöperate more trustfully than distrustingly. Citizens of responsibility and experience in industry and economics had their doubts, but they knew that their criticisms would make small headway against the determination of the government to try experiments and the willingness of so many people to submit to them.

Confidence at first had considerable encouragement from various uplifts which were proceeding, it is almost self-evident, from natural causes, from the undirected play of economic forces. These uplifts, both in price and production, reviving hope that the deadlock had been broken, were timed to give government policies new credit in the expectations of the people.

Now it is impossible to keep the eyes closed to the fact that there is a reversal of sentiment. There may be difference of opinion as to what has caused this, but the fact cannot be denied or ignored. It is apparent in Washington, where it is admitted that the first hopes entertained for the planned recovery are not being realized. Industry is not confident but is uncertain. The future is plain to no person. No person with a stake in the business world knows precisely what conditions he'll have to meet in conducting his affairs. The investor does not know what he may expect, even in the character of the money which may be returned to him on his investment.

The national recovery administration has put out some codes, and the administrators are swamped with particulars of business which they perceive hardly at all. In consequence, the industries already under a code are struggling with legal details controlling their business, which in large part they do not understand, and other industries are marking time in complete darkness. A business which finds itself involved in numerous codes conceived by government officials who never conducted any business successfully may be in despair, made worse by the feeling that even an honest attempt to meet unworkable terms will expose the management to prosecution. The men who have endeavored to put every business detail in the United States under a code of law have never been responsible for the successful administration of business, and when they are most in doubt they resort to threats. They not only confuse, but they terrify. The farm adjustment program has destroyed resources with a great waste of public funds and has not helped the farmer. People have been told that the essential is confidence. If that is the prime requisite it is being destroyed. Uncertainties do not promote confidence.

The President once said that no ideas would be persisted in beyond the proof of failure. The administration was not to be stubborn or doctrinaire. Its eyes were to be open and it was to be guided by experience. If a program revealed that it was misconceived, full of error, and proceeding to no good, it would be dropped. If this reasonable principle of action still prevails in Washington, it must now be apparent that retreat is indicated in several directions.

FRANCE AND HITLER'S GERMANY.

French attitude toward armament undoubtedly presents a better front with Hitler and the Nazis controlling Germany than it did before. The French people may have wondered that other parts of the world could avoid their logic and fail to see their position, but much of the world will take more lessons from hope than from experience. So long as Germany apparently was trying to sustain a moderate, peacefully inclined government it was the counsel of hope to take advantage of that and pull back the bristling military face. Something could be made of the theorem that if wars are assumed they will be had.

Hitler and his following may only have closed the logical circle; that is, Germany, being regarded as innately dangerous to peace and being treated as such a danger, produces Hitler and his zealots in consequence. If the danger was imaginary before it becomes real afterwards.

When Hitler was expected to beat the war gong with the mailed fist he made a remarkably quieting speech, possibly with the idea of confusing his critics and proving that he was not so simple as to be everything they could predict of him. But Nazi activities did not bear him out and the French can make a case against him. Whenever Europe finds a lot of yeast working in an autocracy it expects trouble and frequently gets it.

There is an uncertain future and France can point to it as justification for military preparation. Distant countries, such as the United States, may not see the substance of the fears so easily. Distance may improve or impair judgment. Cuba is not Germany and yet it causes worries here, although it does not disturb the French.

DR. THOMPSON.

Dr. John Thompson in a sermon at the Chicago temple preached temperance now as he has preached it for many years. The Rev. Mr. Thompson as a sincere clergyman has been opposed to the evil uses made of alcohol, but has been distinguished among the opponents of liquor in that he has throughout kept his balanced view of the problem. He reminded his hearers that the intemperate position taken by the foes of alcoholic beverages had a great deal to do with the reaction which is now removing the 18th amendment from the constitution. He did not follow the intemperate advocates into their defiance of realities and of probabilities. Although the opponent, he did not become the irresponsible bigot.

He is therefore in a good position to warn against intemperance in one direction now, just as he warned against it in another before. That is an appeal which can be made to moderate people all over the country and it is indeed necessary that it should be made. The moderate minded people of the United States are in the majority, tending neither to the excesses of bigotry nor the excesses of the dissolute. There can be and should be a general agreement that neither extreme can be tolerated in responsible society. As authority is taken away from the zealot it is again placed in the hands of the moderate man. His standards of conduct should prevail and laws should recognize them. He asks for neither too much nor too little from government regulation of personal conduct.

The repeal of the 18th amendment does not mean that the country indorses disreputable practices or condones disreputable private conduct. It really means that adult America again assumes the responsibility of maturity and gets away from juvenile ideas of moral coercion. Dr. Thompson gives a fine example of clerical understanding. Without lowering his wishes for the better conduct of the individual he does not push the individual too far. He is an intelligent liberal of high ideals with a practical program for success in making the world as much better as it can be made. He has had opposition in church circles, but his ideas have stood the test of experience and his words of advice are good now as they have been before.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE FOR OPPOSITION.

Republican party leaders in Wisconsin, having heard from the membership, have decided to begin at once making ready to regain the party leadership lost in the landslide of last November.

This decision reverses one of two weeks ago. At that time members of the state executive committee, with the customary caginess of politicians, announced they would hold no general meeting at present for fear it might be construed as an attempt to hamper the administration and retard the return of prosperity.

So many members of the party demanded action, however, that a call has been sent out for a gathering of the executive committee at once to begin a vigorous fight for next year's elections.

The unnamed membership of the party in this instance proved wiser than the leaders. So far as the impulses of the Republican committeemen not to rock the boat were of patriotic origin they were creditable, but it would be difficult to conceive a more foolish procedure politically or one more ill advised from a patriotic standpoint.

The American two party plan is a system of opposition and checks. It is historic that the party in power needs strong and vigorous opposition, however wise and beneficent its leaders may be.

In times like the present the country is scarcely less subject to mass hysteria than during war times, and more than ever it is vital that opposition be strongly aligned to supply the necessary restraint on an administration otherwise unchecked.

It would be suicidal for the party, and even for the nation, if the men who have constituted themselves leaders of Republican thought so were to submit to the emotional excitement of the period that they feared to function in their traditional critical and watchful capacity.

The recovery of Republican jobs is less important than the maintenance of a strong party curb. The rank and file who protested against a policy of avoidance of responsibility sensed this importance and performed a fine service in their demand for party action.

It is hoped the Republicans in Wisconsin will organize vigorously and serve as useful a purpose in opposition as they have in control of the state's political and public policies.

Editorial of the Day

[Sioux City Journal.]

In Chicago a young woman's lawyer is preparing a breach of promise suit against a rich man, and the plaintiff will ask an award of $500,000. The case will go to trial unless settled out of court, and until it is all over and a verdict is brought in the young woman will hope for a sizable amount of the half million she asks. In cases of this kind the amount is always put at a high figure, with the plaintiff feeling indeed fortunate if she gets a fraction of the original sum.

In suits for breach of promise there frequently are complications. In a good many suits the only thing on which a case may be built is merely the broken engagement. Many plaintiffs have not been injured really by the broken agreements, but are looking for cash. It is well established that many women have found broken engagements good investments. No doubt there have been numerous instances in which engagements to wed were so considered from the beginning.

In putting the amount of damages asked at half a million dollars, both the attorney and plaintiff ought to be regarded as in contempt of court. They are in contempt morally if not legally. The amount is too large, and both lawyer and plaintiff know it. Courts should not be instruments to be used by gold diggers to their advantage.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"THIS USUALLY STAID and quiet city," writes a Washington correspondent, "is now full of hubbub, din and deafening noise made by the many newcomers brought in by the new administration rushing about finding their jobs and a place to live." Oh, dear, no! That isn't what makes the hubbub, din and deafening noise in Washington these days. It's made by the brain trust thinking. It continues all night because the brain trust works in relays. When one shift stops thinking and goes off duty then a fresh batch of brain trusters come on watch and start thinking, and so the noise never ends. They keep it up day and night and even Sundays and holidays. Beautiful as Washington is and much as any one may love it, still it must be a great hardship to live there at present. Franklin Delano ought to charter a half dozen or so battleships and take every member of the brain trust down the Potomac on one of his week-end trips. Then the rest of the people in Washington could turn over and get a little sleep.

LXX.

When the lean hounds come down the hilly track,
Circling the scent, hastening along the way,
And the slim girl, Diana, heard them bay
The paling stars, closed in a cloudy wrack,
So did she follow, never looking back,
And watched the wide eyes staring into day
And lifted bow above the straining pack.

Yet when she loosed her arrow she was done,
Whistled her hunters that had ranged afar
And cried her coverts to the rising sun,
Where you, wiping the bloody arrow, cast again,
Insatiate upon the earths of men.

IT WON'T DO A BIT of good to point out to the man who makes up the program of the day at the World's Fair or to any of the reporters who go out there that the Canadian Scottish regiment will not "perform the traditional trooping of the colors ceremony," because there is no such animule. There is in the British army, however, a "trooping of the color," or "colour," as the English spell it. And no American tourist in London on the king's birthday should miss it at the Horse Guard's parade in St. James's park. I will never forget the trooping of the color I saw one June day several years ago. It was a gorgeous spectacle. And I was especially pleased when the regiments marched off the parade ground with their bands playing gayly "Stars and Stripes Forever." Think of British soldiers marching away after trooping the color to the American strains of "Stars and Stripes Forever." A queer lot, the English! What?

But it's "Heil, Hitler, Heil,"
"Hitler, Heil."

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A LADY of social standing and at the same time a parlor farmer undertook to fake reports on tuberculin tests of her dairy farm. Being equally short on honesty and information, she wrote in the temperature of each of her cows before and after each test as an even 100. The normal temperature of a cow varies through several degrees, and no two cows are expected to have exactly the same temperature.

Most of us have a mistaken notion about the normal temperature of the human body. We have heard that it is 98.5. We interpret this as meaning that the normal temperature is exactly the same at all times and in all parts of the body.

The fact is the temperature varies normally at different times at least as much as a fraction of a degree. Furthermore, there is a normal difference between the temperature as it is recorded by thermometers placed under the tongue, under the arm, in the rectum, in the nose, or in other accessible locations sometimes chosen for the purpose.

We get many letters from mothers who are agitated because their children seem to run a half degree of fever daily and have done so for months. They write they can find no cause and they are in a state of desperation. The reply they get is to lay away their thermometers, to break themselves of the temperature taking habit, and to go on their way in faith and peace of mind. Such letters come less frequently now than they did twenty years ago.

The accepted normal relates to the temperature as it is recorded under the tongue while the lips are held together and breathing is being done by the nose route. If the person has recently swallowed cold water or hot coffee the mouth temperature may depart more than a degree from normal, up or down, according to the circumstances. The rectal temperature is generally at least half a degree above that of the mouth. That of the space under the arm or any other body fold is apt to be more than a degree lower than the accepted normal.

Different parts of the skin vary in temperature at the same time, as we have learned since very accurate instruments have been made available. When the skin of the feet and hands is cold that of the forehead is apt to be warm. As a rule, if the air temperature is below 50, the skin of the hands and feet is liable to be cold. The temperature of the skin of the hands may fall twenty degrees below that regarded as normal in the mouth without doing any more harm than the discomfort it causes. That the temperature of an important tissue, the skin, may vary over so wide a range suggests that our conception of the normal has been far too rigid. Dr. H. M. Vernon says the hands usually feel reasonably comfortable as long as their skin temperature is above 79.

When the skin temperature of the extremities falls below about 72 the fingers turn bluish. At skin temperatures ranging from 39 to 77 the blood through the capillaries of the fingers is insufficient to fully supply the needs and some degree of loss in dexterity is noted.

MYOCARDITIS.

E. L. M. writes: 1. What is myocarditis?

2. What are its symptoms?
3. Is there a cure for it?
4. How serious is it?
5. What should be done for the patient?

REPLY.

1. Theoretically it is an inflammation of the muscle of the heart wall. The term is used to cover most forms of weakness of the heart muscle.
2. Dizziness on standing, tendency to faint, dyspnoa or angina on exertion, rapid pulse, low blood pressure are some of the symptoms.
3. Yes, in a certain sense.
4. In many cases it is very serious.
5. He should be under good medical care and he should obey directions. Some cases need to belong to heart classes. Some need to stay in bed.

BUNIONS.

F. C. writes: I would like to know the cause and the cure for bunions. I have been suffering with these for several years and visits to the chiropodist give me very little relief. Is there any massaging or bathing of the feet that will relieve the pain?

REPLY.

Massaging, bathing, and the use of foot powders contribute to comfort, but beyond that they do not go.

Bunions result from displacement of the bones. Nothing sort of replacement can cure them. Some of the secondary effects of bunions may be relieved by such measures as wearing broad shoes, wearing protective pads, wearing toe separators, and keeping corns trimmed. The very troublesome corn is the one on the side of the great toe in the region of the ball.

IT IS ACCIDENTAL.

Mrs. T. G. writes: 1. What causes tubal pregnancy?

2. Can I bear children after an operation for tubal pregnancy?

REPLY.

1. As a rule it is an accident for which no cause can be assigned.
2. If only one tube were removed or tied you may bear children.

INSURANCE BENEFICIARY.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband died two years ago. I was the second wife of my husband and we had been married seventeen years at the time of his death. We have three children. I was named beneficiary of his insurance and was paid by the insurance company. Now a daughter of my husband by his first wife is starting legal proceedings to procure the money paid to me, claiming that her father was not divorced from his first wife, her mother, at the time of his second marriage. I do not know where my husband obtained his divorce and cannot prove that he had done so, although he assured me that he had. Does the law require that I pay to my husband's daughter the money that was paid to me by the insurance company? T. E.

If you were named as beneficiary in the insurance policy then the validity of your marriage is immaterial. Even if the validity of your marriage were material the marriage would be presumed to be valid and it would be practically impossible for your stepdaughter to rebut this presumption.

BANK DEPOSITS.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A national bank in an Illinois town has been operating on a restricted basis. It is now endeavoring to merge with another bank and sell enough stock to liquidate. If they do not succeed will there be any hope of depositors ever getting what is due them?

H. C. E.

CARD READINGS.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There is a woman on Clark street who claims she can tell fortunes by card readings. She hypnotizes women, telling them their husbands are unfaithful. She has been known to cause several separations. Is there any law to prevent this annoyance? C. S.

Giving such readings for a fee is prohibited by city ordinance. We suggest that you try complaining to the police.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

C. V. J. asks: I own two farms in central Illinois which have been in corn as a major crop, but right in the heart of the chinch bug trouble. Am I prevented by the government from sowing wheat on it? What can be done to combat the bugs doing more damage next year?

Answer: If you have not signed an application with the government to reduce wheat acreage there is nothing to prevent your growing all the wheat you choose. To combat the chinch bugs, instruct tenant to burn all cornstalks, dry grass, and weeds, along fence rows and in stubble ground. The bugs do not harbor or destroy such crops as soybeans, cowpeas, alfalfa, or clover, and are especially destructive of rye, oats, and barley. Use more of the former crops and less of the latter.

F. H. J. asks: Is it true that the big packers have had a "good thing" out of the government's pig and sow killing orgy?

Answer: There are nearly 150 packing plants, owned by some ninety concerns, under contract to process the pigs and sows for the government. In general, the big packers obtained no more business than that ordinarily consigned, and the administration of the pig killing campaign maintains the contracts prohibit any packer from obtaining undue profits.

K. O. M. asks: For what purposes may a farm loan be made from the government?

Answer: To provide for purchase of land for farming; for purchase of equipment, fertilizers, and live stock for "proper and reasonable operation of the mortgaged farm"; to provide buildings or improvements; to liquidate indebtedness incurred for agricultural purposes up to Jan. 1, 1933, or to provide owner of mortgaged land with funds for "general agricultural uses."

W. A. E. asks: Must I be living on my farm in order to obtain a loan on it from the government?

Answer: The federal land banks loan only on first mortgages to applicant "engaged or shortly to become engaged in farming operations," or the principal part of his income must be derived from farming. The land bank commissioner may loan on second mortgages under more liberal conditions.

Mrs. O. M. asks: Is there a law prohibiting the holder of a mortgage from foreclosing on the property?

R. I. M. asks: Where do I make application for a federal loan on a farm located in Arkansas?

THE WIDOW'S MITE.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Your article entitled "How to Invest the Widow's Mite" which appeared in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Sept. 24 was interesting and valuable for its clear exposition of the difficulties which attend the safe investment of capital under any conditions and particularly under the conditions now current. It was, however, unfortunate in its apparent assumption that the problem is insoluble, and dangerous to the extent that it may be construed as counseling the holding of cash as the only feasible alternative to accepting the peculiar risks of investment at this time.

It is, of course, self-evident that any argument against an investment in government and corporation bonds on the grounds that the purchasing power of their principal and income may be subject to shrinkage as a result of inflation applies with equal and even greater force to cash; greater because the absence of a return on cash simply operates to reduce further the effective purchasing power of the holder. While it is true that the loss of income through non-investment for a period might be made up and more through a purchase of the bonds at a later date at lower prices, there is no certainty of such lower prices and action based on that premise is clearly speculative.

In rejecting all available forms of investment you appreciate the fact that all you are saying is that it is hard at this time to pick the winning horse, rather than that there is no winner in the race. After all, if your argument against high grade bonds proves out, common stocks, real estate, and certain classes of bonds ought to give a fairly good account of themselves. Essentially there is no real difference in the widow's problem now as against any other time, except in degree, since we would all agree that the best way for her to invest her money at any time would be through the purchase of that property or class of securities which will, in fact, give her the best return over a period. That is never possible, unfortunately. There are always risks, as you point out, and even under the most stable conditions the best investment policy for our widow cannot eliminate them, only take them into account through care, diversification, and balance. That is what present conditions call for.

The constructive answer to the question "How to Invest the Widow's Mite" under present circumstances is not that all forms of investment are discredited and futile, but that her funds must be so placed that whatever happens only a part of her capital will be adversely affected, while some of it will be benefitted, perhaps sufficiently to offset the depreciation suffered. I am bold enough to believe that this can be done. Whether it can or not, any other single course—the retention of cash, the holding of governments, the purchase of stocks—is clearly speculative and as such holds out the possibility of results, better or worse, than those of the suggested hedged investment.

YES.

Evanston, Sept. 24.—I see by the papers that the public works administrator, our north shore neighbor, Secretary Ickes, has given the coast guard $14,800,000 for increased defense against the expected increase in rum running following repeal.

Have any of you guys who promised repeal would end rum running anything to say?

BONE DRY.

SALLY'S SENTENCE.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I would not walk across the street to see a fan dance, and while I have attended the World's Fair eighteen times I have not wasted any time at the Streets of Paris, so I hold no particular brief for Sally Rand, but of all the miscarriages of justice that it has been my unfortunate lot to witness during twenty-four years of residence in Chicago, the sentencing of this girl to jail for a year takes all prizes.

While thugs, gunmen, and automobile thieves ply their trade unhindered and the honest citizen takes his life in his hands every time he steps out on the public highway, this harmless and insignificant person is sentenced to jail for displaying slightly less of her anatomy than thousands of girls display in the broad daylight all along the lake front on any hot Sunday afternoon.

We laugh at Tennessee for their monkey trial! I can assure you the simplest minded hill billy is a towering intellect beside the twelve hypocrites who sat in judgment on Sally.

R. S. WILLIAMS.

ACCOMPLICES.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—While no doubt it is generally admitted that Sally Rand's dance is based on sex appeal rather than on the beauty of her dance, why is it, if her act is against the law, that those who employ her are not brought to trial?

If it is a crime the Chicago theater and Manhattan café are certainly accessories.

G. MOELLER.

A CALIFORNIAN ON THE FAIR.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 19.—I spent two days and two evenings at A Century of Progress Exposition and hope on my return west to be able to see it again. Beginning with the Centennial in '76, I have seen nearly all the expositions we have had in this country and by far this one is the best of them all; with the added feature of the wonderful and enchanting lighting and coloring. By day some of the coloring of the buildings did not seem so attractive, but by night along with the beautiful lighting effects it was perhaps the most attractive scenery I have ever beheld. People visiting the Exposition should make every effort to spend as much time there in the evening as possible even if it requires absence during a part of the day.

I hope something will be done toward making at least the best of the Exposition permanent, if not all of it. It is certainly worth it and is a great credit to all who have contributed to its success. In the face of such terrible times as we have had the last three years no words of mine can express the admiration I feel for the people of Chicago who originated and put it through. I wish I were wealthy enough to send every deserving school boy and girl to see it, as I would think a few days there as much of an education as they would acquire in a half year at school, and some of it they might never have an opportunity to see again or acquire.

Judge Clashes with Red at Leipzig Trial.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Admissions that he had set three other fires in Berlin were wrung today from Marinus van der Lubbe, young Dutch brickmason, one of five men on trial in Supreme court charged with firing the reichstag building last February.

Slumped over in his seat, his head almost on his knees, the defendant, begrudgingly and in monosyllables, admitted he had soaked rags in gasoline and set fire to the Berlin city hall, the former imperial palace, and a welfare office.

A clash between the presiding justice, Wilhelm Buenger, and one of the three Bulgarian defendants, Georgi Dimitroff, fiery former leader of the communists in that country, otherwise enlivened the day's session.

Limits Defense Privileges.

The court later decided to limit the defense privileges of both men, because Van der Lubbe had said too little and Dimitroff too much.

Dimitroff's right to defend himself was removed when the court decided he was agitating for communism. Van der Lubbe, who never had exercised this right anyway, will be shoved into the background and the testimony of the examining judge and the police officers to whom he made confessions at the time of his arrest practically will be taken as his own. The effect will be to speed up the trial.

"You said something must be done," the justice asked, "and you were only staying in Berlin until March 6.

Refuses to Describe Motive.

"You said, didn't you, that the workers must bring about a revolution to create their own laws? Did that describe your motive?"

"No," replied the accused.

"But in your confession," the justice continued, "you said Nazism and capitalism were identical and that under the revolution you understood there would be annihilation of capitalism."

Buenger interrupted when he started to make a statement, warning the defendant that "you are not permitted to make remarks at every possible opportunity; I determine when such statements can be made."

Judge Interrupts Defendant.

Dimitroff, raising his voice, started with: "I must declare that German newspapers last Saturday——"

The justice broke in again, saying Dimitroff could make the statement through his attorney, but the Bulgarian excitedly cried: "I am defending myself."

Buenger warned him to conduct himself properly and then proceeded with examination of Van Der Lubbe.

Later the justice again became nettled when Dimitroff attempted to question Van Der Lubbe, asking why he acted the way he does and if it is "because he is weighted down by the consequence of the terrible crimes he has committed against his own proletarian class."

GERMAN NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS ARE EXPELLED FROM RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Germany protested to the soviet government today against the expulsion of German newspaper correspondents from Russia, contending that the action violates existing treaties between the two nations.

The protest came shortly after the Russian authorities had ordered the withdrawal of all soviet correspondents in Germany and had notified all German correspondents to leave this country. This action was taken on the charge that soviet newspaper workers were subjected to discrimination and persecution in Germany.

The controversy was brought to a head by the recent arrest in Leipzig of soviet correspondents who were covering the reichstag arson trial. The correspondents were liberated after the soviet embassy took a hand in the case. Germany's protest was made by Dr. Fritz von Twardowski, counselor of the embassy, who called on Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff.

Formal expulsion orders, issued by the G. P. U. [the secret police] were served individually on the Germans and they prepared to leave the country tomorrow night. The wives of the correspondents are not affected by the order.

LAMSON TO DIE AS WIFE SLAYER, DECREE OF COURT

San Jose, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—David A. Lamson, Stanford university publishing house executive, who was convicted of the murder of his wife, today was sentenced by Superior Judge R. R. Syer to be hanged Dec. 15 in San Quentin prison.

Lamson's attorneys made a motion for a new trial, alleging irregularities by the jurors, prosecutors and the sheriff's office. Their contentions were overruled by the judge. The judge asked Lamson if he had anything to say in his own behalf.

Insists He's Innocent.

"I know," replied the convicted man, "that under the law and the verdict you can do nothing but impose a death sentence. But my conscience is clear. Before you and before God I am as innocent as you are yourself."

Sentence then was pronounced. It was stated Lamson would be taken immediately to San Quentin, to be confined in the death row cells. His attorneys, however, will appeal to the higher courts.

Found Dead in Cottage.

Lamson's wife, Allen Thorpe Lamson, was found dead on May 30 in the bathroom of their vine covered cottage on the Stanford campus. Friends who still believe in his innocence have collected funds to carry out the appeal.

PALESTINE OPENS NEW GATEWAY TO RICHES OF EAST

Port at Haifa Threatens French Trade Advantage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAIFA, Palestine, Sept. 26.—By rolling the Mediterranean sea back from an area of about 90 acres, the Palestine government has opened a new gateway to the east. It is the port of Haifa. The port will be formally opened at the end of October, although its harbor has already been in use for some time. Hitherto it has been a difficult port, full of rocks and usually high waves.

Opening of the port means that a vast area of the near east, just awakening to western influences, can now be easily tapped for the trade of western countries with huge financial benefits also for Palestine. Jewish leaders in Palestine assert that trade through their country will be able to reach a population of 46,000,000.

Plan Irrigation Project.

Plans are afoot now to fertilize Transjordan and parts of Syria with Jewish capital. Haifa is a terminal of the Hejaz and Palestine railways, which extend into both Transjordan and Syria, while the large mineral resources of the Dead sea, just beginning to be appreciated, lie nearby.

Another potential trade treasure exists in the possibilities of the development of the Tigris-Euphrates basin by irrigation and subsequent connection by rail with Haifa. This depends largely upon the government of Iraq, which is expected to carry out such an irrigation project with the funds received as oil royalties from the British government.

With the development of Haifa, which is also the terminal for an oil pipe line to Kirkuk, Iraq, the Syrian port of Beirut is threatened with eclipse. Beirut for generations has been the port for Syria and the Arabian hinterland, but it now finds itself in a struggle for trade existence. Beirut merchants fear it is a losing fight, for the British administration in Palestine is apparently able to offer better transit facilities to Iraq than the French administration in Syria.

Harbor Cost $6,000,000.

Though no rail line exists as yet along the pipe line from Haifa to Iraq, it seems likely the route eventually will carry a railroad. An agreement has already been reached between Iraq and Transjordan to dispense with customs and visa formalities as an encouragement to trade along the route.

The Haifa harbor was built by the Palestine government at a cost of six million dollars. The ridge of Mount Carmel, at the foot of which Haifa is located, affords a shelter for ships and by reclaiming about ninety acres from the sea deeper water and space for railway sidings and buildings were assured. An oil dock will be built to supply tankers from the Iraq pipe line. The quays have a mooring space about five times as large as that of Beirut and only slightly less than that of Marseilles.

Haifa's natural advantages as a port may enable it to outstrip Jaffa as Palestine's principal trade outlet, it is believed, even though the latter is nearer Jerusalem and in the heart of the orange belt.

Gateway to East

Arrow on map indicates new port at Haifa, Palestine, which opens the way to tapping of great riches in the east. A great irrigation project is also planned to reclaim the desert lands between Haifa and the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. The new port at Haifa offers a serious menace to the trade advantage now enjoyed by the French at Beirut, Syria.

GREEK MINISTRY OF JUSTICE GETS INSULL PAPERS

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 26.—Certified as to the correctness of the translation, the American government's bulky documents demanding the extradition of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, on charges of bankruptcy fraud, were transmitted by the Greek foreign office to the ministry of justice today.

The ministry of justice will transmit the documents immediately to the Court of Appeals, which will pass on the extradition demand. As there are more than 1,000 pages of documentary evidence to study, it is expected that the court will require ten days or two weeks before the extradition hearing can be called.

Forrest Harness, assistant United States attorney general, has an appointment tomorrow morning with the Greek minister of justice, S. Talliodourus, to discuss the case. Harness said he will also seek an interview with Anthony Reganakos, prosecutor at the Court of Appeals, who will present the case.

The Greek newspaper Ethnos tonight printed a dispatch from London reporting that Insull was once a lover of Pola Negri, film actress and former wife of Serge Mdivani of the Georgian [Russia] nobility.

BIG WOOL SALES LEAD AUSTRALIA OUT OF THE RED

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 26.—All Australia is cheering.

Long convalescent from the depression effects of radical government spending projects the country is now experiencing the greatest boom in wool sales since 1928.

Australia lives off the sheep's back, and by virtue of bumper sales the country will be richer by about $60,000,000 this year than last year. It is estimated that Australia's wool check to the primary producers will be $235,000,000 this year—a five year record.

Buyers from England, Germany, France, America, and Japan are eagerly fighting for the best merino clips, but the Japanese are the shrewdest and most prolific buyers in evident futherance of their trade war with England for the Indian and Asiatic markets.

The increased wool business has prompted happy and optimistic statements from the prime minister to the shearer in the sheep sheds of the back country. The whole populace apparently feels that "times are certainly better." The federal and state governments are even suggesting and hinting at summary tax reductions.

Wheat and gold also share in Australia's anticipated early recovery from depression ills. Though it signed the world wheat restriction resolution in London recently, Australia will not be affected in this first year of the agreement, since the commonwealth's exports are generally less than it is allowed under the agreement.

Australia's wheat crop this year is estimated at between 150,000,000 and 180,000,000 bushels, of which about 50,000,000 are used for home consumption. It is hoped that wheat production will reach a total check of $200,000,000.

There has been such an active movement in the development of obsolete and new gold mines during the past two years that the commonwealth is destined again to become one of the world's most important producers. This year's output is expected to reach 900,000 ounces, worth more than $35,000,000. This is an increase of more than 50 per cent over the production last year and 100 per cent over that of 1929.

More than 7,000 miners are now working on the valuable west Australian fields. Bendigo in Victoria is also experiencing a revival and many small holdings are being worked in gold areas of New South Wales. Queensland's production for the first six months this year totaled 40,000 ounces as against 5,404 ounces in the same period last year. The federal government gold bounty of $2.50 per ounce to the miners has also been an incentive.

Peiping Puts Eighteen Girls to Work Chasing Burglars

PEIPING, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Peiping has chosen 18 stalwart, unmarried Chinese girls for police work. They are dressed in natty khaki skirts and uniforms and have been issued regulation revolvers and batons. Their main work will consist of chasing burglars and opium smugglers.

She Learned Love Wasn't Blind To FAT!

As a girl she was popular. All of her friends envied her happy marriage, but after a while things seemed to change. She accused her husband of being fickle. She learned love wasn't blind—to fat. Happily she didn't wait until it was too late.

What a difference would it make in your life to be rid of unsightly fat? Thousands, yes millions, of others, have learned of the Marmola way. This famous prescription has found its way even into such remote corners of the world as South Africa, New Zaland. More than 20 million boxes have been sold. For 25 years it has stood supreme while useless fat fads and remedies have come and gone. Its formula includes, among its 19 constituents, important vegetable, organic and mineral ingredients prescribed the world over by physicians. No starvation diets; simply avoid fats and too many starchy foods. It is designed for people (called by doctors the "low metabolism" type) whose systems turn too much food into fat. Pleasant, easy to take. At good drug stores—only $1.00.

tending the furnace in a Gas Heated house

Gas Heat ends all dirt, grime, labor, and drudgery

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas . . . we will install it at our expense and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

GAS heat is this easy and simple! You don't need to go near the furnace. No shoveling coal, no hauling ashes, no setting dampers. No fuel supply to run low in zero weather. One touch of the thermostat controls your heat perfectly, day and night.

But perhaps you say, "Yes, of course, I know gas heat is the perfect heat. But it costs too much."

New low cost for gas heat

Then here's good news for you. Gas heat now costs less than half what it did in 1930-31. A luxury priced for the majority. A wonderful convenience, now within your reach.

To prove it—and we take the full burden of proof—we'll install it in your home without your making one cent of investment. Then you'll know from your own personal experience whether you can afford gas heat or not. And if we're wrong and you decide you don't want it—out it comes. We remove it at our expense.

During the nine heating months of the first year you pay $3.00 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge will be included with your gas bill. And if for any reason during the first year you want it removed, we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. Further, we replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. If you decide you want it, the rental applies on the purchase price.

Gas heat for health

Automatic gas heat promotes better health. No ups and downs of temperature which may start winter colds and coughs. No dust or grime to inhale. No odor. Gas heat saves cleaning bills and endless housework. Walls and paper stay clean year after year. Hangings stay up all winter long. There's no greasy smudge. No dirt-tracked stairs and rugs.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Watches Two Authors Write Civil War Play

Lloyd and Sinclair Lewis Are Collaborating.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize winner, who has devoted his creative years exclusively, with the exception of one play "Hobohemia," to fiction, is suddenly going into drama in a big way. "Dodsworth" is in the hands of Sidney Howard being made into a play. His wife, Dorothy Thompson's anti-Nazi play, is almost ready for a New York presentation. And Mr. Lewis is himself at this moment in what they used to call "our midst" working in that peculiarly intensive way that he does all of his writing on a play about the civil war with Chicago's most brilliant young historian-biographer, Lloyd Lewis, whose "Sherman" is one of the great biographies of our day.

SINCLAIR LEWIS.

Watching them, listening to them collaborate the other day was one of the memorable experiences of a lifetime too often peopled with authors working and playing to have anything but anaesthesia left for most such sights and sounds. But the Lewises [unrelated except in the scalpel-sureness of their minds and the rich reality of their roots, deep in the soil of their native midwest] are something very much else again. As the pages of the partially completed play rolled through the fingers of Lloyd Lewis, who was reading, Sinclair Lewis would scream "Not so FAST," or "cut that" would be yanked from his deepest soul as a phrase which he called "windy" would emerge from Lloyd's lips.

Knows It Will Be Superb Play.

It was the first draft of what, in my simple opinion, will probably be the "Journey's End" of the civil war that was being read to me. "It's all right" he said to a secretary a little skeptical of me, "Fanny was in on the beginnings of a lot of my things . . . you remember saying to me," he turned to me, "when I told you about 'Main Street'; "maybe you can do it, and even if you can't it's worth trying" . . . I feel as if it were going to be a day that I'll never forget when I was "in on" this play, "The Skedaddler."

It is so moving, even in its first draft, and even in the few scenes which I heard that any one would KNOW that it was superb drama. One scene, in the "Glory Hole" [in the civil war the lookout posts] is to me, the high moment of tragedy-comedy. In those unfinished pages there is already the whole essence of a period and a trenchant analysis of that essence in all of its bitter-sweetness.

Much of the material is from actual records of the period in which Lloyd Lewis so steeped himself during the years that he spent gathering his Sherman data that he can talk the slanguage of that day as fluently as a college boy prattles in the argot of this.

In the midst of luncheon, apropos of an argument over a scene [they don't stop arguing even to eat] Lloyd roared out to Hal and Hal bellowed back in the voices and dialect of two of the characters which they had been discussing. It was plain then why the play has so much vitality and reality . . . its collaborators ARE its characters, not merely their creators.

Each Writes Scene Separately.

They discuss what they want to do, plan the scene, and then each collaborator writes his version of the scene. Then the cannonading begins. Roars from two great throats, cursings threats of bodily violence—and there emerges the phrase which is somehow subtly perfect. They argue about one word. The whole psychology of the character speaking that word is gone into his background, his ancestors are invoked . . . and when the word is set down it sounds so inevitable that it would seem that this first draft must needs be the last. It was the first time Hal Lewis had heard it read aloud. . . . "It's a damned swell play. . . . I didn't know how good it was," he said, echoing my almost speechless enthusiasm.

About that Hal . . . his collaborator calls him "Red"—most people do . . . obviously, red hair, red face, and "Red" is a sort of native nickname which fits him. But his earliest friends call him Hal, because he was brought up in Sauk Center, Minn., and went to Yale as Harry Sinclair Lewis. He was and still is Hal to every one who knew him then . . . and he was Hal when, as a childish subjanitor in the literary department, I first met him as the smart young head of the publicity department of the George H. Doran Publishing company.

Plot Is Long Standing Idea.

"There were some fairly good books in those days," he said. "I seem to remember a promising author named Arnold Bennett that in my capacity of publicity department I used to have to boost." But he couldn't get me to talk about THOSE days. I wanted to talk about these . . . how he happened to be collaborating on a civil war play.

"It's not your period . . . not your stuff at all," I said.

"But for years I've had this idea . . . a plot for a great play of the civil war, and when I finished reading 'Sherman' I beat it right out here and talked to my cousin Lloyd here [with a smile], and told him about my idea and asked him if he'd work on it with me. Then I went back to Vermont and dug in for four months, ate farm vegetables, got this new figure [he HAS a slight tummy], and worked like hell on the novel. Now here I am and we've worked as much of all day and all night as we could and . . . now tell me, Fanny, what do you think about this play? Shut up, Lloyd, and let her tell us."

"But, Hal," I kept saying, "there aren't any more words. It's a simply swell play and you went and got my throat choked up and I can't talk any more about it. But it's SWELL!"

And, between friends, that meant that . . . well, that it's a swell play!

The great American novelist isn't "hiding out" in Chicago. He isn't registered either as Prince Zubilobsky or as Jack Doe in the hostelry which is sheltering him, but as Sinclair Lewis. He came to Chicago to work, however, and with characteristic intentness he is working and doing nothing else, and I promised not to tell any one his telephone number.

"Crazy Quilt" Scheduled for Movie Theater

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A revue of Broadway origin, "Crazy Quilt" by name, will arrive at the Chicago theater Friday, Oct. 6, for a week's engagement in shortened form. The use of such touring theatrical companies in the large-scale cinema houses of the country is developing rapidly, and managers are saying that the future of organized song and dance amusements on tour lies in this direction. In other words, condensed versions of Broadway amusements, handsomely staged, may supplant casual vaudeville on the continuous programs of the movie "palaces."

"Crazy Quilt," with its performance geared to a fast tempo, will run for a full hour, and will be given four times a day. Nearly all of the material of the original production, which appeared in the Apollo theater here two seasons ago, will be used.

The cast will be somewhat impressive. The list of principals includes: Anita Page, widely known motion picture actress who is now making her stage debut; Ann Pennington, the little dancing girl of many "Follies" and "Scandals"; Charles King, a singing man who held high rank in musical comedy ten years ago; Smith and Dale, comedians who were members of the old-style vaudeville team called the Avon Comedy Four; and Cardini, a high grade sleight of hand performer of English background.

Conscientious objectors to fan dancing will have to face the fact that the opening chorus of "Crazy Quilt" contains twenty of these disrobed plume wavers.

Pauline Frederick will end her engagement in "Her Majesty the Widow" at the Cort theater Oct. 14, with sixteen weeks of the World's Fair period to her credit. She will then take the company on tour, visiting Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia. She expects to begin a New York engagement early in January.

Changes in the cast of "Dinner at Eight," at the Grand Opera house, are to be noted this week, and they probably indicate preparations for the tour that will follow the long and prosperous Chicago engagement. Ruth Abbott has succeeded Judith Wood in the rôle of the rowdy little blonde wife, and Robert Middlemass has followed Paul Harvey as the blustering husband.

Mr. Middlemass is the author of an article in the current number of a weekly journal of opinion which deals, in part, with the depressing effect upon the stage of inflexible rulings by the stage hands' and musicians' unions. He has acted in Chicago frequently.

Helen Hayes will begin acting for the Theater Guild, in Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland," in Washington, Oct. 23. This will be her first appearance in drama since "The Good Fairy," season before last.

THIS belated inauguration day story, told to Douglas Lawson by James Roosevelt, the President's son, who is partner with Mr. Lawson in a Boston insurance agency, concerns young Franklin, who was in Washington from Groton for the inaugural ceremonies. The evening before the inauguration he had sent his suit down to the hotel valet to be pressed, and inauguration day morning he bounced into his father's room in pajamas. When told to go back and get dressed he explained he couldn't because he didn't have any clothes. Call up and have your suit sent back immediately, he was told. Accordingly he went back to his room, picked up the telephone, and told the operator he had to have his suit, promised the first thing in the morning, right away.

"And I'm the queen of Siam. Also, this is inauguration day and I have no time for telephone games," retorted the operator, disconnecting abruptly.

WE have no first hand knowledge of it, but a bulletineer writes that a Michigan lad, capitalizing on the current interest in publicly displayed nudity, has leased a large tract of land about twenty miles out of South Haven that contains a small valley well protected with trees and shrubbery. In the valley he has established several stooges, sans clothing. At one end, on a well traveled road, the young man has set up several binoculars, and for a quarter curious tourists can spy upon the "nudies" disporting themselves at croquet.

DURING a conversation about animals Mrs. Rufus Dawes told of a member of her family calling the veterinary to look after her sick cat. At the first of the month she received a bill. It was itemized as follows:

"Two cat calls, $4.00."

A VISITOR at a recent hunt breakfast who was not able to talk horses and hunting as well as she would have liked was reminded of a story about Cornelia Otis Skinner in similar circumstances. Miss Skinner didn't even wish she could talk intelligently about the hounds giving tongue, or counting twenty-five to give the fox a chance to get away, then shouting "Tally-ho" twice, or about somebody riding in the pocket of the master. (That's an expression—as maybe you know.) But, just the same, she felt a little out of it. Finally the man next to her, after various attempts at hunting talk, asked:

"What do you do?"

"I shoot," Miss Skinner answered.

Her companion's interest revived a little.

"Horses," said Miss Skinner laconically.

A WOMAN visited the Florida exhibit at the Fair the other day and smiled at a conversation she overheard between a visitor who was standing in front of a model of the carillon tower and the guide she was questioning about the bird sanctuary. He quoted dimensions and various interesting facts and the woman still looked puzzled. Finally she asked:

Chapel Rites

After Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant left the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church yesterday noon, where they had been married by the Rev. John Timothy Stone, they walked a block north on Michigan avenue to the apartment of the former Betty Dixon's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walker, who served a wedding breakfast for them and the relatives who were present at the ceremony.

Mrs. Bryant, the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Dixon, wore a brick colored suit and hat to match, and orchids. All of the Dixon clan attended the wedding and the breakfast, but the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Bryant of Northampton, England, and Florida, wert not present. His family was represented by his mother's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour.

Dietrich's Trousers Missing When She Returns from Europe

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Marlene Dietrich, exuding femininity at its fluffiest, came back to America a lady today. The mannish trousers were missing—left behind in Europe—as she tripped off the French liner Paris in true womanly fashion.

Her clothes were as Rue-de-la-Paixy as could be desired. She wore a tailored black broadcloth suit, with insets of silver fox fur brightening the sleeves. Her blouse was of Chinese red crêpe de chine and her high heeled slippers of black patent leather.

After all that dazzling display of femininity she proudly announced that her next picture in Hollywood will be about Catherine the Great of Russia, who smoked cigars and wore trousers when the mood seized her!

Good morning!

Even the baby, writhing in the arms of his mother who sat next to me, crowed joyously as Clancy and Dugan went about their business of detecting!

You're accustomed to dumb sleuths on the screen, but this trip Messrs. McHugh and Jenkins take the cake for ultra-denseness—and they're pretty funny, which is a compliment from the heart oudt—for I could name offhand at least a dozen players who could do what they do and be TERRIBLE. [Some of their gags aren't so bad, either.]

"Yeah, but this ain't the Potomac," replies his side kick, Mr. Clancy, feeling in the air an ominous something—he knows not what.

"Tomorrow at Seven" concerns itself swiftly, suspensefully, and often merrily with the search and ultimate discovery of a disappearing murderer who styles himself "The Black Ace." Each killing is preceded by a warning to the victim in the form of a playing card—the ace of spades.

The picture, not I, shall reveal developments that lead the observer a chase from train to airplane to southern plantation.

Two one time favorites, Vivienne Osborne and Chester Morris, competently attend to the romantic angle. Mr. Morris is seen as a crime novelist, and Miss Osborne as daughter of the secretary of a wealthy gentleman named Mr. Drake.

Henry Stephenson is convincing as Drake and other rôles are portrayed in proper sphinxlike, spooky fashion. And, in the picture's direst moments, there are always Dugan and Clancy to lend a reassuring note in their beloved, bonehead fashion.

See you tomorrow.

Mrs. Grace M. Poole Appeals to Club Women to Aid Peace

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, has just returned from conducting the federation's first World Friendship tour through Europe. A statement issued from Washington says that "club women in every part of the world must work together for the preservation of peace, which is being violently threatened by national politicians."

The federation's tour was the largest individual party to visit Europe this summer. At the embassies throughout the continent where the club women were received, they were described as one of the finest groups of American women ever to visit Europe. Mrs. Poole is now on a speaking tour through parts of the United States, asking that every woman join her in insuring permanent world peace. As Mrs. Poole is a member of the Consumer's Advisory board of the National Recovery Administration, she will also speak on behalf of the national recovery program.

Arts Club Will Open Season Next Monday

Tea to Be Gala Occasion for Two Officers.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE opening tea of the season at the Arts club next Monday will be a gala occasion for the president of the club and the chairman of the committee that plans the exhibits. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Miss Alice Roullier will have just returned from France, and it will be a sort of welcome home to them as well as the opening party of the year at the club.

Mrs. Goodspeed and Miss Roullier landed yesterday morning in New York and after a few days there will come home, probably reaching here on Saturday. What they have arranged to show the club members this coming winter in the way of art we don't know yet, but that they will come home with all sorts of interesting plans we are certain.

And that every one at the club next Monday will be interested in what the returned travelers are wearing is another certainty, for Mrs. Goodspeed always brings back from Paris the very last word in smart attire and Miss Roullier proves her French ancestry by always looking chic.

Retain Scheme of Decoration.

The attractive rooms of the club on Michigan avenue just north of the bridge are being freshened up this week but no changes are being made in the decorative scheme so they will look just as they have in the past few years to the members when they go to the tea Monday.

There will be something new on the tea table, however, new, that is, to the members. It is a lovely old blue china bowl with gold and white trimmings that the late Rue Winterbotham Carpenter, the beloved president of the club for many years, bought just before her death. Mrs. Leitner, who so capably manages the club, could not bear to use it before but she is planning to fill it with tiger lilies Monday and put it in the center of the table between the club's stunning pair of bronze candelabra.

The table is to be laid in the large gallery next Monday, and because a large crowd is anticipated the waiters instead of some of the members are to preside at the tea and coffee services.

The restaurant service of luncheon and tea will be resumed on Tuesday.

Captain Wrights to Visit Chicago.

At the last moment almost Mrs. Arthur A. Small and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick changed their plans and did not go to Washington yesterday for the marriage today of their niece, Miss Josephine Irwin, because they heard that the bride and bridegroom could come to Chicago for a short visit with them. The former Miss Irwin and her new husband, Capt. W. Mason Wright, will arrive tomorrow morning to spend several days in the Astor street house of Col. and Mrs. McCormick, who are still out at their farm in Wheaton.

The Wrights' stay here cannot be as long as Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Small would like it to be, for the couple sail from New York on Oct. 7 for his new post at Fort Clayton in Panama. It is "going home" for the bride to go to Panama, for her father, the late Maj. Gen. Le Roy Irwin, was stationed there at the time of his death.

The wedding is to take place at

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lives with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd feels admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. She leaves there and can't be found. Sabino also disappears. Bray believes that they are seeking a common rendezvous. Florence is found and brought back in fetters to the jail in River Head, Long Island. Bray threatens to persecute Florence and to have her indicted for murder in the first degree. Redd promises to produce Sabino if Bray will wait until morning. Redd returns home and writes a full confession to the murders of Cresap, Wong Gee, and Sabino.

INSTALLMENT XLV.

THE DEATH WARRANT.

Maybe I'd better be getting along:

It was not because he devised to cut Florence out of his will that I extinguished Uncas Cresap. It is true that was a contributory but a minor incentive. While it heartened me for the task, it itself was neither the inspiration for it nor the actuating reason.

When Florence told me that because of Gregory's love for her and her great love for Gregory, Uncas Cresap was holding over her the menace of disinheritance, I called him an unnatural villain and an ingrate. But when on that same fatal afternoon, with her face averted and her eyes on the ground, she told me the rest, I saw revealed behind his mouthy threatenings the hideous impulse which the prospect of seeing a younger man claim her and take her away suddenly had awakened in the cesspool of an incestuous soul.

She told me that for two weeks past she had slept behind locked doors, that for a week past she had made Hilda her constant companion, keeping Hilda always within sight or call between nightfall and bedtime. She couldn't tell Gregory. Other than me, there was no one to whom she might go for guidance and for aid. So at length, made desperate by the persistent advances, the obvious desires and intents of her own flesh and blood, she did come to me and by what she told me unwittingly, she signed the death warrant of a loathsome beast.

"For two weeks past she had slept behind closed doors."

Even so, I went to him to give him fair warning. I went within the hour. I think it must have been then, as I stood before Uncas Cresap, putting him on notice that his next transgression against her peace of mind, be it by word or deed or so much as a look even, meant his finish—it must have been then rather than later that I lost from my pocket the fountain pen which Terry Bray next day found there upon the floor of that boathouse room.

But either the day's potations sloshing inside him made Uncas Cresap intolerant to danger or arrogance plus alcohol made him reckless. He did not deign to deny the inferences I had drawn or the open charges fired at him—he grinned up at me a meaning grin. And with a maudlin bravado he defied me. And between retchings and hic coughs he bade me be gone out of his sight and off of his acres, saying later on he expected visitors who would be welcome in that place where I was not. Some quirk in his sodden head impelled him to tell me the hour when these visitors were expected, led him to add that he meant to spend the rest of the night there in case I cared to reopen the debate.

Right then he almost died. By the narrowness of a hair, death brushed him. But through the crimson frenzy that was on me and possessing every fiber of me and strengthening every muscle in me there mounted to my brain an arresting inner voice which caused me reluctantly to relax, joint by joint, my fingers which curled to grapple on his windpipe. That was what stayed me, that warning whisper from my saner consciousness to the secret ear of my mind: "If you do it now, no American jury, knowing what prompted you, will ever vote to convict—but Florence's name will be soiled and Florence will be shamed. So wait! If later, in cold blood, you do it and do it so cannily and so carefully as to escape detection, there'll be no dragging forth of dirty scandal in the land, no rattling of family skeletons before a courthouse crowd, no nasty tales for nasty tongues to handy."

So I kept my hands off his throat. But it took an effort which left me shaking in an ague of physical craving.

Before I got home the plan stood up before me all conned out, all lined to scale like an architect's blue print. I knew what method I would use, knew exactly how I would go about using it. I knew what expedients would be invoked for my alibi, in case an alibi were needed. I knew what my after-course of conduct would be.

For the ingredients which I employed to create my alibi—having determined to have it prepared in advance no matter whether or not it ever became essential to my preservation from suspicion—I am indebted to one of my favorite authors, the late Sir A. Conan Doyle. To him, the artifice seemed so clever that he used it not once but twice in his Sherlock Holmes stories. I believe, however, that I may claim the credit of being probably the first to use it in actuality.

Small coincidental elements were of value to me here. To begin with, take Mrs. Bevil's erratic clock, the clock which had such a bad habit of sounding off its clarion at unexpected moments. It figured materially in the ordained scheme. But not by accident, I designed that it should. And it most certainly did.

Take also the circumstance that under a cupboard table in the alcove of my study, with a Navaho saddle cloth to protect it, reposed a plaster creation—purporting to represent me, head and shoulders. Once upon a long time ago, when I was editor of the Recorder, a member of my art room staff who fancied he could have been a sculptor instead of a comic sketcher, made this bust and generously bestowed it on me as a birthday present. I wasn't exactly flattered by the likeness—if it was a likeness. Perhaps my vanity was to blame, but it seemed to me no neither had done me sufficient justice nor shown me sufficient mercy. Since I could not hurt his feelings, I accepted it in the same spirit which presumably had marked its giving. I kept it, too. God knows why—perhaps for association's sake. But I did not keep it on display. It wore an enveloping hood and rested in darkness.

That night when all else was prepared—my runabout out of the garage and concealed in some thick bushes behind my private dune, a hundred yards from the house, my weapon fetched forth and ready to be slung by a thong from its handle inside my trouser leg—I unveiled my plaster bust and, taking it across the room in my arms, I stood it on a pile of books which had been placed in the seat of my customary chair behind my desk, and its lite covering I snuggled about the base to simulate the beginnings of a buttoned-up lounging robe such as I generally wore while at work. I stimulated my fire, put on fresh chunks of seasoned wood which instantly blazed up. I turned on more lights in the wall brackets. The window shades already had been drawn down.

With this done to my liking, I went out by the front door and quietly invaded the recess where the service wing elbows off at right angles from the body of the cottage. Standing flat against the kitchen wall I looked at the nearer-most window, seeking for flaws in my handiwork. I could find no flaws in it. Clearly outlined against the shade, there in sharp black profile showed a perfect counterpart of my head and shoulders and behind them the more confused shadowings of the chair's slatted back, and beneath at the proper level a suggestion of the crossline of the desk top, the lower ledge of the window cutting off all below. It almost fooled me, that device. I was sure it would fool Mrs. Bevil.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

No Child Is an Open Book to His Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I know every thought my child has," many a mother has been known to say—and honestly to believe. But if she thought deeply enough she would have to know that that could not be so.

A child and a mother—a growing up boy or girl—may be ever so close to each other, but that does not mean that the child will tell his every thought and feeling. A woman has only to hark back to her own childhood to know this is true.

Suppose when you were a child your mother had your complete confidence—think—did you tell her everything that went on in your mind? Did you tell her every feeling—about other children, about her and your father, about life and death? Did you express all your fears, your gropings?

Later, when you were a young girl, did you tell her all your ambitions, your ideals, your searching for a reason for being—your feelings about boys, your first ecstatic premonitions of falling in love, those tender thrilling passages, your floating-on-clouds sensation when a very special evening was ahead of you, your wonderings about marriage? Did you tell her of your fears—those curious unreasoning fears that so many children are subject to—children both little and big?

I know men and women who have told me of their childhood fears—fears never mentioned to any one. Did you tell your mother you were afraid you might be buried alive and ask her to be sure you were dead before they nailed on the lid of the coffin? Did you tell your mother, being absurdly and tragically ignorant, that you hoped you'd never have a baby without its having a father? Did you tell your mother when you were little that you were afraid to open a certain drawer because she had put a book with terrifying pictures in it? Did you tell your mother everything? No.

In the first place, it isn't possible. In the second place, there's an inner life—deep, complex—that every human being of every age lives which it doesn't occur to him to reveal. And, in the third place, boys and girls, even as little children, develop reticences. When they are small this refraining from talking about certain things is unconscious. As they grow older some of this reticence is deliberate. It all makes life more interesting—it gives it a touch of mystery.

All this doesn't mean that you can't be close to your child. On the contrary it indicates a greater need of deep confidence and companionableness, love, and understanding in order that, for your happiness and interest and your child's happiness and well-being, as few doors as possible shall be closed between you—and in order that the reticence that then exists shall be only such as is part of the dignity and aloneness of the human soul.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

FORDNEY'S TALK TO THE ROOKIES.

"All right, fellows," Prof. Fordney beamed at the graduating class of rookies of the Washington police force. "I've been asked, by your superintendent, to give you chaps a talk on criminology. Instead, however, I want to see just how much you have learned during the splendid course given you in crime detection.

"You have been told, for instance, the difference between hanging, strangling, and throttling. You have also been told that death caused by hanging is rather rapid, sensibility soon lost, and in the greater number of instances, contrary to popular belief, the face bears an undistorted, placid expression.

"Well, I had rather a perplexing case some years ago in which you might be interested. In a Russian village a man was found hanged from a beam which was about eight feet from the floor. I removed the loose noose from his neck, laid him on a couch, and looked for the flow of saliva down the chin and straight down the chest which is an almost infallible sign of death by hanging.

"Just as I was about to begin my examination of the body a local officer entered the room and ordered me to leave it alone—that the Russian police were quite competent to solve their own murders without outside interference, etc. So I just——"

"Yes?" inquired Fordney.

"Begging your pardon, professor," he said, "no one needs a course in police science to know that your story is impossible."

"Right you are," the criminologist amiably replied.

WHAT DID BALSTON MEAN? THERE IS ONLY ONE ANSWER.

Col. Charles C. Haffner Jr., is making special preparations for two gay functions Friday night, a dinner and a military pageant, both of which will take place in the 124th Field Artillery armory of which he is commanding officer. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, U. S. A.; Maj. Gen. George Leach, chief of the military bureau; the commanding generals, adjutant generals and senior officers of the National Guard divisions throughout the United States, have all been invited to the dinner.

This dinner is to climax the annual National Guard association convention which starts tomorrow at the Drake hotel.

Immediately after the dinner Friday night, the pageant will start. The pageant will be open to the public. During the evening the battle of Château-Thierry will be reenacted.

Tea to Be Gala Occasion for Two Officers.

noon today in the apartment of the bride's mother at 2126 Connecticut avenue, with about forty-five relatives and intimate friends present. A breakfast will be served following the ceremony. It is to be a very simple, informal wedding, with no attendants, and the bride has chosen to wear a cream color lace dress and a brown hat instead of a conventional bridal gown and veil. She is being given in marriage by her brother, Maj. S. Le Roy Irwin, who is an intimate friend of the bridegroom. In fact, they went to school together when they were small boys and then to West Point together, and both are in the field artillery, the same branch of the army in which Maj. Gen. Irwin served. Capt. Wright is a son of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William Mason Wright. Maj. Gen. Wright is retired and he and his wife live in Georgetown.

Miss Cynthia Edith Eaton, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William H. Eaton of Pittsfield, Mass., and sister of Mrs. Kimball Salisbury of Chicago, is to be married to Maurice Woolverton of Pittsfield, formerly of Scarsdale, N. Y., on Friday, Oct. 6. The service will be read at noon in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, after which there will be a breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.

Only members of the families will attend the ceremony and the breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury are not planning to go east for the wedding.

Golf Powwow Is Bridge Party.

The women's powwow at the Onwentsia club turned into a bridge party yesterday and the golf events had to be postponed until next Tuesday on account of the rain. The half a hundred women who had gone to the club in the morning for the annual powwow all had a good time, however, and none of them expressed regret at having two parties to end the season instead of one.

Some played nine holes or less in the morning, but no one was able to play more and every one decided to spend the afternoon at the bridge tables instead of on the golf course. The choice of next year's golf and tennis chairmen was postponed until next week, also.

Some of those who were at the club yesterday were Mrs. Edison Dick, Mrs. Mason Phelps, Mrs. Kent Chandler, Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin and the wives of two of her sons, George F. and Frederic H.; Mrs. Burford Porter, Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., Miss Beatrice Kirk, Mrs. Charles Dennehy, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, Mrs. Hempstead Washburne, Mrs. Ralph Isham, Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., Mrs. John Broeksmit, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker and Mrs. Stanley Yonce.

Members of the Alliance Française, including the Juniors, are shopping for something green and inexpensive this week, for on Friday they are giving a shower for Miss Marjorie Goodman, the chairman of the Juniors, who is to be married to Charles S. Dewey Jr. on Oct. 5, and the articles to be showered on the bride-to-be are to be green and inexpensive, the latter at Miss Goodman's request.

Mrs. Walter L. Cragg, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Miss Mary West, Miss Margaret Goehst and Miss Laura Thorne are planning the party. Mr. Dewey and his bride are to live in South Bend, so Miss Goodman is resigning the chairmanship of the Juniors. She is the second chairman to resign because of marriage, for Paula Wilms was chairman before she became Mrs. Malcolm Henderson last February.

See Success for Service Club Revue.

Even after very few rehearsals the girls who will be in the Service club show are convinced that it will be a huge success. The opening scene is about Chicago and its suburbs, and the whole cast—in rather farcical costumes—will be on the stage.

Mrs. Paul Dodge, whose grand soprano voice added so much to the show last year, has consented to sing again this year and will be starred in one or two numbers. Another past favorite, is returning, too: Mrs. Ralph Mills, who, as Eileen McGuire, brought down the house in several shows just a few years ago with her clever soft shoe and tap dancing. This year she will do a specialty besides being in several choruses.

Miss Helen Fulton, the girls' national amateur tennis champion, will leave her rackets behind and join in a dancing chorus of the show—that is, she won't have much time for a tennis racket until after the two presentations of the show on Oct. 13 and 14 at the Goodman theater, for there are daily rehearsals.

Perhaps some of the older members of the club wondered where Mrs. Charles H. Conrad was when she did not appear the morning of the opening rehearsals. Mrs. Conrad devotes most of her time during the preparations for the show to doing all the innumerable trying little tasks that sometimes turn out to be rather big ones, such as securing eight completely fitted out dressing tables, including mirrors and chairs, in twenty-four hours—at no cost to the club.

The reason for her absence is that she was moving from an apartment on East Delaware place to one on Fullerton parkway, and, as the Conrads haven't moved for 17 years, it was quite an upheaval. However, when the new apartment with its lovely view of the park is settled Mrs. Conrad will be ready for any job at the Service club.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will open its season today with a luncheon at the Hotel La Salle. Edgar Ansell Mowrer, who has just returned from Germany, will speak on the Hitler régime under the title, "The Sickness of a Great People." Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, the newly elected president of the council, will preside and Frank Knox will introduce the speaker. Others at the speaker's table will be Mrs. Lichtenstein, Mrs. Mowrer, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenthal, Mrs. Joseph Schaffner and her son, Joseph Schaffner, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wormser, and Dr. Otto Schmidt.

JUNIOR GIRL'S ENSEMBLE.

One of the soft hairy woolen mixtures made the original suit. It was in a lively red shade, a favorite color for juniors. The tied collar was a complementary shade of faille silk crêpe. There are epaulets on the dress to emphasize the shoulders, and the jacket is the new boxy style—an altogether smart outfit.

The pattern, No. 2886, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17 years.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It would follow, since coiffure has taken on importance in the last decade, that hair coloring would develop into an outstanding art, which it has.

The number of rinses on the market today indicate that women are no longer content to go through life with negative, drab, or ugly hair. And some of these rinses are refreshingly uplifting to a woman's spirits. They're satisfactory, and they often give the hair a rich gloss, in addition to a heightened color.

But, like everything else on the market, there are products to beware of. In the dyeing line this is more often true than in the rinses, since most of the latter wash out with shampooing.

I insist on urging women who go in for hair coloring to commit their locks to a professional, not only for the esthetics of the thing but for hair and scalp health. It's a rare woman, indeed, who can do the job herself so it doesn't look the part. The first time she may be quite satisfactory in appearance, but in repetitions she is apt to misjudge the amount or present condition of her hair.

Economy is the most foolish thing to practice in this one respect. Economize on clothes, amusements, or other things, but if you want to keep the hair lovely in its new coloring, don't try to save here.

The harmless rinses, of course, may be used. If you don't like the way the hair turns out, all you have to do is wash it again. But even here we would repeat that your best protection is the reputation of the manufacturer.

Getting back to permanents for a minute—there are certain dye preparations that will not take a wave. The hair simply will not respond. Again, there is danger of breaking off under other dyeing circumstances. So you must see the importance of putting your locks in intelligent hands.

Excessively bleached hair—hair that has been undergoing bleaching over a long period of time—often comes out as a queer, gummy substance, or it may break off completely. And you know hairdressers were the ones to rise against the platinumizing because of the danger involved in waving.

Cherries.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The block illustrated today, "Cherries," answers the insistent demand for directions for piecing a red quilt. It is a product of Kentucky and hasn't traveled much outside of those limits. The suggested color scheme is brown for the stems, deep green for the leaves and cherry red for the fruit.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Fall Fashions Are Complete in City's Shops

Happy Days Are Here for Clothes Collectors.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's going to be a grand week for snooping shoppers, and all the appraising, appreciative clothes collectors. All the fall fashions are on parade . . . practically every shop and store in town is tempting the entire female population with exciting new clothes fashioned in the grand manner.

The seductive swish of taffeta, slithering satins, old fashioned bengalines, fabulously crinkled and wrinkled crepes that look more like elephan hide, or the bark of a tree than circumspect and feminine silk crêpe, stunning velvets, flowered silks in exquisite blurred outlines and pastel colors, and last, but not least, a new and thrilling silhouette, the curved sheath outline.

Dust ruffles, pleatings [yards of it], ruffles, and bows of ribbon, velvet and lace . . . long clinging evening gowns with trailing trains, decorative dance dresses that go out to dinner with a specially designed and different separate jacket of either contrasting or harmonizing color . . . slim, straight swankily smart street costumes with modified shoulder effects . . . sleek afternoon dresses that are more feminine and gracious than they have been in years . . . long picturesque evening wraps that might have been fashioned for a story book princess . . . festoons of fur submerging shoulders of new fall and winter suits and coats . . . jaunty or demure fur capes . . . big sleeved hip length fur coats of soft smoky grey squirrel topping, as well as accenting, a slim grey wool frock.

Small scraps of hats that are made to exactly complete a street suit or dress . . . flattering, mysterious brimmed affairs with fluttering feathers . . . bows on shoes, and hats . . . wild and dizzy gloves that match a handbag and ascot tie and hat . . . velvet used as lavishly as though it were simply wool or silk . . . clever and unusual woolens glorified into stunning and distinctive ensembles . . . colors that glow like jewels, sapphire blue, ruby red, topaz, tuscan gold, and emerald green, with sophisticated sapling-like black costumes again stealing the best spotlights in nearly every show.

See them this week, while all the collections are complete!

Foreign Praise Replaces Attack on Our Women

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You remember it was not long ago when the popular thing for a foreign visitor to our shores was to attack the American woman, especially the American wife, in whom was seen a virago whose main ambition was to reduce her husband to the meanest state of subordination.

Whether the younger generation has turned the tide for us or not is beside the point right now. But on their own they have achieved a recognition comparable to no other known girl product the world over. They're no more like the girl of the immediate post-war period than are their frocks like the knee length atrocities of that other time.

All of which means a bigger and better and finer standard is being established for girls at the moment. Two outstanding things expected of young women today are that they look well and that they do things. A third, that their attitude toward life be freed of useless inhibitions and prejudices. That is, if they want to see a young man again, they go about it with directness, possibly an invitation for some informal little gathering. If he fails to appear, then that's just all in the day's living. No fussing, querying him about it.

She has to dance well, know how to play games, and participate in sports to some extent. She has to be good at a number of things. She is without the older girl's expectation that a man should spend the evening flattering her, telling her how lovely she is, and so on. There are many other things to talk about, laugh about, and have a good time over. She does not have to be any more brainy than was ever expected of a popular girl, but she has to use her wits more intelligently.

Sports Clothes Are Radiant in Brown and Gold

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Color teamwork is favored for sports clothes by lots of Paris dressmakers. Dilkusha, a new house, with youth and ideas, put their okay on brown and gold, a pair of shades that do perfect teamwork in the autumn sports ensemble. Dilkusha makes sports coats of gold colored downy wool like camel's hair, adds to these coats skirts of brown and gold striped or checked wool and then applies a blouse or sweater in one or the other of these colors.

One of these ensembles is illustrated. The coat, which is merely loose and not swagger flared, is made of gold downy woolen and owes its chic to the shoulder yoke, the too big standing collar and the oversize patch pockets. The collar is made extra large so that the gold colored silk scarf can show.

There is a four gored skirt of downy checked woolen in brown and gold which has an unusual belt. The belt is sewed into the side seams at the back, as shown in the small sketch, crossed over and brought around to the front of the waistline, where it is fastened by a spiral wire spring with loops of cloth at the ends.

The simple shirtwaist is made of gold colored wool jersey with brown wooden bar buttons. The knitted cap is made of brown wool with a gold ring around the pointed top.

Hurried Cook Appreciates Pickup Menus

Half Hour's Preparation Suffices for Meal.

"Appetizers . . . How to Make Them . . . When to Serve Them"—a booklet containing directions for foreign and American appetizers with 30 recipes—is on sale at the Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Ovens it was yesterday—whole meals from them. And in response to Mrs. J. O. R.'s request, top stove dinners it will be today. For while most homes are now equipped with ovens, at least of sorts, cooksters don't enjoy too much the job of heating them up for every hustling dinner to go on the table. And nowadays the wife who can turn out neat little 20 and 30 minute dinners which taste exactly as good as her mother's three hour ones is worth sizey lumps of gold to the general happiness and cheer of the family.

A good starter toward planning these quick top stove dinners is a head or a cookbook full of recipe ideas. Add to that a shelf full of emergency staples and the world is yours. On said shelf may appear cooked, tinned meats: boiled tongue, veal loaf, boned chicken, plenty of salmon, and such sardines as you may enjoy. Cans of soup, of fruit and vegetables, and of mixed ingredients for salads are big helps. Some of the types of packaged quickly prepared desserts, for instance, are really tempting. Then add to that an assortment of macaroni relations and a ready supply of cheese and you have the setting for scores of top stove meals.

Then one more tip before we get into cups and spoonfuls. If you have a scarcity even of top stove burners, remember that "bake pots," waterless cooking utensils, or pressure cookers with the pressure cock wide open make commendable top stove ovens in which everything from muffins to vegetables, meats, and desserts may be cooked or baked over one burner at once if you desire.

So now for an assortment of speedy menus, and we hope you like 'em!

Eli Culbertson Tells Radio Bridge Club City Has Good Players

New Yorkers who are so provincial that they believe their city has all the good contract bridge players in the country are badly mistaken, according to Eli Culbertson, captain of the world's championship bridge team which won the Charles Schwab trophy in London. Mr. Culbertson spoke last night over W-G-N as the guest of Mandel Brothers Bridge Club of the Air and the club director, E. M. Lagron.

"I knew ten players in Chicago," averred the visiting expert, "who, if formed into two teams of four, would be capable of furnishing even competition with any teams that could be gathered in New York. Mr. Lagron is one of the ten."

As usual, Mr. Lagron answered several knotty bridge problems sent in by listeners. One of the questioners asked why expert players seemed to take up so much time studying the dummy. Mr. Culbertson was asked to comment on this one and replied that in his opinion the expert usually was studying up the alibi he'd make after failing to fulfill his contract.

NEW WAR BEGINS IN NORTH CHINA; BATTLE ALL DAY

Jap Troops Move Against Army of Rebels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 27.—[Wednesday.]—A brigade of Japanese troops under Lieut. Gen. Yoshikazu Nishi, stationed at Miyun, midway between the Great Wall and Peiping, began an advance early today against Gen. Fang Chen-wu's Chinese rebel forces at Hwaiju, about 30 miles north of Peiping. The advance was begun immediately following the expiration last midnight of the Japanese ultimatum to the Chinese that they evacuate the demilitarized zone north of Peiping. Fang's army is said to number 40,000 men.

Reports from Peiping said Fang's troops had left Hwaiju several hours before the Japanese advance began, one column heading for Sanho and another for Tungchow. Both these towns are southeast of Haiju and east of Peiping.

Serious Fighting Reported.

Serious fighting began between another section of Fang's troops and Nanking government forces early yesterday near Kaoliying, 25 miles northeast of Peiping. The fighting continued most of the day. The outcome has not been learned.

A Japanese report from Peiping, unconfirmed as yet, claimed that Col. Shibayama, Japanese military attaché, had reached an understanding with Nanking's war minister, Gen. Ho Ying-chin, whereby Sino-Japanese forces will coöperate to suppress the rebels.

The Japanese, under this agreement, would drive the rebels from the neutral zone set up by the armistice of last May while the Chinese would disarm them when they cross the line marking the southern border of the demilitarized zone.

Jap Planes Menace Peiping.

The Japanese claim their chief object is to prevent Fang's insurgents from advancing eastward to join the bandit Ta Hao-tze [Big Rat] who has entrenched himself in the Luantung area near Chinwangtao.

Four Japanese airplanes circled low over Peiping yesterday afternoon and scattered handbills declaring that Fang had violated the Sino-Japanese truce and that Japan is determined to deal drastically with his forces. The Japanese, the bills stated, harbor no evil intentions and hope the Chinese populace will coöperate against the outlaws.

BONDSMAN GETS 30 DAYS IN CELL FOR CONTEMPT

Robert R. Marcus, professional bondsman with offices at 1107 South State street, was adjudged in contempt of court yesterday by Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland and was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell. Although he said he wished to appeal the sentence, he was taken at once to the prison and locked up.

Marcus had been given a summons to appear before Judge Holland on Monday to answer a charge of violating a traffic ordinance. He did not answer when his case was called and a warrant for his arrest was issued. Yesterday morning, when he was brought into court he criticized Policeman Harry Rafferty, at whose request the warrant was issued, in a loud voice.

"Why weren't you here yesterday?" asked the judge.

Hearing on the contempt matter was delayed for several hours. Marcus continued to maintain that he was not in court on Monday, but Judge Holland found him in contempt and refused a stay of mittimus.

PAIR ACCUSED OF KILLING WOMAN ARE ACQUITTED

Abraham Booker, colored, 25 years old, and William Gleason, 24 years old, were acquitted of murder last night by a jury in the court of Judge Walter P. Steffen.

The two men were accused of killing Mrs. Anna Olson Irons, formerly of Hurley, Wis., who was found unconscious under the elevated structure at Orleans and Hill streets on May 28. She had been beaten and apparently an attempt at rape had been made.

Booker and Gleason were both arrested near the spot where Mrs. Irons lay. Each declared that he had gone over to investigate after seeing the other with Mrs. Irons. Residents of the neighborhood who had heard Mrs. Irons and a man quarreling could not identify either Booker or Gleason. One of the witnesses for the Negro defendant was the Rev. Philip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance association. He testified that Booker was one of his investigators and was working in the territory at the time he was arrested.

Cites Injustices of the Existing Rules.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The strict English divorce law was subjected to a severe raking over the coals today by Sir Reginald Poole, president of the British Law society, at a meeting at Oxford.

Only infidelity is accepted in English courts as a cause for divorce. As a result many thousands of "arranged" suits are heard despite attempts by the king's proctor to expose cases of collusion. A husband and wife parting on the friendliest terms are forced to manufacture evidence. This is done simply by the man allowing himself to be seen in a hotel room he has taken with another woman. Proof of intimacy is not essential.

Urges More Liberal Laws.

Sir Reginald, as head of the national organization of solicitors, urged that the legal grounds for divorce be enlarged.

"I am not in favor of granting divorces to spouses of convicts or lunatics," he said. "But I am in favor of extending the law so as to enable the judges to relieve the spouse from the burden of living with another at whose hands she has suffered 'persistent and aggravated cruelty.'

"For an isolated act of infidelity by the other, a man or woman can obtain a decree enabling either of them to obtain the custody of the children and get a settlement secured upon them for life. It matters not how utterly repentant the defaulter may be—the wronged party may obtain this relief."

Injustices Are Cited.

On the other side of the picture Sir Reginald cited cases of brutal husbands or drunken or extravagant wives known to him professionally in which there was no redress except through a separation order. This he declared unfair, particularly in cases where weak willed wives put their husbands in debt.

"I am also of the opinion that, as in Scotland, a decree of divorce should be granted for four years' "willful desertion," he said.

$15,000,000 MORE OF WORKS MONEY TO COAST GUARD

Capt. H. R. Searles, commander of the Chicago division of the United States coast guard, announced yesterday he had received word from Washington that $15,000,000, in addition to the $10,000,000 recently appropriated, had been allotted to the coast guard by the public works administration.

The allotment will permit the coast guard to construct nine 300 foot cutters, each carrying a seaplane, Capt. Searles said. The money also will make possible the construction of five 165 foot cutters and nine 165 foot patrol boats.

Five air stations are to be built, at Salem, Mass.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Biloxi, Miss.; Galveston, Tex., and Port Angeles, Wash. A new chapel is to be built at the coast guard academy at New London, Conn., and road work and fencing are to be done there.

"One purpose of this new construction is to furnish work for the country's idle," Capt. Searles said. "It also makes possible improvements that have been needed by the coast guard for many years in order to carry out its constantly increasing duties."

MELROSE PARK SUES M'DONOUGH OVER TAX FEES

County Treasurer McDonough was named defendant yesterday in a bill for an accounting filed in the Circuit court on behalf of the village of Melrose Park. The bill said the village collector has collected 70,000 items on delinquent special assessments during the last few years and has turned over the funds to the treasurer. It alleges that the treasurer has taken a fee of fifty cents for each item brought in by the collector and that he has no right to charge a fee. The bill asks the return of the $35,000 which it charges the treasurer has taken.

CUBAN REDS CRY 'DOWN WITH U. S.'; CHEER MOSCOW

Demonstrators Honor Slain Student.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 26. — Communist demonstrations of the anti-American type were the chief activity in Havana today while the revolutionary government of President Ramon Graud San Martin and the counter revolutionaries seeking to oust it remained in a deadlock.

From the presidential palace word was circulated that the A. B. C., representing the most powerful body of opinion in Havana, was likely to line up behind the Grau government. Leaders of the A. B. C., however, said there is little likelihood of their taking such a course.

Counter revolutionaries who for two weeks have been saying that "tomorrow" would see a coup d'etat and a new government, have put on a new needle. They now say they are waiting for "an opportunity."

Reds Put on Demonstration.

Today's Red demonstration attended the arrival on the steamer Orizaba of the body of Julio Antonio Mella, communist student leader of the University of Havana, who was killed in Mexico in January, 1931, by members of former President Machado's Porra [terroristic police] who were sent to Mexico from Cuba.

Radicals paraded with Red banners and shouts of "down with American sailors," "Viva Moscow," down with imperialism," and "down with Grau San Martin." It sounded like "down with the world. The marchers sang the hymn of the Moscow internationale.

The remains of Mella lay in state at the headquarters of the anti-Imperialistic League of Cuba in a home owned by Senator Wilfredo Fernandez of Pinar del Rio province, now a prisoner in Cabanas fortress. Communists confiscated the home a few days ago.

Reds Active in Interior.

From the interior of the island came reports of more communist troubles. One was at Matahambre, in Pinar del Rio, where there are ore mines owned by Americans. The department of interior reports that the army put down the outbreak.

A report from Santa Clara said Rodriguez Aymerich, at the head of 200 Reds, took possession of the Parque Alto sugar mill near Cienfuegos and that troops were sent against him.

In Oriente province a demonstration was held this morning at Banes against "Yankee imperialism." Speakers attacked the Platt amendment and called for its repeal, while Red banners had legends reading "Down with Americans," "Down with Welles," "Down with Roosevelt."

Body of Real Estate Man Found in Belmont Harbor

The body of Max Meyers, 53 years old, a retired tailor and real estate operator who disappeared Friday from his home at 3932 Pine Grove avenue, was found floating yesterday in Belmont harbor. Police were told that he had collected $400 in rent shortly before he disappeared. His pockets contained only 39 cents when the body was found.

BELLEVILLE ASKS U. S. FOR 2 MILLION FOR WATER PLANT

A delegation of twenty citizens of Belleville, Ill., headed by two United States congressmen, appeared yesterday before the advisory board of public works and petitioned for $2,000,000 with which to build a municipal water works system. Attorneys for the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Works company, which operates a water works plant in the town under a franchise, opposed the petition.

Congressmen Edwin M. Schaefer and Walter E. Nesbit and Mayor George A. Brechnitz spoke in favor of the proposed water works. W. R. Voorhis, chief counsel for the East St. Louis company, said that "there is already a good plant in operation in Belleville."

Holds 10 Responsible for Losses in Bank Failure

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff announced yesterday at Woodstock that he would hold Mrs. Florence Gilbert, former treasurer of the city of Crystal Lake, McHenry county, and her nine bondsmen responsible for city funds which she had deposited in the defunct United State Bank of Crystal Lake. Mrs. Gilbert was bonded for $50,000, and Judge Shurtleff said that he would announce the amount to be assessed against her and the bondsmen today. The bank, holding $65,000 in city funds, failed May 28, 1931, less than a month after Mrs. Gilbert took office. Since that time the city has received about $9,000 in dividends from the closed bank.

LOUGHRAN AND SHARKEY FIGHT AGAIN TONIGHT

It's a Battle of the Hollow Shells.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Jack Sharkey, the prizefighter who took up failure as a vocation in life and made a brilliant success of it, is fighting his old friend, Tommy Loughran, in Philadelphia tomorrow night, and there is a contest of the lithe, lean bodies in which it ought to be possible to stir up the widest disinterest. This will be a battle of the hollow shells, and the outcome, whatever it may be, will be something which it would be hard to imagine could be of less consequence.

Those of us in the sport writing trade who are approaching the age for memoirs and statistics out of the almanac will recall that on the occasion of their first meeting Sharkey fetched Loughran a push in the face that sent him sleep walking into the arms of Lou Magnolia, the referee of the evening. Mistaking Magnolia for one of the gentlemanly ushers and himself for a cash customer, Loughran asked to be shown to a comfortable seat.

Sharkey pursued him with intent to inflict great bodily harm, but Magnolia, with quick, shrewd judgment, decided that it would be against the interests of the ennobling sport to permit a contestant to take a sock at any one who even thought himself a customer. So he restrained Sharkey, and another quaint and curious episode was entered in the record of the male Sarah Bernhardt whose principal attraction over a long and profitable career was not his talent as a common fist fighter but his knack for the dramatic and unconventional.

It Had Possibilities.

Sharkey looked very homicidal as he charged across the scaffold and if Magnolia had let him go he might have mistaken himself for Loughran and tagged his own chin for a knockout, which would have been difficult to score under the rules but highly entertaining. He was always creating delicate problems in his fights and any referee who worked with him had to be prepared to act as governess, keeper, or nurse in an emergency.

In his fights with Harry Wills and Jack Delaney, both of which ended to his advantage but under circumstances not altogether to his credit, he broke down and wept like a melancholy inebriate in a village cooler. In his bout with Philip Fallova Scott, the fainting fireman from London, he drove in a number of low fouls and broke into a screaming tantrum so shrill that Magnolia, who was the referee of that evening too, said, "All right, for heaven's sake stop hollering and hit him again, but hit him on top of the head this time, as he is very high waisted and anything below the eyebrows is out of bounds."

Mr. Magnolia handled Sharkey that night very much as a tactful husband might deal with an hysterical helpmeet, and, although the prizefight was rather messy from the ethical standpoint, he probably figured that Philip Fallova would scream less if he were foully dealt with than Sharkey would if he weren't allowed to foul to his heart's content.

It Was a Special Rule.

The bout with Harry Wills was the one in which Sharkey established his reputation. Wills was disqualified for hitting while holding, and Sharkey was carelessly deemed to have removed a menace. But the rule against hitting while holding was especially revived for that evening only. Many prizefighters were in the habit of hitting while holding, notably Harry Greb, who never was disqualified or even challenged for the offense, and, although many others, notably Willie Stribling, have done so since, nobody has ever been ruled out in a main event in New York since that night.

A few years ago Sharkey was unwilling to fight under any auspices but those of the Madison Square Garden corporation. There came a day during the gorgeous and goofy era of prosperity, however, when Mique Malloy, the Chicago promoter, obtained sufficient backing to offer Sharkey $100,000 for a fight with Willie Stribling in Chicago. Mr. Malloy came to New York and met Sharkey and his fat manager, John Buckley, and talked far into the night. At 8 in the morning Mr. Malloy saw Sharkey and Buckley off to Boston and himself took another train to Chicago. He was very tired from his sitting up in an all night coffee pot on Broadway and went to sleep as the train pulled out, confident he had closed a magnificent match. The boys had given him their solemn promise.

Mique Was Hurt.

On his arrival in Chicago, however, he discovered the boys had been playing jokes on him. They had made the solemn promise, but they had not said "positively." Mr. Malloy was so depressed he never came to New York again.

Now Sharkey is willing to fight not only in Chicago but in Philadelphia, a fact which well informed members of the profession will not fail to weigh in estimating the hollowness of his shell. He is through bringing in the sheaves and is now out gleaning the wisps.

HORNER, M'NUTT, HERRING TO JOIN LEGION THRONG

Iowa Will Present Improved Eleven.

Northwestern and Iowa will open the Big Ten football season at Soldiers' field Saturday before a distinguished gathering which will include the governors of three states, high ranking officers of the army and navy, and other dignitaries who will be in Chicago for the national convention of the American Legion.

The state executives who will occupy boxes as the guests of the Legion are Gov. Horner of Illinois; Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana, past national commander of the Legion, and Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa. Gov. Herring will attend the Iowa day ceremonies at A Century of Progress as well as see the home state boys play on the gridiron.

Guests of Legion.

The governors will be the guests of the Legion at a luncheon at the University club Saturday noon. Other guests at the luncheon, who also will occupy boxes at the game, will be Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress; Admiral Wat T. Cluverius of Great Lakes; Maj. Gen. Frank E. Parker, commandant of the Sixth corps area; Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the Legion; Gen. Milton Foreman, past national commander of the Legion; Maj. Gen. George Leach, chief of the military bureau of the National Guard; Charles C. Kapschull, department commander of the Illinois Legion, and Leo Duster, department commander of the Iowa Legion.

Thousands of early arrivals among the Legionnaires will attend the game in a special reserved section. Legion members who present proper registration credentials will be eligible to purchase special low rate tickets for 55 cents through an arrangement entered into by Northwestern and the American Legion.

Bugle Corps to Perform.

Harold H. Higgie, chairman of the Legion arrangements committee, also will have charge of the program before and between halves of the game. The drum and bugle corps of the Woodlawn post will play for the flag raising ceremony before the game. Between halves the drum corps from the Mel Terney post of Park Ridge and the Commonwealth Edison post will perform.

Cruice, the only sophomore in this combination, is a left handed passer. His passing will serve to match the southpaw tosses of Joe Laws, veteran Iowa quarter back, who was voted the most valuable player on the Hawkeye team last year in THE TRIBUNE poll.

The Wildcats anticipate a hard game with the Hawkeyes. The fact that the visitors' starting lineup contains five sophomores, most of whom have edged last year's regulars out of a job, is an indication of the improvement to be expected. Special attention is being paid in the Wildcat camp to plans to stop Dick Crayne, husky sophomore full back, who is reported to be a second Gordon Locke, brilliant full back of a decade ago.

IOWA DRILLS IN RAIN.

Reserves continued to play the first string tackle and guard positions in place of Lloyd Hoffman and Francis Schammel, who were still out because of boils. Jerry Foster played in Hoffman's tackle and Wilmon Hass was at guard.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

JACK SHARKEY and Tommy Loughran, a pair of washed-up heavyweights, fight in Philadelphia tonight and the winner will deserve the congratulations of the nation, because the loser in all probability will be definitely eliminated from championship comment.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN

No two battlers have had greater opportunity to demonstrate their class, if any, with such disappointing results. They have managed to keep consistently in the spotlight by the hope and promise that next time they will show you something.

Sharkey and Loughran last met in 1929 when both were more agile and more ambitious than they are today. Sharkey won by a technical knockout in the third round when Loughran sat down and told the referee he desired no more of it.

It would be interesting to toss both of them into the ring against Levinsky and see what would happen.

Newspapers for several days have been printing pictures and stories about the hysteria attending the return of the Giants to New York as National league champions. Thousands stood in the rain outside the city hall to hear the mayor and other civic leaders extol the achievement of Manager Bill Terry and his players.

While a reception like this would have been considered provincial in Cleveland or St. Louis it proved that a baseball fan is a fan whether he lives on Broadway or Randolph street.

New York has had considerable difficulty deciding upon a course of conduct toward the Giants. They have been leading the league since June, but few of their home townsmen gave them a tumble until they took two straight from the Cubs in late August. Day after day they played before thousands of empty seats. Few front runners have had less box office support than the Giants of June, July, and early August.

While the figures are not available it is our guess that the Cubs, with a second or third place team, have attracted more customers to Wrigley field than the Giants have to the Polo grounds.

From which you may gather that Chicago is the best baseball city in America.

It is encouraging to find that Charlie Grimm has received from his boss, William L. Veeck, the support that he deserved. The Cubs won the National league pennant in 1932. They hoped and expected to repeat this year. The usual reaction is the dismissal of the manager.

Veeck realized that the Cubs did not repeat because of circumstances outside the control of the manager. The club will try to strengthen its weak spots for 1934 with improved player talent. Too frequently baseball magnates try to placate the fans by changing leaders rather than by spending money for good athletes.

The White Sox are in a position similar to the Cubs. They spent liberally after the 1932 season in an effort to rebuild the team. Lew Fonseca set a first division berth as his 1933 goal. Had it not been for injuries and other factors for which he was not responsible he would have made good.

If the Sox intend to give Fonseca another chance it would do the club's morale no harm if Lou Comiskey announced it before the city series.

PANCHO VILLA IS STABBED IN ARM BY WOMAN

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 26. — (AP) — Pancho Villa, Filipino boxer, was treated at a hospital today for a deep gash in his right arm he said was inflicted by a woman who accused him of flirting with her.

Villa said he called to a friend who was passing on the other side of the street. The friend did not hear the call and walked on. The woman stepped up to him, he said, and accused him of shouting at her. She drew a knife, the fighter said, and lunged at his chest. He sidestepped the thrust and caught the blade in the arm.

BRAVES DEFEAT GIANTS, 5-3, ON HOMER IN THIRD

Cantwell Pitches 20th Victory of Season.

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Ben Cantwell of the Boston Braves became the third National league pitcher to win 20 games this season when he turned back the Giants, 5 to 3, today in a duel with Roy Parmelee. The other pitchers to reach the 20 game mark were Carl Hubbell of the Giants and Dizzy Dean of St. Louis.

Cantwell was struggling against odds most of the way, but the Boston infield pulled him out of several holes by executing four double plays. Pinkey Whitney provided the winning runs with a homer in the third inning. Cantwell yielded ten hits while Parmalee allowed only six.

Boston scored twice in the first, but the Giants got those two back in the same inning. With two out and one on in the third, however, Moore dropped a Texas league double into right and Whitney hit a homer that meant three runs. The Giants scored again in the fourth inning.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Phillies put a successful finish on their home season today by coming from behind in the ninth inning to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 2. The defeat ended Brooklyn's five game winning streak.

The Dodgers scored against Jim Elliott in the ninth to take a 2 to 1 lead. Joe Shaute, who had matched Elliott all the way, weakened in the last half of the inning. Dick Bartell opened with a single, but was caught at the plate on Chuck Klein's double. Then Don Hurst beat out a hit and Wes Schulmerich walked to fill the bases.

At this point Van Mungo relieved Shaute and passed Pinch Hitter Spud Davis, forcing in the tying run. Another batsman, Harry McCurdy, lifted a short fly to Ralph Boyle, who made a wild throw to Al Lopez at the plate and Hurst came in with the winning run. Score:

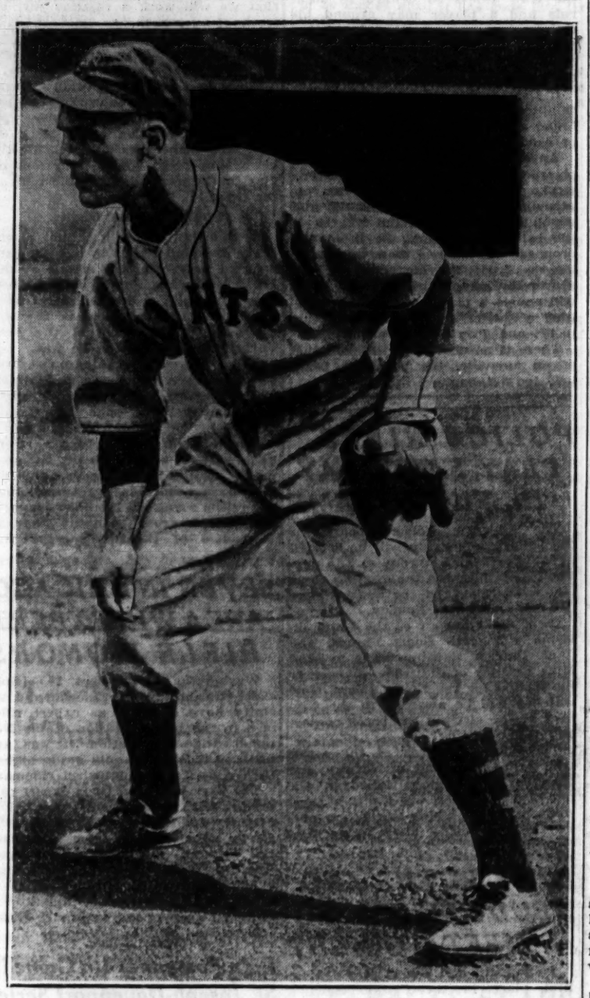
LOOK OUT FOR A FAST ONE



Hal Schumacher, one of the Big Four of the New York Giants' pitching staff, keeps his arm in shape for the world series by snapping a few fast ones. His speed baffled many a National league slugger and some believe it will have the same effect on Washington's Senators.

Bill Terry Is Mistaken: Hal Schumacher Can Pitch!

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It is said on good authority that as recent as last March, Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, dolefully exclaimed that he didn't see how he could do much in the race if he had to depend on pitchers like Harold Henry Schumacher and Leroy Earl Parmelee.

The same Mr. Terry now is being hailed as a miracle man, but only because the two pitchers, for whom he saw no future, refused to run true to their boss' predictions.

In a way Mr. Terry couldn't be blamed for considering the outlook hopeless as far as the two youngsters were concerned. He had watched them perform more or less feebly for the better part of two seasons. The point of that is that frequently a manager's guess on a player's possibilities are no better than that of the cash customer who does his managing from a grandstand or bleacher seat.

Hal Sees McGraw;
He Gets Contract.

Schumacher happened into the Giant fold because some friend of John McGraw, then manager, detected talent that Terry didn't notice even after more extensive observation. The friend sent Schumacher down for a talk with the boss of the Polo grounds, and McGraw, who wasn't hard to deal with in that way, gave the lad a contract. Schumacher was only 20 at the time. He had pitched some in high school and played the outfield when not pitching with the St. Lawrence college team in northern New York.

For a long time after signing his contract Schumacher wasn't convinced that he had taken the right step. There were moments when he thought he might as well abandon the professional idea, go back to college to collect his bachelor of science degree, and then make a fresh start along other lines. Schumacher never got around to making that bold stroke.

Gets an Earful of McGraw Under Steam.

When Schumacher was spending his first season, 1931, with the Giants, he didn't have much to do except sit on the bench where he could hear the quaint words McGraw was in the habit of using whenever his puppets blundered on the ball field. McGraw could arouse the dander of a hardened campaigner in such moods. Thus one can estimate the effect he might have on a young man raised in a small town where the boys go behind the haystacks to experiment with elocution.

Anyway Schumacher wasn't of much use to the Giants that season. He was in eight games, one of which he was credited with winning and one of which he lost. Part of the season he was farmed out to Bridgeport, Conn., and part to Rochester, N. Y. Last season he was thrown into 27 battles, most of which were lost before he got into them. However, he managed to salvage five decisions and was directly charged with six losses. It was that record that induced Terry, last March, to declare himself as mentioned above.

Schumacher was born in Hinckley, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1910, which was just a few weeks after the Athletics, among them Eddie Collins, had dusted off the Cubs in the world's series of that fall.

GIANT PITCHING ACES TO TUNE UP TODAY FOR SERIES

Hubbell, Schumacher Face Phillies.

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Manager Bill Terry will lead his New York champion Giants against the Phillies tomorrow at the Polo grounds in a double header that will furnish some of the closing preparation of the National league pennant winners for the world series which opens next Tuesday.

Hughie Critz, veteran second baseman, and Travis Jackson, who is filling in for Johnny Vergez at third base, and all other regulars will play. Carl Hubbell will pitch one of the games, with Paul Richards catching him. Hal Schumacher will pitch the other, with Gus Mancuso catching.

The necessity for enough activity to keep the regulars in trim and not enough rest to dull their playing led Manager Terry today to announce his plans. It is expected that Hubbell and Schumacher will get at least one more inning of work before the regular schedule is completed. Tentative plans call for the two Giant pitching stars to work one inning apiece in the closing game of the season between the Giants and Dodgers in Brooklyn Sunday.

No Physical Complaint.

Manager Terry reported a complete absence of physical complaints. That he is confident of the ability of his athletes is well known, although he refrains from attempting to forecast what will happen in the series.

While Manager Terry is devoting his attention to the preparation of the club for the season's climax, the business office of the National Exhibition company, operating the Giants, is being flooded with a steadily increasing demand for tickets. Box seats and reserved seats, which must be sold in groups of three each, are in great demand. Applications for these are flooding the Giant offices in such volume that Horace Stoneham, son of President Charles A. Stoneham, is kept busy from morning until night supervising the work of classifying the orders against the day when tickets are to be allotted. An attempt will be made to deliver some of the tickets Friday and Saturday.

Applicants seeking single game tickets are being advised daily that only the tickets for the unreserved upper grandstand and the unreserved bleachers are to be sold only on the day of each contest here.

Big Press Reservations.

A greater demand for press reservations than was experienced for last year's world series was reported, indicating an increased interest in the forthcoming games. Applicants from major league cities which last year ignored the series have filed requests for reservations, and, in addition, applications in excess of last year's have been recorded from minor league towns. Accordingly, elaborate press arrangements are under way.

Another preparatory move was revealed when First Deputy Commissioner Philip D. Hoyt, with other officers of the police department, spent part of the afternoon at the Polo grounds and in the neighborhood of the ball field, investigating traffic conditions. Extensive plans for accommodating the vehicular traffic expected at the series are to be adopted to minimize confusion and inconvenience, Hoyt said.

CRONIN GETS CRYPTIC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Joseph Edward Cronin, the young manager of the Washington Senators, has decided to do a little masterminding as to just which one of his big four pitchers will oppose the Giants next Tuesday at the Polo grounds.

If Cronin himself knows who will start, he is keeping the choice a secret. Those close to Cronin say definitely that his announcement will be withheld until just before game time.

Most of the grandstand managers have picked Alvin Crowder, the husky hight hander who was the work horse of the Senators' pitching staff this season.

May Be Weaver.

But the whisper today was that it may be Monte Weaver. The former mathematics professor has been

NOTRE DAME PROSPECTS.

"We have a good team, a very good team, at Notre Dame this fall," Head Coach Heartley Anderson speaking. "Whether it proves a champion squad depends on later developments. Quarter back is a problem, but there are several capable candidates trying for that position.

"There is no one game on our schedule that in advance I think we'll lose. But somewhere along the line of Kansas, Indiana, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, Navy, Purdue, Northwestern, Southern California, and Army I suppose on the law of averages we ought to lose at least one, perhaps two contests. I'm not admitting we will, but we could. I'll be greatly disappointed if we lose more than two games."

"If five opponents on our schedule are equal strength with us, as it appears at this stage of the season, we would be doing well to escape with only two defeats, even if none of the other four, rated less strong, upset us." That was Athletic Director Jess Harper's answer to the query on Notre Dame prospects.

Both these statements no doubt reflected conservatism, certainly not the hopes, possibly not the honest-cross-my-heart personal opinions of their sponsors. Notre Dame alumni, however, are less conservative. They are figuring whether the eleven will lose any games. There are South Bend alumni who regard any season in which even one game is lost as not an unqualified success.

Let's talk with one of these alumni who was so optimistic he did not want to be put on the spot by mention of his name. He said: "Notre Dame has good chances for an undefeated season. We have better scoring talent, with plenty of reserves, than in several years. The line is fine. Quarter back may be a problem. I think Anderson'll solve that.

"Now last year we lost to Pittsburgh and Southern California. The score against the coast eleven, 13 to 0, did not reflect the relative strength of the two elevens. We didn't play Notre Dame football out there. Against Southern California and Pittsburgh we lacked scoring punch. I'm sure we have it this year.

"Anderson will 'steam up' the boys for those two games. He must do the same for Purdue, which will give us real battle and is as dangerous as the other two. You'll be surprised when I say I think we face as much danger from Northwestern and Army as those other three. Why? Because a team cannot be steamed up for every game.

"We have Northwestern between Purdue and Southern California. We must take the game in stride and Northwestern, always playing well against us, has tried for several years to beat us. This may be the year. If we get by Northwestern and go on to Army with a clean slate our impetus will carry us through. If we lose to the Purple or any one else Army might play one of the inspired games it often shows us and bag the victory. Unlike Anderson and Harper, I don't think we're going to lose any games. O, yes, I'm an optimist and full of Notre Dame spirit."

This speaker undoubtedly selected the three games Notre Dame most wants to win—Pittsburgh, Purdue, and Southern California. Those three victories certainly would be an achievement, even if mishap happened elsewhere.

Sox Drill for Exhibition, Season Final and Field Day

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, convinced that the American league pennant race practically is over, have made arrangements to have a nice time over the week-end, regardless.

Saturday, for instance, will be ladies' day, and it will not be necessary for the guests to write for tickets. It also will be father and son day, son getting in free if accompanied by his papa. On Sunday there will be a field day program preceding the game.

Manager Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Browns, whose team will help the Sox wind up the American league season, has written that he has a champ for each of the field events. The Sox personnel, however, includes the holder of the world record for circling the bases—Evar Swanson. Swance also is doped to win several other events.

Hemsley Will Compete.

Circling the bases, 75 yard dash, bunt and run to first base, long distance throwing, fungo hitting, accuracy test of catcher throwing to second base and accuracy test of pitchers throwing to home plate.

Main challenger of Swanson is Rollie Hemsley, former Cub catcher, who on Saturday will make his Chicago debut as an American leaguer. Swanson and Hemsley will clash in the first three events, the running features and Hemsley also will throw at the second base target in the accuracy test for catchers. Al Simmons figures to win standing up in the long distance throwing contest.

Carl Reynolds, who as a member of the White Sox was hailed as the league's fastest runner, also will compete. It will be the second time Reynolds has participated in a running race at Comiskey park. Ben Chapman beat him by a couple of noses two seasons ago.

Sox Go to Waukegan.

The Sox yesterday got in a good workout just before the rain cut loose and will rest today in preparation for an exhibition game in Waukegan tomorrow afternoon. The squad which will go to Waukegan, weather permitting, will be composed of Outfielders Simmons, Webb, and Stoneham; Infielders Kress, English, Hayes, and Rhyne; Catchers Sullivan and Grube, and Pitchers Hutchinson, Kimsey, Miller, and Tietje.

No announcements were forthcoming yesterday in connection with the Sox' plans relative to retention of Lew Fonseca as manager. President Lou Comiskey, who has been resting at his home near Eagle River, has indicated he will be in Chicago tomorrow or Friday. Something may be done about the managership shortly after his return, it was indicated. Fonseca's two year contract technically expires with the last putout Sunday afternoon, but regardless of action on his case Boss Lew will be the skipper in the city series.

Tickets on Sale Today.

Tickets for the city series will go on sale today. Tickets for the first two games of the series at Wrigley field next Wednesday and Thursday may be obtained at Wrigley field and Spalding's. Those for the games at Comiskey park, Friday and Saturday, and Sunday if the series goes beyond four games, may be purchased at Comiskey park and the Hub.

The league will hold a double header every Sunday on the same field. An out of town team will play there every month.

LEGION CHAMPS MEET CATHOLIC NINE SUNDAY

The amateur baseball championship of the United States will be at stake at Wrigley field Sunday when the National Tea Post nine, winner of the American Legion national tournament, meets St. Adrian's, winner of the first national Catholic baseball tournament sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization.

The National Post and St. Adrian's teams have strong pitching staffs, as is attested by the records of Phil Cavaretta of the Nationals and Lefty Owens of St. Adrian's.

Cavaretta, who played on the Lane Tech team this year, has pitched 20 games and lost none. Owens, who pitched St. Adrian's to the U. S. Catholic title, shared the mound with Lefty Stevens in the Chicago C. Y. O. race, and although defeated, has shown ability in emergencies.

Wales, Compston Lose Golf Match to Ayton, Partner

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The prince of Wales and his personal professional, Archie Compston, today were defeated in a four ball golf match at St. Andrews by the St. Andrews professional, Laurie Ayton, and Lord Castlerosse. Ayton, who returned to St. Andrews last year after 13 years at the Evanston club at Evanston, Ill., leaves St. Andrews shortly to accept the job of professional at South Shields.

St. Andrews Club Adopts Changes in Golf Rules

[Copyright: 1933; By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews tonight adopted revised rules of golf, the draft of which has been submitted to the United States Golf association. The rules will become effective Jan. 1.

Under the new rules if a player is undecided whether his ball has gone out of bounds, instead of being limited to two shots he may play as many shots as he likes with a provisional ball until reaching the spot where the previous ball is likely to be.

Grass in a trap is no longer part of the trap unless so defined by local rule and a player may ground his club in the grass even though skirting a trap. Committees must define accurately the extent and boundaries of their traps.

If a lost ball is not found within five minutes, it cannot be played even if found a second later, either by player or caddie or spectator.

An addition to the existing rule on obstructions provides that if a player's stroke is interfered with by an obstruction which is immovable and which is within two club lengths of the ball, the ball may be lifted and dropped not more than two club lengths from the obstacle, but not nearer the hole, without penalty. This will enable a player whose ball is behind a shelter or similar obstruction to lift and drop without penalty.

There is no change in the definition of an amateur, the proposals being held too drastic.

POLICE NINES PLAY SATURDAY IN FINAL GAME

The Chicago Police department baseball championship will be decided at Wrigley field, Saturday at 2:15 p.m. The North Side won the opening game two weeks ago, and the South Siders tied the series last Sunday.

Capt. John Hogan of the south division will pitch Eddie Dennis, and Capt. Patrick Harding plans to send Mike Delaney of the traffic division to the mound for the North Siders. Gold watches will be awarded to the winners of the circling the bases contest and fungo hitting.

The entire proceeds of the series will go to the fund of widows and orphans of policemen killed in the line of duty. There are plenty of good seats available which will be on sale at the box office at Wrigley field Saturday.

Giants' Aces Pitch Today in Series Lineup

"I've told all four of them to be ready, and, believe me, they will be ready, too. I'll pick the one that looks best next Tuesday, and after that we will work a rotation just as we have all season."

So it may be Crowder or Weaver, and it may be Walter Stewart or Earl Whitehill, the Senators' left handers.

There is a catch in Cronin's statement that they will be worked in "rotation." The Senators' leader has changed his rotation every week or two, and sometimes oftener. Mostly he has operated under a system of picking the man who was most fit at the time.

Stewart Scans Giants.

As to a first choice, it cannot be entirely discounted that it was Stewart who sat quietly in the stands at the Polo grounds last Sunday and watched the Giants play a double header with the Boston Braves. That is, Stewart sat quietly until some of the New Yorkers discovered who he was.

Luke Sewell, Washington's first string catcher, accompanied Stewart. Their presence gives basis for argument that they may oppose the Giants first.

Cronin gave his big four a strenuous workout today with the National league ball. He contends, and all four have nodded in agreement, that the raised seams on the older league's ball may improve the stuff that at least two of them will serve the Giants.

SEVEN IN CHICAGO AREA WIN EXPERT RIFLE HONORS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Seven boys of Chicago and vicinity have qualified as expert riflemen in the junior division of the National Rifle association, it was announced today. The only grade higher than expert is distinguished rifleman.

The boys who won their expert rating are Carl Hassenstien, 7042 Crieger avenue, and Robert J. Tysdal, 3827 North Monticello avenue, Chicago; Bill Smythe, 43 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth; Roland Berndt, 1 Chicago avenue, Oak Park; Gardner Johnson, 1215 23d street; John Millett, 920 Chestnut avenue, and Arthur R. West, 723 Ashland avenue, Wilmette.

Rain Postpones 4th Game in St. Joseph-Davenport Series

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rain, which made a quagmire of the playing field at the City stadium, tonight forced postponement of the fourth game of the post-season series between St. Joseph, Western league champion, and Davenport, Mississippi Valley league title winner. The game was rescheduled for tomorrow night. The Saints hold a 2-1 game lead in the series.

Reds Chasten Sandlot Stars in 4 to 1 Victory

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Those amateur baseball players—and fans—who have boasted what they would do if they could get a crack at the Cincinnati Reds, tailenders in the National league, were gently chastened today.

The amateurs threw 20 players into the contest—four of them pitchers. Each team got five hits, but the Reds piled up their four runs in the first three innings and then coasted in as the sandlotters swung at the offerings of Benton and Johnson.

The amateurs got their run in the eighth inning on a couple of generous errors by Johnson. With one out Si fumbled a bunt, hit another player, and lost a double play when he threw wild to second on a roller. With the bases full Brouckhoff came home after Roettger had caught a long fly.

Barry, O'Hanion Win in St. Louis Fights

PHILS' BIG SIX MEMBERS ONLY PLAYERS ACTIVE

The Phillies' two big six members, Chuck Klein and Spud Davis, were the only ones of the select group of batting leaders to get into action yesterday and neither helped his average. Klein drove out his 43d double for his only hit in four times up against Brooklyn and scored his 100th run, but his average went down a point to .372. Davis drew a walk as a pinch batsman, leaving his mark unchanged. The standing:

Hornsby Expects to Be at Third All Next Season

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Rogers Hornsby will be a playing manager next year. The new pilot of the St. Louis Browns has indicated that he will attempt to play third base regularly during the 1934 season because of the Browns' lack of hard hitters.

"If the Browns are going to get out of the second division in the American league we will need plenty of punch," Manager Hornsby said today.

He said he has his eye on George Earnshaw, Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher.

Golemgeske and Millar Make Grades.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's football outlook brightened today with the announcement that John Golemgeske, 220 pound tackle from Waukesha, and Bill Millar of Marshfield, both sophomores, had passed examiantions and were eligible. Russ Callahan, Wausau sophomore end, also is believed to have become eligible. Callahan has passed one examination, but has not been notified of his grade in another.

Coach Clarence Spears is planning several scrimmages this week, with most of next week devoted to polishing up for the Marquette battle.

MAROONS DODGE INJURY.

Coach Shaughnessy's chief quandary these days is how to harden his Maroon football team by actual combat without injuring any of his squad in the process. He is frankly disturbed about the leg injury sustained in Monday's scrimmage by Merritt Bush, who bulwarks the line at left tackle, despite the fact that he has been assured that Bush will be in action before the first Big Ten game.

Yesterday the Maroon practice was limited to fundamentals and to dummy scrimmage. Bill Land, sophomore from St. Rita's High school, was tried at quarter back with the first team during a long session in the field house.

MICHIGAN EXPECTS PASSES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 26.—[Special.] — Work on a defense against some of the passes Michigan State is expected to throw a week from Saturday was started by the Michigan football squad this afternoon. Coach Harry Kipke used the regular backfield on defense and the first string line as a protecting wall for the passers.

The defending backfield was switched frequently as most of the men who will do the passing, including Regeczi, Renner, and Everhardus are in the regular backfield.

Signal running was ordered at the end of the drill as a preparation for the scrimmage to be held tomorrow afternoon at Ferry field. In the workout tomorrow Kipke will employ few of the regulars, preferring to give the reserves further practice.

KIZER DEMOTES UNGERS.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The process of building a line, which has occupied most of the attention of Purdue's coaching staff, was intensified today as another shakeup sent Ed Ungers, veteran right tackle, back to the third squad.

Coach Noble Kizer has been dissatisfied with the defensive performance of the line, and during today's scrimmage served notice that he would continue the daily shakeups until he attained a maximum of effectiveness.

With Ungers demoted to the third squad, Paul Emmons, another senior, stepped up a notch. Ted Fehring, promising sophomore and brother of Capt. Dutch Fehring, was promoted to the second team.

GOPHERS BECOME ELIGIBLE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Frank Dallera, ranked as No. 1 guard, even though he is a sophomore; Dick Smith, outstanding tackle candidate from Rockford, Ill., and Ray Zozel, end prospect from Milwaukee, were declared eligible today for the Minnesota football team. The final decision on the status of George Roscoe, billed for understudy duty to Pug Lund, and Congress Julius Alfonse, hard hitting sophomore back, is expected within a few days.

Players whose eligibility is in doubt are being left out of plans for the opener with South Dakota State next Saturday. Because of this decision, Coach Bernie Bierman is spending considerable time with Malcolm Elken, bidding for a place for the first time, and George Champlin, midget back. They were used at left half back. Elken did not play football in high school, but he has shown fine possibilities because of his versatility and speed. Champlin at the present appears to be Lund's chief understudy, as he has gained weight without losing his speed.

MORE SCRIMMAGE AT OHIO.

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Ohio State football players went through another hard offensive scrimmage session this morning. During the afternoon the squad was given a rest while pictures of Ohio State's 1933 opponents, taken in previous years, were shown.

Cardinals at Pittsburgh for League Opener

Dave Nisbet may open at left end in place of the veteran Milan Creighton, who was handicapped by a bruised leg when the team left yesterday. Chuck Bennett will fill the left half back position formerly held by Walter Holmer, who was traded to Boston. Walter Kiesling also is ailing and Phil Handler is expected to be in his place at guard at the kickoff.

BEARS DRILL IN RAIN

A downpour yesterday did not prevent the Bears from working out and with the exception of Bronko Nagurski and Bert Pearson, who are on the injured list, the entire squad continued preparation for the Boston Redskins game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon.

Lone Star Dietz, who will make his Chicago debut as a pro league coach, has drilled the Redskins in a special defense against the Bears' running attack since Boston held Green Bay to a 7-7 tie a week ago Sunday.

The game will be a part of American Legion day and one of the military features will be the first appearance of the famous Marlboro drum and bugle corps at Soldiers' field, an organization of 100 Legionnaires who will be here to represent the suburb of Boston at the National American Legion convention.

NORTH CENTRAL AND KALAMAZOO MEET SATURDAY

North Central college will play one of the hardest games on its 1933 football schedule on Saturday, when it meets the Kalamazoo Teachers at Kalamazoo. Last year the Kalamazoo Teachers defeated North Central 27 to 0, and also conquered De Paul university and St. Viator. Of last year's undefeated team Kalamazoo has a large number of letter men back.

The Kalamazoo Teachers are coached by Mike Gary who starred at tackle at Minnesota as a teammate of Coach Fisher of North Central. Kalamazoo uses a plunging offense. North Central is experimenting with a running attack built around its fleet backs, Dieber, Smith, Dittman, and Spiegler. The 41 to 0 victory over the Milwaukee Teachers last Saturday indicates the possibilities of North Central's new style of play.

SHOWERS HALT JUNIOR SERIES; PLAY TONIGHT

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rain prevented the third game of the Little World series scheduled tonight between Columbus and Buffalo, each of which has won one contest.

Tonight's game would have been the first of two night tilts here. The cancellation put the night games over to tomorrow and Thursday.

Manager Ray Blades of the Red Birds indicated, however, that he may decide to send Bill Lee to the mound in tomorrow night's game, saving Heise, the American association's leading hurler, for Thursday's contest.

ON A WILDCAT HUNT

Francis W. Schammel, for two years a tackle, has been shifted to guard, where he will hurl his 215 pounds against Northwestern's line when Iowa comes to Soldiers' field Saturday.

Notre Dame to Save Its New Plays for Pitt

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.] — After a driving rain had forced the cancellation of the first tackling dummy workout of the year today Coach Heartly Anderson, in the secrecy of the gymnasium, sent his Notre Dame football squad through an intensive signal drill on new plays.

The new variations of the Notre Dame system he instituted last week will not be used until it becomes necessary, he said today. He plans to use them against Pittsburgh here Oct. 28, but may need them earlier.

He was presented with a gladstone bag, the birthday gift of the squad, at the lecture. He was 35 years old Saturday.

OLANDER DIRECTS ILLINI.

Campaign, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Assistant Coach Milt Olander sent the University of Illinois football squad through scrimmage today in the absence of Head Coach Bob Zuppke, who is in Cleveland preparing for the Army-Illini game there next month. The workout was cut short by rain.

DRAKE SPEEDS UP.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rain brought cooler weather and more pep to the Drake university football drills today, resulting in a long scrimmage between the varsity and "B" team, both of which will see action against Illinois in a double header at Urbana Saturday.

After making several shifts, Coach V. J. Green indicated that Tom McLaughlin of Des Moines and Lowell Anderson of Ely, Minn., would start at the tackle posts. Both are sophomores.

HOOSIERS PREPARE FOR MIAMI.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Passing and running formations were rehearsed this afternoon as Indiana university's football squad polished up its offensive for the Miami university game here Saturday.

Coach E. C. Hayes got a line on men he may start in the season's opener. Outstanding aspirants for first team berths appear to be Lyons and Antonini, ends; Anglemyer and Renegar, tackles; Busbee and Jones, guards; Sprauer, center; Veller, quarter back; Sawicki and R. Dauer, half backs, and Walker, full back.

Ohio's Morale at Low Ebb; Morale Builder Injured

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Morale in the Ohio State football camp was at a low point today when Kenneth Rassmussen, who came all the way from Cleveland to sing and play the piano for the Buckeyes during the training season, sprained his finger. Each afternoon and evening while the team is at the training table Rassmussen leads the athletes in rounds of songs, but today the "morale builder," as he calls himself, was forced to absent himself from his duties.

You Can Tell Muskie's Age by Its Scales

BY BOB BECKER.

When a fisherman brings in a Wisconsin muskalunge which is 30 inches long [the legal length for "keepers"] he can figure that nature required at least six years to grow that fish. Or, to put it more accurately, a 30 inch muskalunge rarely attains the length of 30 inches until it has gone into its sixth summer.

As a matter of fact, Chancey Juday and Edward Schneberger of the Wisconsin geological and natural history survey found in their study of the growth of fishes that sometimes a muskie must reach its seventh summer to be 30 inches long.

Could Be Ten Years Old.

Several specimens were only a quarter of an inch over 30 inches even though they were in their eighth summer. Therefore, when a muskie fisherman hauls in a 30 incher and he wants to know how old the fish is, he can be pretty sure that it must be at least six and it may be more than ten years old.

Here is another interesting thing these scientists have worked out about the growth of muskies. They found that the young fish grew very rapidly up to the sixth summer. Then they showed a very slow rate of growth between the sixth and eighth summers, the time when the majority of fish reach the 30 inch stage. As soon as the 'lunge passed this period of slow growth there was a more marked growth thereafter.

It's an Interesting Study.

The study to determine the age of fishes is a mighty interesting one. The scientists have learned that age may be figured by means of the scales. The scales are formed when the fish is very small and their number remains constant. As the fish develops the scales grow in order to keep the body covered. Naturally both the body of the fish and the scales grow during the summer. In winter there is very little or no growth.

This retardation of fish growth in winter is recorded on each scale in the form of a winter ring. By counting these winter rings one can determine the approximate age of the fish.

A fish whose scales show four rings, for example, has passed through four winters and is in the fifth growing season, or fifth summer. Therefore, it would be between four and four and one-half years old, depending upon whether it was caught in early or late summer.

COAST LOYOLA ATTRACTS STARS FROM MIDWEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The freshman football squad at Loyola university of Los Angeles includes several midwest high school stars, one of them being Ed Race, a 185 pound back field man from Pio Nono High school, Milwaukee, Wis.

Vahak Anarit, 170 pound back from Fenger High, Chicago; Ray Briese, 190 pound full back from Rochester, Minn., a lad who appears on the school records as Jack Dempsey, Portage, Wis., and who is 18 years of age and plays tackle, and Babe Agamenoni, end from Virginia, Minn., High school.

When Coach Tom Lieb, former Notre Dame star, came to the local Catholic institution the entire school registration was less than 300 boys. Loyola has prospered in athletics in the last three years, however, and the incoming freshman class exceeds 200.

RAIN POSTPONES SCRIMMAGE FOR DE PAUL ELEVEN

Yesterday's rain drove the De Paul university football team indoors and the scheduled scrimmage was postponed until this afternoon. Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connors instead delivered a chalk talk on what to expect from Omaha in the opening game Saturday.

Intercollegiate champion of Nebraska and defeated in only one contest in two years, Omaha will be far from the easy opposition usually found on opening day.

Today's scrimmage will be used by the coaches to determine at least three starting assignments, so keen has been the competition for these positions.

VICTORY IN MUD TABS MR. JAMES AS FUTURE GREAT

Juvenile Impresses Race Folk at Homewood.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The race horse folk are going to hear something about a colt called Mr. James as a three year old next year if all goes well.

Mr. James was on display in the mud and the rain before 5,500 spectators at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. And what a mud splashing show he gave the race regulars!

His outing came in the Blue Island purse, a dash at six furlongs which engaged some of the best juveniles in the west. Few races were run under more difficult conditions. Rain splattered into the eyes of the five starters. The track was water soaked and the mud flew in every direction.

Away Fast from Barrier.

Mr. James delayed the start for a few minutes, but when the barrier lifted he was away winging. A son of St. James-Wonderful One, he resembles Jamestown, the great star of a few seasons back, in almost every part of his makeup. He also ran like Jamestown did when he was in his prime.

Mr. James made the pace from the beginning. He shook off challenges from Luna Bright and Penncote and sailed past the winning post a length and a quarter in front of Luna Bright, which beat Penncote out of second money by a head.

Mr. James ran the six furlongs over the sloppy track and in the rainstorm in 1:14 4-5, which was quite remarkable. He was going stronger than any of his rivals when it ended, indicating that a distance will be to his liking. His race in the mud was all that he needed to prove he may be one of the good juveniles of the year. He proved his ability over a fast track early in the season in Kentucky.

Shelved by Injury.

Mr. James gave so much promise in those races that he was made eligible for most of the rich 2 year old stakes decided in Chicago this year. When he was ready to step into action a training injury put him on the shelf. Only recently has he come back to show the sparkling form which marked his early spring engagements.

Mr. James was bred on the Kentucky farm maintained by Roy Carruthers, executive director of the Arlington Park Jockey club. Mr. Carruthers leased the colt for the season to C. C. Van Meter, noted owner and breeder from Kentucky. He will come back into Mr. Carruthers' possession next spring unless the lease is extended. Mr. Carruthers was at Washington Park yesterday and was happy over the way Mr. James performed.

Mr. James didn't get much consideration from the players in the Blue Island. They backed Penncote with great confidence until she became the even money favorite. Penncote had no excuses. Jockey Wright gave her a marvelous ride, saved ground on the turns and drove her in rousing fashion down the stretch. She simply couldn't catch the flying Mr. James and finally gave up the chase, surrendering second money to Luna Bright in the last stride.

Penncote Consistent Juvenile.

In the betting Mr. James paid $13.70 to win, $6.22 to place, and $3.32 to show. Luna Bright paid $3.58 to place and $2.54 to show. Penncote was at $2.30 to show.

Very Well, from Alderman John Coughlin's stable, won the second best race on the program. It was at six furlongs. She took the lead heading into the stretch and refused to let any of the others get close to her. It was her second victory in the last couple of weeks. Very Well was the favorite and beat Concisus by three lengths while Speedy Charlie was third.

EVEN PLAY took a short lead when racing wide on stretch turn and, continuing resolutely under strong handling to end, just lasted. COTTON CLUB, best and forced to lose much ground, closed stronger of all and barely failed to get up. HER HERO, beginning fast, saved ground much of the trip and held on stubbornly. DURGA held on well.

MR. JAMES, beginning very fast and drawing clear within a few strides, increased his advantage on stretch turn and, while not seriously menaced, was under brisk pressure the final eighth. LUNA BRIGHT bore out on the turn and, closing resolutely, wore down PENNCOTE in closing strides. SPEEDY CHARLIE was under hustling tactics after three-eighths and weakened after reaching final eighth.

Winner trained by F. F. Brant. Went to post at 4:53. At post 3¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

FLAT ROCK, on inside throughout and slightly forced back on far turn, stood pressure gamely and, taking command in final eighth, was safe from GIBBY'S CHOICE. Latter raced wide almost throughout but, well handled, closed with a rush. HEADS UP, slow to begin and also raced wide and far back the first half-mile, closed strongest of all.

The woman, Ida Seigelbaum, suffered amputation of her left leg in mid-thigh and was in a critical condition. Her friend, Hyman Furman, 53 years old, got a few lacerations on the head. After treatment he was charged with felonious assault.

A special officer saw the couple pacing up and down, awaiting a train. When a train did pull in the woman was standing with her back to the tracks. Furman threw his arms around the woman, and leaped. The woman screamed and shouted "Don't!"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—The listed bond market closed steady to firm today in total dealings which slightly exceeded 10 million dollars. United States government bonds and leading foreign loans closed higher, with strength in New York transportation issues a feature of domestic corporation bonds. On the average utility and industrial bonds finished slightly higher and railroad issues slightly lower.

The net changes in the government issues showed gains of 1-32d to 8-32ds points, with the exception of the first Liberty 4¼s, which sold off 4-32ds, and the Liberty 3½s and the treasury 3¼s, which held unchanged. The turnover for the group amounted to $1,301,000.

German Bonds Advance.

German bonds again featured the foreign group with substantial recoveries, of which the principal ones amounted to a point or two, reflecting the gains in German bonds on the Berlin bourse as a result of the reichsbank's open market buying policy. French government and municipal loans were generally higher, as was the case with Dutch East Indies loans. Scandinavian issues were firm. Latin-American issues showed minor irregularities for the most part.

The principal setbacks in domestic railroad bonds occurred chiefly in the speculative issues, although a scattering of issues legal for investment by savings banks and trust funds in this state lost a point or more on the day.

North Western Strong.

One of the strongest spots in the list was formed by the obligations of the Chicago and North Western as a result of the announcement of operation of the road's bond refunding plan.

Price movements were irregularly higher in the curb bond list. Among the principal gainers in the active issues were Gobel 6½s, series A, due 1935, up 6¼, and Baldwin Locomotive 6s, due 1938, up 2½.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bancamerica-Blair corporation and Wertheim & Co., are offering an issue of $553,000 City of Utica, New York 4.40 per cent bonds, due 1934-1953.

Ohio Public Service.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information in regard to Ohio Public Service bonds, 7½s of 1946, as I would invest in it if it is all right.—G. M. E.

Answer: Ohio Public Service company is a subsidiary of Cities Service Power and Light company, part of the Cities Service system. It furnishes electricity to Sandusky, Lorain, and more than 120 other Ohio communities having a population estimated at 365,000. It also operates 70 miles of street and interurban railway lines.

The company operates in an industrialized territory, iron and steel companies being the predominant lines. Its rate of operations is therefore dependent largely on the degree of business activity.

For the 12 months to June 30, 1933, operating revenues dropped about 12 per cent from the preceding 12 months. Fixed charges, before depreciation, were earned 2.31 times, against 2.74 times for the preceding 12 months.

Fixed charges, after depreciation, were earned 1.88 times in 1932, against 2.31 times in 1931, 3.08 times in 1930, and 2.91 times in 1929. Although dividend payments in 1932 exceeded net income current position was not unsatisfactory. There is no bond maturity prior to Oct. 1, 1937, when $686,000 subsidiary bonds will come due.

The $26,270,000 first and refunding bonds, all series, are secured by a first mortgage upon a portion of the property and by a direct mortgage lien on the remainder, subject to prior liens of $1,171,000. They are considered a business man's investment.

Allied Mills, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Please give me any information you have in regard to Allied Mills.—A. S. T.

Answer: Allied Mills, Inc., was established in 1929 to acquire one company organized in 1909 and another established in 1917. It manufactures a general line of feed for live stock.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1933, net income was $382,000, or 43 cents per share on 882,394 no par common shares, against net of $209,000, or 22 cents per share on 948,931 common shares, for the preceding year. Net for the 1931 year was $22,000, against $357,000 for the year ended June 30, 1930.

Current assets on June 30, 1933, were $2,815,000, and current liabilities were $339,000. During the twelve months to June 30, 1933, cash dropped from $1,231,000 to $138,000 and inventories increased from $606,000 to $2,009,000.

EDISON, PUBLIC SERVICE PLAN CLOSER UNITY

2 Chicago Utilities May Shift Stock.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stockholders of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois in the near future will be presented with a plan for closer unification of the two big electric utilities in the Chicago district, according to well authenticated reports in La Salle street yesterday.

The plan, it is understood, is to be given first to the Illinois commerce commission for its tentative approval after which it is to be voted upon at a meeting of the stockholders of Commonwealth Edison. The latter will be called upon to decide whether to authorize issuance of additional stock to be exchanged for outstanding common stock of Public Service.

The exchange of stock, it is reported, would be on the basis of two shares of Commonwealth Edison for every three shares of Public Service. The rate of exchange, however, has not yet been definitely decided upon.

Actual Merger Not Planned.

The management of the two companies for some time have been known to have been considering a closer unification. No merger is contemplated, according to well informed sources of information, nor does the program point to a complete merger at any time in the future.

Stockholders of Public Service who are not willing to accept the exchange offer may retain their present holdings without being disturbed. Nor does the plan affect holders of preferred stock of that company or holders of bonds of either concern. Each will maintain its separate identity.

Economies in operation impossible under the present setup will be facilitated by a closer control of Public Service by Commonwealth Edison, it is said.

Commonwealth Edison, through its wholly owned subsidiary, Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, already owns between 28 and 30 per cent of the common stock of Public Service. This ownership, plus the fact that the two companies are under common management, has made it possible to work together in the past.

Banks Hold Public Service Stock.

Other sizeable blocks of Public Service stock are in the hands of New York and Chicago banks. These blocks were put up with the banks by the Insull investment companies as security for bank loans several years ago before the Insulls lost control of the operating companies and the present management took them over. The banks, it is believed, would be willing to accept Commonwealth Edison stock in exchange for their holdings of Public Service.

Capitalization of Commonwealth Edison company, including its subsidiary, consists of a bonded debt of $195,000,000 and 1,623,150 shares of $100 par capital stock. This stock closed yesterday on the Chicago stock exchange at $42.75 per share, a decline of $4.75 for the day. This drop was attributed to omission of dividend by Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and fears that Commonwealth Edison would do likewise. Belief was expressed yesterday in well informed circles that Commonwealth Edison will not omit the regular dividend which is due to be announced this week.

Public Service Capitalization.

Capitalization of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois consists of a funded debt of $130,859,000; 97,015 shares of six per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value; 62,268 shares of seven per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value; 121,284 shares of $100 par common stock and 514,268 shares of no par common.

The regular quarterly dividends on all classes of Public Service stock were declared yesterday as follows: fifty cents each on both classes of common; $1.50 on the six per cent preferred and $1.75 on the seven per cent preferred. All dividends are payable Nov. 1 to holders of record Oct. 14.

Public Service no par common closed yesterday on the Chicago stock exchange at $22.12 per share, an advance of $1.12 per share for the day.

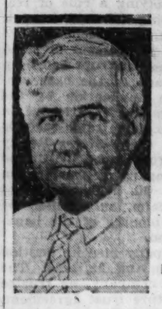
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Big New York banks are being urged to sell their preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation as "a patriotic example" to lesser financial institutions of the country, it was learned today.



JESSE H. JONES.

The larger banks of the country balked outright at the proposal at first. Lately, however, Chairman Jones has been doing a little personal missionary work among them, trying to show them where it would be to their interest to fall in with the plan. He came to New York and talked with a number of leading bankers at a luncheon at the Bankers' club. Among others, he is undersetood to have conferred with representatives of the National City and the Chase National banks, the two largest of the city. What he said to them is, of course, not a matter of record.

Urged to "Show Way."

It is no secret in well informed Wall street circles, however, that pressure is being brought to bear on the officials of both institutions to persuade them "to show the way" to other banks by turning over large blocks of their preferred stock to the RFC.

The smaller banks felt, the New York bankers were told, that it would be something of a stigma for them to turn over their preferred stock in exchange for RFC cash—that it would be interpreted as a sign of weakness. "Leading banks" could therefore make a tremendous contribution to the "new deal" program by setting an example.

While the reply of the bankers here was that such a display of "patriotism" would be highly expensive, since they have more funds in their vaults now than they can find safe investment for, it is said that some of them informed Mr. Jones that they might be willing to turn over a few hundred shares as a gesture of coöperation and support in the administration's recovery program.

Chase May Sell Stock.

The Chase National bank in particular has been making a play as a friend of the administration and the belief in financial circles is that it may agree to hand over a block of its preferred shares for whatever exemplary effect it may be worth. Nobody could be found at either institution today however who would discuss the matter for publication.

The New York state banks, such as the Guaranty Trust, Manufacturers, Central Hanover, Bank of Manhattan, Bank of New York Trust, and Corn Exchange, under the constitution have but one class of stock, and that is common. These banks therefore have no preferred stock to sell. Therefore, they could fall in with the RFC scheme only by turning over debentures in return for government cash. This they are loathe to do, inasmuch as it would compel them to make an RFC loan the first item of their balance sheets.

U. S. NEWSPRINT MAKERS ASK NRA CODE FOR CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Extension of the United States NRA code to the Canadian ewsprint industry in respect to working hours and wages is proposed by the American newsprint manufacturers in informal discussions with Canadian newsprint makers.

The Americans are keenly concerned in the Canadian situation because 85 per cent of Canada's newsprint exports, more than one million tons annually, go to the United States. They not only enter duty free, but for a year or more have been enjoying premium prices, due to depreciation of the Canadian dollar in relation to American currency.

The United States, it is understood, is prepared to place imports of Canadian newsprint on a quota basis and possibly compensate Canadian producers for the higher production costs. It is understood Canadian industrial and political leaders are hesitant about accepting the American's proposal.

"ANY RAGS TODAY?" OLD ALLEY SONG MAY COME UNDER A CODE

That heroic figure of childhood, the old rag man, whom many believed to be the sole surviving "rugged individualist" in a country of growing government regulation, has succumbed to the current fashion for trade agreement and coöperation.

Even rag scavenging has not escaped the ills of overproduction, it seems. Whatever the causes, there have been violent fluctuations in the demand for rags and the rag men are seeking to correct this. Twenty-five dealers convened yesterday at the Sherman hotel at the behest of Ike Cohen, head of the western division of the Associated Rag Industries. They will formulate a program for presentation to the manufacturers of felt roofing which they hope will eliminate violent price fluctuations.

"The NRA has forced our prices up, too," complained George Birkenstein, president of the National Waste Material Dealers' association, "and we have that problem to handle."

Quiz Will Bare Detroit Bank Guilt—Couzens

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26.—(AP)—United States Senator James Couzens tonight told a group of 1,200 depositors in Detroit's two closed national banks that "I am satisfied that a determined effort to get at all the transactions of the bank holding companies and their subsidiaries will convict somebody of crime."

The senator read a long list of loans made by the two banks to members of their own directorates and others, together with comments appended by bank examiners in their reports to officials at Washington.

Included were reports of reputed loans to "a prominent doctor" for $376,000, upon which payments of only $2,000 had been made in six months. Comments by the bank examiners listed various of the loans as "worthless," or "extremely doubtful."

Seeks Cash for Depositors.

Senator Couzens said he plans to return to Washington next week to confer with treasury officials on a plan to release additional cash to depositors. He also said he will make a determined effort to seek legislation to prevent a recurrence of the banking conditions he criticized.

The senator appeared before members of the Michigan Depositors' Protective league in a high school auditorium, and his discourse throughout was punctuated by shouted questions, spirited arguments between members of the audience, and the responses of the senator himself. He never was at a loss in th free-for-all repartee which late in the program threatened to disrupt the meeting.

Says He Didn't Know.

When Senator Couzens replied that he had no access to the bank records and so didn't know them himself the heckler shouted: "You're reputed to be worth 50 million dollars, and if you didn't know what was going on who did?"

A woman asked, "Why not print some new money, senator?" The gray haired, smiling senator, his eyes dancing, shot back:

"Ask Mr. Roosevelt about that!"

Early in his address Senator Couzens referred to a report submitted in 1929 which he said was "just before Mr. Hoover had abolished poverty and perpetuated prosperity."

He indicated that he would urge continued investigation by federal authorities of the bank closing and added: "In my opinion an investigation will disclose the most rotten orgy of consolidation to come to my attention, and I will take it up with the attorney general."

PERJURY CHARGE IS INDICATED IN MORTGAGE CASE

Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered impounded with the clerk of the United States District court records of the Bond and Mortgage company which underwrote bond issues on small apartment buildings and has been in receivership for the last year.

Judge Barnes also instructed the attorney for the receiver to give to the district attorney a transcript of testimony taken before a master in chancery for presentation before the federal grand jury for possible perjury action against E. Ray Grant, former president, and Philip Wallbillig, employé.

Grant and Wallbillig had testified that there was no list of bondholders available. The bondholders' lists were later found among the records.

LIGHT COMPANIES TO AID RECOVERY BY AD CAMPAIGN

An intensive nation-wide advertising campaign is to be opened Oct. 1 by the large electric lighting companies of the country as a part of their effort to help speed recovery under the NRA plan.

These companies hope, through education, to arouse interest in better lighting of stores, offices, industrial plants, and homes, an announcement yesterday stated. Each company will govern the extent of its own sales and educational plan, although the Edison Electric institute will coördinate the effort.

RETAIL EGG PRICES RISE; WALLACE ASKED FOR 'PROFITEER' PROBE

Charging that retail food stores in considerable numbers in Chicago have boosted prices of eggs this week while wholesale egg prices are declining, officers of the Institute of American Poultry Industries last night wired Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to investigate possible "profiteering in eggs."

A survey in several consumer areas of the city yesterday revealed that some stores and door-to-door egg salesmen were charging 33 cents a dozen for eggs which were of the same grade that sold for 27 to 29 cents last Saturday. The Institute pointed out that there are 3 million cases of surplus eggs, all top grade, in storage and that the current wholesale price for fresh eggs in carlots is 17 cents a dozen.

The AAA was also advised that "we are only at the beginning of a systematic fall profiteering in eggs" which the institute believed might cause a curtailing of consumption by consumers that would add to surpluses this fall and wanter. With eggs at 17 cents a dozen wholesale, it was pointed out that a ten cent margin was ample to provide costs of candling, grading, packaging and still leave 6 to 8 cents a dozen profit for the retailer.

BRITAIN OFFERS BOND EXCHANGE AT LOWER RATE

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Taking advantage of the exceptional cheapness of money, and to provide for approaching maturities, the British treasury tonight announced a further step in the long series of loan conversions.

On Thursday there will be issued a new £150,000,000 2½ per cent conversion issue, redeemable from 1944 to 1949, at a price of 94 per cent. One object of the loan is to provide for the redemption of £51,000,000 4½ per cent treasury bonds on Feb. 1 next. Holders are offered the right of conversion into a new loan at 106 pounds 7 shillings 6 pence for each 100 pound nominal bond surrendered.

Through the conversion of this £51,000,000 the taxpayer will be saved nearly £1,000,000 yearly.

The terms of the new issue make no mention of the purpose to which the £100,000,000 not required for redemption of the 4½ per cent bonds will be devoted. But it is recalled that on April 15 next the treasury has the right to repay £105,000,000 of 4 per cent treasury bonds. Financial circles suggest the remainder of the proceeds of the present issue may be devoted to this purpose.

Asylum Haven for Inflation Shocked Vet

C. F. Childs, head of C. F. Childs & Co., who recently returned from a European trip, tells an inflation story which he says is a favorite with German bankers.

A few years after the war, according to this story, a certain German soldier who had been shellshocked was released from a German asylum pronounced cured. His entire capital was twenty marks in gold which he offered to the taxi driver whose cab he took at the door of the asylum. On the way the driver stopped at the bank, changed the gold into paper currency, at that time in process of being drastically inflated. The driver presented his fare with three armloads of currency.

"Never mind going on," said the former inmate. "Take me back to the nut house."

Crop reduction schemes are old stuff. To be exact, they are 4,000 years old, according to O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm adviser.

"Moses beat Wallace to it by saying 4,000 years ago: 'The seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land. Thou shalt neither sow thy field nor prune thy vineyard.'"

An increase in goiter operations on life insurance salesmen is expected as a result of an experience recounted in National Underwriter, an insurance magazine. A salesman was being operated on for goiter. The doctor instructed him to talk during the operation so he could know whether he was approaching a certain nerve. The patient launched into an insurance sales talk. He did such a good job that when the operation was completed he had landed not only the surgeon but the attending nurse.

Many thousands of visitors are flocking to the stockyards daily as a side trip in seeing the World's Fair. Seeing live stock sell in carload lots, slaughtered, dressed, cut into the various kinds of meat, as well as learning how canning is done on a large scale, usually amazes them, which isn't surprising considering Chicago has been the world's largest packing center for many years. According to packers, the number of visitors at the yards has increased every day since the Fair opened.

Not one in 100 persons visiting the yards realizes what an immense volume the packing houses are capable of handling. In answer to questions they find that in a single day the Chicago yards have handled as many as 49,128 cattle, 122,749 hogs, and 71,792 sheep. The annual receipts have been as high as 3,789,922 cattle, 10,460,134 hogs, and 6,055,546 sheep.

37 RAILROADS REPORT INCOME 109% OVER 1932

August Traffic Far Above Last Year.

The total August net operating income of the first 37 railroads to report on their business showed an increase of 109.7 per cent over the total for August, 1932, and of 10.9 per cent over the total for the same month in 1931. In July the increase over the same month in 1932 was 433.3 per cent.

A total of $26,679,000 was reported by the roads for August compared with $27,983,000 in July.

Gross operating revenues in August totaled $121,919,000, compared with $104,521,000 and $147,673,000 in 1932 and 1931 respectively. Gross for July, 1933, was $121,411,000.

New York Central Gains.

An August net operating income of $4,403,736 was reported by the New York Central, an increase of $1,806,107 over August, 1932. For the first eight months of 1933 net operating income totaled $21,426,867, an increase of $11,505,699 over the corresponding period in 1932.

The sharp upturn in traffic continues to be reflected in the income report of the Milwaukee road. For August the road had a net operating income of $1,194,117, compared with $237,280 last year, an increase of $956,837. Gross operating revenue was $8,360,183, compared with $7,527,642. For the eight months ended Aug. 31 net operating income was $5,479,838, compared with a deficit of $3,867,091 for the same period of 1932.

Great Northern Benefited.

August net operating income of $2,384,166 was reported by the Great Northern, compared with $362,392 in the same month last year. For the first eight months net operating income stood at $5,421,869, compared with a deficit of $3,701,161 last year.

After all charges it was indicated that the Great Northern had a profit of around $825,000 in August, while that of the Northern Pacific was $325,000.

The Norfolk and Western yesterday was reported as having more than earned this year's dividend of $8 per share on the common stock in the first eight months. The road had a profit of $3,120,024 in August after bond interest, against $1,485,457 a year ago.

Chicago to Ignore N. Y. in Stock Drive

Plans for the expansion and improvement of Chicago's security exchange facilities will be pushed aggressively, despite the step of the New York City administration in discarding its plan to levy further heavy taxes on stock transfers and revenue of brokerage firms. This was determined yesterday as plans went ahead on two fronts for strengthening Chicago's claim as a financial center.

Governors of the Chicago Association of Stock Exchange Firms met yesterday to study the data supplied by member houses on the business originating in this area which may be diverted from the New York to the Chicago exchange.

Governors See Bright Prospect.

"The governors were enthusiastic about the possibility of improving markets in our securities," Thaddeus R. Benson, president of the association, said last night. "The returns so far received are very significant and indicate tremendous prospects."

Informal discussion on the possibility of healing the old differences between the Chicago Stock exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade and reaching an agreement on a consolidation plan was also carried on. Peter B. Carey, president of the Board of Trade, said that the matter had not been discussed officially.

Sentiment in the grain trade is divided on the question of such a merger. Serious complications arise from the conflicting rules of the two exchanges and the allegiance which many of the members of both markets owe to the New York Stock exchange.

See Advantage in Merger.

There is a strong feeling, however, that such a consolidation would bring Chicago nearer to leadership in financial and security trading than any other development. Seats on both exchanges are currently selling near $10,000.

The Chicago Association of Commerce committee, headed by Mark Brown, which is trying to build up all of the city's markets, will continue its drive, it was asserted yesterday. The group is concentrating on the goal of getting 50 large middle western and western corporations to list their securities on the Chicago exchanges.

The efforts of the Association of Exchange Firms will be directed toward improving the markets in shares already listed. A meeting of all members of the association has been called to consider the data gathered by the governors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—The dollar declined and then rallied today, ending with moderate net gains in terms of all important foreign exchanges. The treasury's daily selling price for newly mined gold, which was based on the lower quotations for the dollar earlier in the day, rose 19 cents above Monday's quotation to $31.40 an ounce. The gold value of the dollar, in terms of the franc, however, rose 22 points net on the day to 65.79 cents.

Sterling finished ½ cent lower at $4.74, the franc was down 2 points to 5.95½ cents, the belga dropped 5 points to 21.30 cents, and the Swiss franc 16 points to 29.48 cents.

Canadian dollars were 1-15 cent down at 97⅝ cents.

Kenwood State Bank Will Pay 10% to Its Depositors

A payment of 10 per cent, aggregating $25,500, will be paid Oct. 5 to depositors of the Kenwood State bank, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett said yesterday. It will be the first dividend to be paid by the bank, which closed in June, 1932.

O'BRIEN VETOES STOCK TAX TO KEEP EXCHANGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Mayor John P. O'Brien announced late this afternoon that he had vetoed the bills which would have imposed a tax of 4 cents a share on stock transfers and a tax of 5 per cent on net receipts of brokerage houses. He acted a short time after receiving a formal promise from Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, that the exchange would abandon its plan to move to New Jersey if the mayor would kill the two tax bills.

MAYOR J. P. O'BRIEN. [Acme Photo.]

On Mr. Whitney's recommendation the governing committee of the exchange passed a resolution advising the governing committee of the New Jersey exchange to take the step. Since both governing committees have the same personnel, the group, sitting again as the New Jersey board, voted affirmatively once more.

O'Brien Explains Veto.

Mayor O'Brien issued a long memorandum explaining why he vetoed the two measures, which were expected to provide $10,000,000 in new revenue for unemployment relief. He confessed that he was facing a situation beyond his control and he had no suggestion on where the $10,000,000 in new income might be raised.

By abandoning the two stock taxes the mayor virtually halves the $24,700,000 revenue program worked out by Samuel Untermyer as financial adviser to the city. Mr. Untermyer had recommended that the stock and brokerage taxes be dropped in a statement made to the mayor last Monday. Mr. Untermyer based his recommendation on the fact that if the exchange moved the state would lose $30,000,000 in revenue it now derives from the state stock transfer tax of 4 cents a share.

The mayor's action bears directly on the city's position with relation to its bankers. The bankers have failed to give any assurance that the city will get the $7,000,000 loan for which it has applied.

Need $25,000,000 for Pay Rolls.

The city needs $25,000,000 by Friday to meet its current expenses and the Oct. 1 pay rolls, but the bankers have made no move toward advancing that money. The city hopes, however, that its withdrawal of the stock taxes will pacify the bankers and avert payless pay days for the 140,000 city workers.

The city is so hard up that the flow of warrants authorizing contract payments has stopped entirely for the last week or ten days. Contractors have not been paid and the money owing to them has been used for current expenses.

Holders of more than 91% of Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Railroad Company 6% Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, due October 1, 1933, have accepted the offer of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company to pay 50% of the principal amount of the Bonds, with accrued interest, in cash, and to deliver in payment of the remaining 50%, a like amount of its General Mortgage 5% Bonds due November 1, 1987, or interim certificates entitling the holder to exchange the same in amounts aggregating $1,000, or multiples thereof, for said Bonds.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Company anticipates that the remaining Fremont Bonds will be exchanged when the Plan is put into effect, and has, therefore, with the approval of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, declared the Plan operative.

Because the money to be advanced by Reconstruction Finance Corporation is available only for the payment of 50% in cash to assenting Bond holders, the Chicago and North Western Railway Company is not in a position to offer any other terms to Bond holders who do not assent to the Plan.

Bond holders should surrender their Bonds to the Treasurer of the

Sen. Black Hints 'Favors' Go to Officials.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Testimony that the shipping board spent $1,825,718 in repairing eighteen ships that were sold to the Export Steamship corporation for $1,071,431, and that a Hoover cabinet member approved a loan extension to the company when its liabilities were $3,952,000 and assets of $1,172,199, was received today by a senate investigating committee.

Henry Herberman of New York, president of the company, told the committee the board had agreed to put the ships in first class condition for sale.

He denied an earlier statement by Senator Black [Dem., Ala.] that Herberman had paid a $510 tailor bill for T. V. O'Connor, former chairman of the shipping board.

O'Connor's Secretary Buys Land.

Coming into the committee room late in the day to testify in the newly opened inquiry into ocean mail contracts and shipping board operations, Herberman said in reply to questions that he had arranged for Mrs. Mini G. Irvine, secretary to O'Connor, to buy some property for him during the Florida land boom.

Herberman said he had sent a shipment of cattle to a Mr. Pattiana in California, and that Pattiana was the father-in-law of R. D. Gatewood, a naval commander assigned to the shipping board in charge of construction and repair of ships.

The witness also said he advanced between $15,000 and $16,000 to the Pattiana ranch in California to prevent foreclosure of a mortgage by a bank because he thought it was a "good investment."

Sought Loan Extension.

Earlier, E. V. Neven, treasurer of the Export Steamship company, testified that after the line had borrowed funds from the shipping board to build four ships for the Atlantic-Mediterranian trade to cost more than $2,000,000 each, it had sought an extension of the loans.

Senator Black asked him if the request had been placed before the Hoover cabinet and the witness replied that he understood it had. Black said this was after Controller Parmalee of the shipping board had submitted a report that the export company owed three dollars for every one it owned.

The Alabaman presented the report which said the export company had liabilities of $3,952,000 and assets of $1,172,199, and then read from a letter saying Secretary Lamont wrote that he saw no objection to the extension of the construction loans on the ships.

Denies Paying Tailor Bill.

It was during the testimony of William D. McLaughlin of West Hampton, Long Island, former treasurer of the company, that Black sought to obtain a statement that Herberman had paid a $510 tailor bill for O'Connor.

"It's my recollection one of the boys in the office was told that the bill was to be paid," McLaughlin said. He added that he thought it was H. J. Fahey who paid the bill and said he assumed the fund came from the Steers Terminal company, also controlled by Herberman.

When Herberman was questioned about the bill he answered: "For Mr. O'Connor? I never paid a bill in my life for Mr. O'Connor."

STOCKS DROP ON SELLING AFTER EARLY FIRMNESS

Roosevelt's Rail Plan Aids Steels, Equipments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Prices receded further in dull trading on the stock exchange today. The list showed some inclination to advance in the early dealings but turned sharply downward with the break in wheat and net losses of 1 to 5 or more points were suffered by a good proportion of the more active issues.

In the absence of constructive news of any account, the early advance was ascribed to technical conditions within the market itself. The volume fell off to about 1,435,000 shares.

Steel, rail equipment and New York Traction shares stood out in the generally wabbly list. United States, Bethlehem, Crucible, and other issues of the steel group finished the day with small net gains in spite of the selling tide which swept nearly every other group to the minus side of the column.

Roosevelt Plan Helps Issues.

The play on these issues was obviously due to the announced plan of President Roosevelt to lend the railroads money with which to buy rails and possibly more equipment provided the roads were willing to buy if they need rails and provided further that they actually need the rails and other equipment to handle traffic in sight. U. S. Steel crossed 50 in the first hour or so of trading but the afternoon backset dragged it down to a closing price of 48½.

The demand for New York Traction issues grew out of a growing conviction in Wall street that the companies are due to benefit from increased fares before the present city tax muddle straightens itself out.

Since the subways have been operated at a heavy deficit ever since they were built, an increased fare or a city tax on transit fares has long been held as one way out of the dilemma.

Peoples Gas Stock Breaks.

One of the outstanding selling targets of the day was Peoples Gas, the big Chicago utility, which dropped 8½ points on news of its dividend omission. The stock, which was selling a few weeks ago at 78, closed at 34½, a new low for the year. Consolidated Gas and other utilities drifted down with the general list. American Telephone, the big time leader of the department, finished the session at 122⅝, off 2⅝.

Mining issues had a difficult day. United States Smelting dropped more than 5 points with the "good news" out on its extra dividend. Homestake Mining receded about as much as the dollar showed further inclination to brace up on the foreign exchange.

PACIFIC EASTERN HOLDERS ACCEPT OFFER ON CLAIMS

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Pacific Eastern corporation, formerly the Goldman, Sachs Trading corporation, tonight approved acceptance of $85,000 in cash and 100,000 shares of the corporation's stock from Goldman, Sachs & Co., New York bankers, and $40,000 in cash from Ralph Jonas, New York attorney, in full settlement of all claims the corporation might have against them.

The vote was 3,041,517 in favor of approval; 10,178 shares against, and 39,792 shares not voting. The special meeting of stockholders, which began yesterday, adjourned tonight. It was attended by upward of a score of attorneys.

Under a modified injunction issued by the New York courts, the directors of the corporation cannot grant leases to Goldman, Sachs and Jonas until further orders of the court. Modification of the original injunction only permitted submission of the matter to the stockholders for their action.

WEEK'S EXPORTS OF GRAIN DOWN TO 289,000 BUSHELS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 289,000 bushels, against 344,000 bushels the previous week and 507,000 bushels during the corresponding week of last year.

NEW TRADE PACT FOR ARGENTINA, BRITAIN SIGNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 26.—A customs accord supplementary to the Anglo-Argentine treaty of May 1 was formally signed tonight. The agreement stipulates maximum duties on more than 300 manufactures in which Great Britain is most interested.

The new schedule implies reductions on wool and cotton textiles, heavy machinery, steel manufactures, and certain classifications of automobiles. It also stipulates that no increase in duties shall be made in a large range of articles and declares the present emergency allround surtax of 10 per cent is to be abolished as soon as circumstances permit.

SOLUTION TO FORDNEY'S TALK TO THE ROOKIES

Rookie Balston was quick to spot the impossible in Fordney's story. Had the professor found the Russian hanging, as he said, the noose (which is a slipknot) would have been tight around the man's neck. Fordney said he removed the loose noose. An impossibility.
